Ike Resists Isle Defense Pledge Pressure

Feels Danger Of Red Attack Overstressed

President Apparently Hopes For Peaceful Solution To Problem

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower is resisting pressures from some top military advisers to make a firm, final decision now to defend the Chinese coastal islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

He is described as convinced that the danger of a Chinese Red assault on the Nationalist offshore positions is not as urgent as men like Adm. Robert Carney, chief of naval operations, have been reported to believe it is.

Eisenhower apparently holds to the hope that in the long run his basic aim of a peaceful settlement of the whole Formosa conflict will be achieved. To that end he appears determined to keep his plans fluid and subject to change as long as possible.

No-More-Retreats Policy

Eisenhower, Carney, Secretary of State Dulles and many other high government leaders are described, in general, as feeling that the United States cannot permit any more retreats of free nation forces in Asia under military pressure from the Chinese Reds.

They feel that the forcible Communist conquest of Matsu and Quemoy, for example, would cost the United States greatly in prestige throughout Asia and shake the confidence of nations which base their policies on American friendship and support.

Nevertheless, persons familiar with Eisenhower's thinking said today that his basic aim in considering all possible courses of action is to find a peaceful solution if possible. They said he would fight only if compelled to do so and would make a further and more precise definition of American policy in the area only if persuaded that it would advance major American interests there.

New Pressures Indicated

Evidence of new pressures on the President to define a new and sharper U.S. position on the Quemoy-Matsu issue became available last Saturday. It came with publication of reports emanating from a private meeting Thursday night between Adm. Carney and a group of newsmen.

These reports presented the view that the Chinese Communists probably would attack Matsu around mid-April and that this could mean a conflict between the United States and Red China. The reports implied that the situation was considered so serious and urgent that Eisenhower and the policymaking National Security Council were moving swiftly on new and final decisions on how the United States should react.

Plane Runs Wild, Killing One Man

GREENVILLE, Miss., March 29 (AP)—A C46 transport plane ran wild on the flightline today, destroying a jet, itself and a snack bar.

A flight instructor was killed and four other men injured.

Greenville Air Force Base officials said a crew chief named O'Donnell told them he was "running up the engines" when the plane tore loose from its moorings and got away from him.

The plane then plowed into a jammed snack bar, setting it afire and injuring Karl E. Livingston, a civilian, Airman Morris E. Anderson, and O'Donnell.

TROUBLE SPOT — Map locates Saigon, the capital of Viet Nam, where mortar shells were fired into the grounds of the palace of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem yesterday by a private army of ex-pirates. Government forces rallied and replied with a counterattack led by tanks and artillery. Diem was asked to resign by rebellious leaders of private armies.

Dulles Declares Pacts Strengthen West For Talks

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today that with Western unity now "an irreversible reality" the time is approaching for what could be "useful" discussions between the free world powers and Russia.

Dulles did not predict just when the United States and its major Allies might get together with the Soviet Union. He said any such top-level meeting requires infinite planning and is certainly months away.

World disarmament and German reunification might well be on the agenda for any Big Four conference, he added. Both questions have been prime topics of Communist propaganda, if not action.

Red Diplomacy Fails

Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Russia seems ready to adjust to the reality of Western unity after failing to block it. Russian opposition in this sphere, he said, resulted in "the greatest failure in Soviet diplomacy that has yet occurred."

Of the Paris accords to rearm West Germany within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Dulles said:

"The Soviet Union exhaused every means at its command short of open war to try to prevent the result now before you. They have failed."

Dulles urged the committee to approve promptly the two treaties before it. One would restore West German sovereignty, the other would admit her as the 15th member of NATO.

Approval This Week Seen

The committee, whose Chairman Sen. George (D-Ga) has predicted speedy ratification, took up the treaties today, three days after the big hurdle of French parliamentary approval was cleared. the United States, Belgium, Netherlands, Luxembourg and Denmark have yet to give their okay—but in each case it is a foregone conclusion.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California, a committee member, said today the Senate will hold extra sessions Saturday if necessary to complete action on the agreements this week. He said floor discussions should start tomorrow.

Hunger Bears Down On Eight Rebel Convicts

Holdout Prisoners, Hostages Without Food Since Sunday

LINCOLN, Neb., March 29 (AP)—Patience was at a premium at the Nebraska State penitentiary tonight as everyone sat or walked about waiting for a "break" in the rebellion of eight prisoners.

The prisoners were in the prison jail—a brightly painted square three-story building bathed in spotlight rays. With them waited two guards seized as hostages at the start of the rebellion Sunday and a third inmate described as a "prisoner of the prisoners."

On the walls of the prison and in the offices, a reinforced group of state safety patrolmen and guards watched and waited for any sign from the jail building. With them waited Gov. Victor Anderson.

It was Anderson who initiated the waiting game and his ace card was hunger. The prisoners and the guards have not eaten since Sunday breakfast.

Governor's Proposal

Anderson was depending on hunger to bring the insurgents to accede to his proposal they release the guards and then sit down with him to talk over a list of nine grievances sent to him. He said that if any harm befell the guards, all eight insurgents would be held equally responsible.

The governor doubled the patrol forces when troopers earlier said they saw one of the prisoners peering out a window while wearing a navy blue cap and dark grey shirt of a captive guard.

Notes Exchanged

This afternoon, for the second time, the insurgents and the governor exchanged notes.

"Still waiting to give verbal clarification of our grievances if you so desire," said the prisoners' note, referring to a list of nine grievances submitted earlier with a request that the governor talk to the convicts through a window of their hold-out building.

The note brought a quick reply from the governor—a refusal to confer until the captive guards are released unharmed.

"I will grant all of you an interview today after you have had food and fresh clothing," said the reply. "Further delay will be of no benefit to any of you convicts."

Locomotive Hits Record 207 MPH

PARIS, March 29 (AP)—A French electric locomotive streaked down the track at a record speed of 207 miles an hour today.

The blunt-nosed prototype locomotive weighing 80 tons broke the record of 200 miles an hour set only yesterday by a stock locomotive on the same level stretch of track between Bordeaux and Dax in Southwest France.

The engine pulled three cars carrying observers and railway officials and a mass of instruments to record the tests.

16 Nations Accept

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 29 (AP)—The U.N. said today 16 countries had accepted an invitation to attend its world conference on atoms-for-peace in Geneva next Aug. 8-20.

First Atom Double Feature Staged At Nevada Test Site

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 29 (AP)—For the first time, two atomic devices were exploded in one day today. One was a whopper heard "like thunder" 170 miles away, the other a pink-tinted shot dropped from a plane five hours later.

The nuclear double feature roared its opening when a device estimated to equal 20,000 tons of TNT reduced its 500-foot tower to stubs of twisted metal.

It gave Las Vegas a mild jolt and appeared similar in force to the other major test of the spring series, held last March 7. But because of overcast skies it was less spectacular, being seen in only five states. The previous spectacle was seen border to border throughout the West.

Six hundred soldiers crouched in trenches 3,500 yards away on the Yucca Flat test site. Then they went in to look at the large amount of military equipment exposed to it.

They had to clear out promptly, however, for the air burst dropped from a B36 bomber flying at more than 15,000 feet.

It exploded at about 5,000 feet and appeared as a quick yellow flash, followed by a cloud tinted with pink in the bright desert sun. It was similar to the test that opened the spring series last Feb. 18 but was much brighter.

The tower shot was about equal to the atomic bomb that devastated Hiroshima. The Atomic Energy Commission said its fireball was about 1,000 feet in diameter.

U. N. Council Condemns Israel

Just Like The Old Days

A ring of string and a bag of marbles brought Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), left, and Rep. M. G. (Burnie) Burnside (D-WVa) to their knees in the senator's office yesterday for a game of marbles—a pose which recalls almost every boy's younger days. The two legislators have introduced bills designed to protect the marble-making industry.

Russia Joins In Voting Censure For Gaza Attack

38 Egyptians Died In Border Incident

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. March 29 (AP)—The U.N. Security Council condemned Israel by a unanimous vote late today for the Gaza incident in which 38 Egyptians and eight Israelis were killed.

Russia joined in supporting the censure proposed by the United States, Britain and France. Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev, however, said the Council should go further and take measures to prevent such incidents in future.

Egypt Sought Punishment

Egypt had demanded that the U.N. punish Israel.

The 11-nation Council still had before it another Western resolution. This dealt with the general border tension and called for the cooperation of Israel and Egypt with the U.N. truce chief, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, in restoring peace along the border.

Egypt's Omar Loutfi aid the Council's condemnation of Israel was not sufficient. However, he did not press earlier Egyptian demands for strong action under the charter. He said he hoped the Council vote would cause Israel to stop raids across their border.

Israel's Argument

Abba Eban, of Israel, did not speak. He rested on his earlier argument that Israel was forced to act because of a series of incidents in which Egyptians crossed the border and raided Israeli homes and installations.

The resolution called upon Israel to "take all necessary steps to prevent such actions," as the Gaza incident.

M'Carthy Denounces Sen. Neely, Demands He Apologize To Ike

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) accused Sen. Neely (D-WVa) today of assaulting President Eisenhower on the sacred grounds of religion, and pledged the President "my unqualified support."

McCarthy, who has differed with Eisenhower sharply on other matters, demanded that Neely apologize to the President and the people for what he said about Eisenhower's churchgoing, in a speech yesterday at Cleveland.

Neely, a Presbyterian like Eisenhower, told the CIO United Auto Workers convention that Eisenhower never joined a church until he became President. Now, the senator said, Eisenhower gets his picture taken at church nearly every Sunday.

Neely accused the President of making an "ungodly" parade of his religion.

Others Denounce Neely

McCarthy, a Roman Catholic, joined other Republican senators in denouncing Neely. Previously, Sens. Goldwater of Arizona and Allott of Colorado, both Episcopalians, had leaped to the defense of Eisenhower. So also had Sen. Bender (R-Ohio), a former Sunday School teacher and choir leader who attends the same Presbyterian church Eisenhower goes to in Washington.

On the other hands, Americans for Democratic Action commented that "No man, particularly the President of the United States, is above criticism." This political organization of adherents of the Roosevelt-Truman doctrines said the administration has been trying to make it appear that any criticism of the President is "somehow immoral."

Area Of "Common Ground"

McCarthy issued a statement saying he and Eisenhower "happen to differ profoundly on some political issues," and that "these differences have quite properly propelled us into political conflict."

But, he went on, "there remains an area of common ground—of very sacred common ground—on which, when it is assaulted, the President has my unqualified support."

Robert McCormick In Serious Condition

CHICAGO, March 29 (AP) — Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, was reported seriously ill tonight.

Guizado Guilty In Remon Death; Sent To Prison

PANAMA, March 29 (AP)—The National Assembly today found impeached President Jose Ramon Guizado guilty of helping plot the assassination of his predecessor, Jose Antonio Remon. It sentenced him to six years and eight months' imprisonment.

In a session that lasted 14½ hours, the Assembly also formally stripped Guizado of his rank as President and banned him from public office during his prison term for his alleged part in the slaying of Remon at a racetrack the night of Jan. 2.

This means Ricardo Arias Espinosa continues as President until Oct. 1, 1956. He was second vice president and took over as chief executive when Guizado was impeached Jan. 16. The Arias government will decide Guizado's place of imprisonment.

Guizado, whose trial was unprecedented in Latin-American history, maintained his innocence despite the verdict. Dressed in white, he appeared greatly shocked when he learned of the sentence as he sat in his cell at the national guard jail. Prison physicians gave him sedatives.

Guizado is a 56-year-old wealthy civil engineer and contractor who was educated at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn. The Assembly impeached him and ordered him arrested after Ruben Miro, a 43-year-old socially prominent lawyer, confessed he had shot Remon down at fashionable Juan Franco racetrack with Guizado's full knowledge. Miro later repudiated this confession. The impeached President was indicted on the homicide charge Feb. 16.

16,000 Hear Graham

GLASGOW, March 29 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham preached to more than 16,000 persons at Kelvin Hall tonight in a continuation of the All-Scotland Religious Crusade. Stewards reported 373 persons made "decisions for Christ."

Russians Mum On Malenkov's Whereabouts

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 29 (AP)—The Russians kept mum today on a topic of sudden interest in the West: Has something happened to ex-Premier Georgi Malenkov?

Rumors eddied this side of the Iron Curtain that the pudgy little man who resigned the premiership Feb. 8 with a confession of failure has disappeared or been executed.

However, a Swedish power delegation newly returned from a 17-day tour of the Soviet Union reported it received no information which would lead it to believe he has been liquidated.

Malenkov was made minister of Soviet power stations the day after his fall from the premiership and, as such, was technically the Swedes' host. But they never saw him.

Bo G. Rathsman, leader of the delegation, explained:

"At the airport, Soviet Deputy Minister (Alexi) Pavlenko told us his boss, Georgi Malenkov, sent his regrets that he was not able to meet us since he was away from Moscow inspecting a power station. Pavlenko did not say at all where it was."

Senate Figure Dies

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Harold R. Beckley, 57, superintendent of the Senate Press Gallery since 1940, died today in Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, Md., after a brief illness of pneumonia and complications.

Surgeons Part Siamese Twins

CHICAGO, March 29 (AP) — Siamese twin girls—born in the same country as the original Siamese twins—were successfully separated by surgery today.

The 20-months-old twins, Prissana and Napit Polpinyo of Thailand, formerly known as Siam, came through the 3½-hour operation in "excellent" condition.

Surgeons found a common, fused liver, twice the size of an average liver, in the six-inch wide piece of tissue connecting the girls, but it was successfully divided by surgery.

The girls were joined from the lower chest to the abdomen, an area six inches in diameter.

Actress Judy Garland Gives Birth To Son

HOLLYWOOD, March 29 (AP) — Singing star Judy Garland today gave birth to a son on the eve of the Academy awards, in which she is a principal contender.

The actress, up for the top Oscar because of "A Star Is Born," had hoped to forestall the birth until after tomorrow night's event. But her husband, producer Sid Luft, and singer Frank Sinatra had to rush her to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital at 1 a.m. A 5-pound, 8-ounce boy arrived at 2:16 a.m.

The boy, as yet unnamed, has a sister, Lorna, 2. Miss Garland has another daughter, Liza, 7, by her marriage to director Vincente Minnelli.

No Unfavorable Hereditary Effects Noted In Hiroshima

LOS ANGELES, March 29 (AP)—A report on the long-range effects of the atom bomb on Hiroshima disclosed tonight that there have been a few cases of latent damage to survivors but no significant indications of unfavorable hereditary effects on their offspring.

In the hottest zone of the A-blast which devastated the Japanese city 10 years ago there were 185 pregnant women who survived to bear children. Only eight of their youngsters have shown signs of damage, said Dr. Robert H. Holmes, director of the U.S. Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission in Japan.

These eight children were born with heads slightly smaller than average and they had "some degree of mental retardation," Dr. Holmes told a coast-to-coast TV audience.

In 70,000 of the Hiroshima babies there were slightly fewer males than in the general run of population but this could have been due to other factors than the bomb, Dr. Holmes said.

There was some temporary infertility among adult survivors but it disappeared eventually, the physician reported.

Hiroshima's A-bomb children seem healthy and happy, but whether they will develop trouble later or whether their descendants will be affected remains to be seen, Dr. Holmes said.

Adult survivors in the hot zone—an area of a little over a mile radius directly beneath the bomb blast—developed 16 times as much leukemia, a type of blood cancer, as did the general Japanese population, but this meant only 44 cases.

Saigon Battle Erupts After Palace Shelled

Government Troops, Private Army Clash; At Least Six Killed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, Wednesday, March 30 (AP)—A private army of ex-pirates shelled the Premier's palace compound and Nationalist army headquarters in the early morning darkness today.

Government forces were taken by surprise but rallied and replied with a counter-attack led by tanks and artillery.

The sudden attack turned a chronic political crisis into open warfare in the midst of American-led efforts to set up this half of Viet Nam as a bulwark against Asian communism.

The attack was attributed by Viet Nam and French security officials to the Binh Xuyen, one of several private armies operating in South Viet Nam. It is composed of supposedly reformed river pirates.

Six Reported Killed

The Premier's office said three nationalists were killed and 12 wounded in an assault on a police prefecture and the Binh Xuyen lost three killed.

(A French news agency dispatch said about 100 persons were killed or wounded in the initial fighting in Saigon).

Four persons were wounded by six mortar shells that thumped into the spacious palace grounds.

The palace, a massive three-story building, was not hit.

Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, 54, who has stubbornly refused to give in to the Binh Xuyen, was in the palace but was unhurt.

The first shot—five minutes after midnight—sent a mortar shell lobbing into the home of the chief of prefectorial police on the Boulevard Gallieni, three miles from the palace.

Women, Children Wounded

It was launched by a company of Binh Xuyen mobile troops trying to recapture the headquarters, which had been seized by the national army without a fight yesterday.

Four battalions of Nationalist parachute troops turned out to meet the attack. Of the 16 wounded reported in the first count of casualties, many were women and children caught near the prefecture.

Pushed by Nationalist tanks and machine gun fire, the Binh Xuyen retreated slowly to their own area across the Chinese arroyo, half a mile away, as dawn approached.

Boost In Military Pay Is Approved By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Pay raises averaging about 12 per cent for military career men were approved today by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The increases, ranging from 6 to 25 per cent for nearly 1,700,000 servicemen, already have been okayed by the House. Senate Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas announced the measure would be rushed up for action tomorrow with the hope of passing it before nightfall. That raised the possibility of putting the raises into effect April 1.

Technicalities and differences of opinion, however, may stand in the way.

Committee Chairman Russell (D-Ga) said the Senate group made some "minor changes" in the legislation passed by the House. If accepted by the Senate, the entire measure would have to go back to the House for concurrence.

The raises, estimated at some 750 million dollars a year, were proposed by the Pentagon to keep experienced men in uniform. They would go to enlisted men with a minimum of two years' service and officers after three years.

In addition to lifting base pay, the new scales would add to special pay for hazardous duty on submarines, with the paratoops and the like. Personnel of the Public Health Service and Coast and Geodetic Survey would benefit, as well as the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

Goldwater of Arizona and Allott of Colorado, both Episcopalians, had leaped to the defense of Eisenhower. So also had Sen. Bender (R-Ohio), a former Sunday School teacher and choir leader who attends the same Presbyterian church Eisenhower goes to in Washington.

On the other hands, Americans for Democratic Action commented that "No man, particularly the President of the United States, is above criticism." This political organization of adherents of the Roosevelt-Truman doctrines said the administration has been trying to make it appear that any criticism of the President is "somehow immoral."

Area Of "Common Ground"

McCarthy issued a statement saying he and Eisenhower "happen to differ profoundly on some political issues," and that "these differences have quite properly propelled us into political conflict."

But, he went on, "there remains an area of common ground—of very sacred common ground—on which, when it is assaulted, the President has my unqualified support."

Robert McCormick In Serious Condition

CHICAGO, March 29 (AP) — Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, was reported seriously ill tonight.

Guizado Guilty In Remon Death; Sent To Prison

PANAMA, March 29 (AP)—The National Assembly today found impeached President Jose Ramon Guizado guilty of helping plot the assassination of his predecessor, Jose Antonio Remon. It sentenced him to six years and eight months' imprisonment.

In a session that lasted 14½ hours, the Assembly also formally stripped Guizado of his rank as President and banned him from public office during his prison term for his alleged part in the slaying of Remon at a racetrack the night of Jan. 2.

This means Ricardo Arias Espinosa continues as President until Oct. 1, 1956. He was second vice president and took over as chief executive when Guizado was impeached Jan. 16. The Arias government will decide Guizado's place of imprisonment.

Guizado, whose trial was unprecedented in Latin-American history, maintained his innocence despite the verdict. Dressed in white, he appeared greatly shocked when he learned of the sentence as he sat in his cell at the national guard jail. Prison physicians gave him sedatives.

Guizado is a 56-year-old wealthy civil engineer and contractor who was educated at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn. The Assembly impeached him and ordered him arrested after Ruben Miro, a 43-year-old socially prominent lawyer, confessed he had shot Remon down at fashionable Juan Franco racetrack with Guizado's full knowledge. Miro later repudiated this confession. The impeached President was indicted on the homicide charge Feb. 16.

Russians Mum On Malenkov's Whereabouts

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 29 (AP)—The Russians kept mum today on a topic of sudden interest in the West: Has something happened to ex-Premier Georgi Malenkov?

Rumors eddied this side of the Iron Curtain that the pudgy little man who resigned the premiership Feb. 8 with a confession of failure has disappeared or been executed.

However, a Swedish power delegation newly returned from a 17-day tour of the Soviet Union reported it received no information which would lead it to believe he has been liquidated.

Malenkov was made minister of Soviet power stations the day after his fall from the premiership and, as such, was technically the Swedes' host. But they never saw him.

Bo G. Rathsman, leader of the delegation, explained:

"At the airport, Soviet Deputy Minister (Alexi) Pavlenko told us his boss, Georgi Malenkov, sent his regrets that he was not able to meet us since he was away from Moscow inspecting a power station. Pavlenko did not say at all where it was."

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Harold R. Beckley, 57, superintendent of the Senate Press Gallery since 1940, died today in Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, Md., after a brief illness of pneumonia and complications.

Russia Joins In Voting Censure For Gaza Attack

38 Egyptians Died In Border Incident

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. March 29 (AP)—The U.N. Security Council condemned Israel by a unanimous vote late today for the Gaza incident in which 38 Egyptians and eight Israelis were killed.

Russia joined in supporting the censure proposed by the United States, Britain and France. Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev, however, said the Council should go further and take measures to prevent such incidents in future.

Egypt Sought Punishment

Egypt had demanded that the U.N. punish Israel.

The 11-nation Council still had before it another Western resolution. This dealt with the general border tension and called for the cooperation of Israel and Egypt with the U.N. truce chief, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, in restoring peace along the border.

Egypt's Omar Loutfi aid the Council's condemnation of Israel was not sufficient. However, he did not press earlier Egyptian demands for strong action under the charter. He said he hoped the Council vote would cause Israel to stop raids across their border.

Israel's Argument

Abba Eban, of Israel, did not speak. He rested on his earlier argument that Israel was forced to act because of a series of incidents in which Egyptians crossed the border and raided Israeli homes and installations.

The resolution called upon Israel to "take all necessary steps to prevent such actions," as the Gaza incident.

Surgeons Part Siamese Twins

CHICAGO, March 29 (AP) — Siamese twin girls—born in the same country as the original Siamese twins—were successfully separated by surgery today.

The 20-months-old twins, Prissana and Napit Polpinyo of Thailand, formerly known as Siam, came through the 3½-hour operation in "excellent" condition.

Surgeons found a common, fused liver, twice the size of an average liver, in the six-inch wide piece of tissue connecting the girls, but it was successfully divided by surgery.

The girls were joined from the lower chest to the abdomen, an area six inches in diameter.

Actress Judy Garland Gives Birth To Son

HOLLYWOOD, March 29 (AP) — Singing star Judy Garland today gave birth to a son on the eve of the Academy awards, in which she is a principal contender.

The actress, up for the top Oscar because of "A Star Is Born," had hoped to forestall the birth until after tomorrow night's event. But her husband, producer Sid Luft, and singer Frank Sinatra had to rush her to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital at 1 a.m. A 5-pound, 8-ounce boy arrived at 2:16 a.m.

The boy, as yet unnamed, has a sister, Lorna, 2. Miss Garland has another daughter, Liza, 7, by her marriage to director Vincente Minnelli.

No Unfavorable Hereditary Effects Noted In Hiroshima

LOS ANGELES, March 29 (AP)—A report on the long-range effects of the atom bomb on Hiroshima disclosed tonight that there have been a few cases of latent damage to survivors but no significant indications of unfavorable hereditary effects on their offspring.

In the hottest zone of the A-blast which devastated the Japanese city 10 years ago there were 185 pregnant women who survived to bear children. Only eight of their youngsters have shown signs of damage, said Dr. Robert H. Holmes, director of the U.S. Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission in Japan.

These eight children were born with heads slightly smaller than average and they had "some degree of mental retardation," Dr. Holmes told a coast-to-coast TV audience.

In 70,000 of the Hiroshima babies there were slightly fewer males than in the general run of population but this could have been due to other factors than the bomb, Dr. Holmes said.

There was some temporary infertility among adult survivors but it disappeared eventually, the physician reported.

Hiroshima's A-bomb children seem healthy and happy, but whether they will develop trouble later or whether their descendants will be affected remains to be seen, Dr. Holmes said.

Adult survivors in the hot zone—an area of a little over a mile radius directly beneath the bomb blast—developed 16 times as much leukemia, a type of blood cancer, as did the general Japanese population, but this meant only 44 cases.

Saigon Battle Erupts After Palace Shelled

Government Troops, Private Army Clash; At Least Six Killed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, Wednesday, March 30 (AP)—A private army of ex-pirates shelled the Premier's palace compound and Nationalist army headquarters in the early morning darkness today.

Government forces were taken by surprise but rallied and replied with a counter-attack led by tanks and artillery.

The sudden attack turned a chronic political crisis into open warfare in the midst of American-led efforts to set up this half of Viet Nam as a bulwark against Asian communism.

The attack was attributed by Viet Nam and French security officials to the Binh Xuyen, one of several private armies operating in South Viet Nam. It is composed of supposedly reformed river pirates.

Six Reported Killed

The Premier's office said three nationalists were killed and 12 wounded in an assault on a police prefecture and the Binh Xyuen lost three killed.

(A French news agency dispatch said about 100 persons were killed or wounded in the initial fighting in Saigon).

Four persons were wounded by six mortar shells that thumped into the spacious palace grounds.

The palace, a massive three-story building, was not hit.

Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, 54, who has stubbornly refused to give in to the Binh Xuyen, was in the palace but was unhurt.

The first shot—five minutes after midnight—sent a mortar shell lobbing into the home of the chief of prefectorial police on the Boulevard Gallieni, three miles from the palace.

Women, Children Wounded

It was launched by a company of Binh Xuyen mobile troops trying to recapture the headquarters, which had been seized by the national army without a fight yesterday.

Four battalions of Nationalist parachute troops turned out to meet the attack. Of the 16 wounded reported in the first count of casualties, many were women and children caught near the prefecture.

Pushed by Nationalist tanks and machine gun fire, the Binh Xuyen retreated slowly to their own area across the Chinese arroyo, half a mile away, as dawn approached.

Boost In Military Pay Is Approved By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Pay raises averaging about 12 per cent for military career men were approved today by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The increases, ranging from 6 to 25 per cent for nearly 1,700,000 servicemen, already have been okayed by the House. Senate Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas announced the measure would be rushed up for action tomorrow with the hope of passing it before nightfall. That raised the possibility of putting the raises into effect April 1.

Technicalities and differences of opinion, however, may stand in the way.

Committee Chairman Russell (D-Ga) said the Senate group made some "minor changes" in the legislation passed by the House. If accepted by the Senate, the entire measure would have to go back to the House for concurrence.

The raises, estimated at some 750 million dollars a year, were proposed by the Pentagon to keep experienced men in uniform. They would go to enlisted men with a minimum of two years' service and officers after three years.

In addition to lifting base pay, the new scales would add to special pay for hazardous duty on submarines, with the paratoops and the like. Personnel of the Public Health Service and Coast and Geodetic Survey would benefit, as well as the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

Meany 'Rooting' For UAW In Guaranteed Pay Drive

CIO Auto Union Hears AFL Boss

CLEVELAND, March 29 (AP)—AFL President George Meany said today he's "rooting" for the CIO United Auto Workers in their drive for a guaranteed annual wage.

And he said he didn't think "there is any doubt" but what AFL unions would support the drive financially if the auto workers appeal for help.

Meany addressed the UAW convention—the first time an AFL official has appeared at such a function.

His appearance came as an interlude in a long, heated debate that led to adoption of a program to raise a 25-million-dollar strike fund. The money would be used to finance any auto industry strikes this summer.

Meany told a news conference the guaranteed wage campaign "is the auto workers' baby, and I think they're blazing a trail." He said the principle of the guaranteed annual wage plan is "very much in the tradition of the labor movement."

He said he does not know whether a guaranteed wage would be practical in the auto industry, but he added:

"I'll take Walter Reuther's judgment on it—that's good enough for me." Reuther is president of the UAW and the CIO.

Meany said there are some industries where a year-round pay plan would not be practical. He did not list them.

Meany, slated to head a merged AFL - CIO organization, said a joint strike fund "could be a possibility" in the future, but not immediately.

In his convention speech Meany only hinted at the guaranteed wage demand. But he said organized labor had helped win workmen's compensation laws in all 48 states, and said industry has "the obligation of seeing that you work when you eat, which is all the time." That was the closest reference he made to the guaranteed annual wage.

Meany said it is organized labor's task to defeat by political action those responsible for the Taft-Hartley law and so-called state right-to-work laws.

"We didn't choose the battleground," said Meany. "If they can pass laws that can hamstring, weaken and destroy the trade union movement, then our place to defend ourselves is in the same halls where they passed those laws."

Misdirected Bullet Kills Pa. Sergeant

CAMP STEWART, Ga., March 29 (AP)—A Pennsylvania sergeant was killed by a misdirected bullet fired during a tank-infantry exercise today, Camp Stewart headquarters announced.

The soldier was identified as Sgt. Ronald K. Myers, 21, of York, Pa., a member of Headquarters Company, 3rd Battalion, 188th Airborne Infantry Regiment. The 188th is a Ft. Campbell, Ky., outfit temporarily stationed at Camp Stewart for field exercises.

Myers died from a neck wound after he was struck by a rifle bullet. The shot was apparently fired from woods about 1,200 yards from where Myers was working during firing range exercises.

Italian Minister Urges Western Arms Parley

WASHINGON, March 29 (AP) — Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino of Italy proposed today that nine Western nations meet in Paris during May to lay the groundwork for a disarmament conference with Russia.

Martino, who came to Washington with Premier Mario Scelba, broached his idea to Secretary of State Dulles during an unscheduled meeting at the State Department.

Martino told a reporter afterward that Dulles found the proposal "very interesting" and indicated he would support it.

The nine nations suggested as participants in the proposed Paris meeting are the seven members of the Western European Union—Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—plus the United States and Canada.

Convicted Embezzler To Surrender At Pen

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., March 29 (AP)—A convicted embezzler of more than $28,000 has said he intends to go to Moundsville on his own to surrender at the State Penitentiary there and begin his sentence.

Joseph H. Barnes, Jr., convicted of embezzling from Bluefield Country Club while he was its secretary-treasurer, has been free under bond. Terms of his bond require him to appear in Mercer County Criminal Court next Monday.

But Barnes, a 40-year-old accountant from Bluefield, Va., signified his intention of going to Moundsville voluntarily prior to next Monday and surrendering there. Accordingly, Criminal Court Judge Walter V. Ross entered an order today directing the clerk to issue a commitment.

Expansion Of Defense Net Places Canada In Dilemma

OTTAWA, March 29 (AP) — High government sources said today Canada and the United States are considering a vast expansion of North America's defense network. What worries the Canadians is who will provide the manpower.

One highly placed informant said the government will have to decide before long whether Canada wants to pay the full price for complete sovereignty or admit many more Americans into the country to man the defenses.

This dilemma even suggests that Canada, which traditionally has no draft, may be forced to impose peacetime conscription within five years.

The new crisis is attributed to two developments: The increasing speed of jet bombers and the wide devastation which can be caused by hydrogen bombs. Officials have said the unveiling by Russia of improved jet bombers last year was a distinct shock.

The United States and Canada have agreed that for defense purposes, particularly a possible air attack from across the North Pole, the two countries must be considered one. That means they will have to provide more airfields, more fighter planes, and more radar stations to control interceptor operations to meet the threat from increasing Soviet jet and H-bomb power.

The United States has not yet outlined any plan to Canada for more defense across the roof of the continent. But there is little doubt here Washington will advance a plan within a year.

To obtain faster interception defense against potential strikes by faster jets laden with H-bombs swooping in from the polar regions, the continental air defenses would have to be pushed farther north. High officials here say that whereas in the past American-based squadrons might have been able to cope with an attack on big U.S. industrial centers, the squadrons eventually will have to be based on Canada if an enemy is to be met before he is practically on target.

All of this is a rude awakening to Canada, where officials were saying less than a year ago they saw no possible need for compulsory military service in peacetime.

Volcano Erupts

QUITO, Ecuador, March 29 (AP)—The Cotacachi volcano erupted today and sent streams of lava to the Azabi River. No damage was reported.

Fighter Pilot Has Harrowing Day

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 29 (AP)—It was a harrowing day for Ens. Robert L. Read.

He was on a training mission in his jet fighter when it went into a spiral at 30,000 feet.

Unable to level off, he bailed out at 15,000 feet.

Read landed safely—except for a few scratches—in a farm pasture near here. He was promptly chased up a tree by steers.

There he remained until a couple of men living nearby drove off the animals and brought him into town.

Drop In Small Firms' Profits "Disturbing"

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — The Senate Small Business Committee said today there is a widening gap between profits of small firms and those of big companies which is "most disturbing."

In its annual report, the committee said profits of firms with assets under $250,000 stood at 10.6 per cent after taxes in the first half of 1952 but fell to 4.1 per cent in the corresponding 1954 period.

But for the same period, it said, the profit rate for the large concerns increased from 11.3 per cent to 12 per cent, a rise of 6.1 per cent.

"These and other factors strongly suggest to your committee that there are obscure, complex and underlying forces at work within our economy that are inimical to the future of small, independent business enterprise," the committee said.

690-Carat Diamond Found In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 29 (AP)—The newspaper El Nacional reported today a miner has found a 690-carat diamond near the juncture of the Paraguas and Caroni Rivers in Venezuela's southwestern jungle.

The stone would rank in size close behind the famous Jonker, found in 1934 in South Africa, and the Vargas, found in 1938 in Brazil. They weighed 726 carats each in the rough.

Funeral Director Opposes Proposed State Legislation

ANNAPOLIS, March 29 (AP)—Funeral directors are really nothing more than delivery boys or high-class butlers, a Maryland Legislative Committee was told today.

"If you can go out and get a dead man and put him in a hole in the ground, you shouldn't have to have a degree to do that," W.W. Chambers told the House Judiciary Committee.

Chambers, who told a group of congressmen just about the same thing in 1947, appeared before the Maryland lawmakers to oppose some bills which would tighten the requirements on the funeral business in general.

Declaring his firm handles more than 1,600 funerals a year from its Washington and Riverdale, Md., homes, Chambers said the proposed laws wouldn't bother him at all.

"But it would keep out a lot of young men who want to come into the business and we don't want to do that.

"The funeral business is inviting business. We want more people in it. These bills are just more hurdles for those who want to come in and they aren't necessary," he said.

Charles E. Delosier, secretary of the State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers, told the committee the legislation would increase health safeguards. Some funeral businesses now bought by unlicensed persons who cannot pass the board's examinations on sanitation and disinfection of human bodies, he said. The proposed legislation would make certain that every funeral establishment" has licensed personnel behind it," he added.

Military Experts Doubt China Red Attack Imminent

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 29 (AP)—Military experts on Formosa see a possibility the Chinese Reds may try to seize some minor islands in the Matsus but they doubt any big attack is imminent.

These experts, who must remain anonymous, concede the Communists can take the islands without waiting for an air buildup. The cost would be high. Red casualties might treble those of the defenders.

The Matsu group, roughly 100 miles northwest of Formosa, is defended by at least 11,000 Chinese Nationalists. Matsu, heart of the archipelago and its largest island, is strongly fortified.

There is no doubt here that the Matsus are vulnerable. There are seven islands in the group blocking approaches to the Red port of Foochow (Minhow). Jutting out into the sea northeast of Foochow is Huangchi Peninsula.

South of the peninsula are the five more important islands of the group in this order: Kaoteng, Peikantang (peh Kangtang), Matsu, and the two Paichuan (White Dog) Islands, West White Dog and East White Dog.

Kaoteng, seven - tenths square miles in area, is only four miles south of the peninsula. Peikantang, 3½ square miles, is seven miles south of the peninsula.

Matsu, six square miles, is 9½ miles south of the peninsula, two miles from Peikantang and 16 miles east of the river mouth leading to Foochow.

Capital Cherry Blossom Festival Begins

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Washington's annual Cherry Blossom Festival began today under a sunny blue sky.

More than 700,000 visitors are expected to flock to the capital for the six day show, which includes a weekend of pageantry at the Jefferson Memorial.

The famous Japanese cherry trees ringing the tidal basin are still only about 40 per cent in bloom, having been retarded by a recent cold snap. But they are expected to reach full flower within the next couple of days.

He said that in Japan the cherry blossom has been for more than 15 centuries "a symbol of the most exalted virtues of man," and that he hoped their blossoming here might betoken "enduring friendship and goodwill" between Japan and the United States.

Jelke's Defense Rests; Jury Gets Case Tomorrow

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP) — Mickey Jelke rested his defense today in his second compulsory prostitution trial without taking the witness stand. The 25-year-old oleomargarine heir did not testify at his first trial two years ago, either.

The defense was thwarted in a last minute attempt to introduce new evidence. It purported to show the state's star witness, Pat Ward, lived with a casual acquaintance between the two trials.

Final summations will be made by both sides tomorrow. The state rested its case last Thursday.

A jury of 10 men and two women will get the case Thursday morning after General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente's charge. The retrial began March 7.

Jelke faces up to 40 years in prison if convicted of recruiting Miss Ward, 21, and Marguerite Cordova, 26, as $50 to $100 a night Cafe Society call girls. A 1953 conviction was upset on appeal.

The testimony ended on a conservative economic note — with a minute but prosaic examination of Jelke's bank accounts.

These accounts showed he was frequently overdrawn from September, 1951, to March, 1952—the six months period in which Miss Ward claims she staked him to between $10,000 and $15,000 of her call girl earnings. At the same time, they disclosed that his spending from bank assets dropped sharply after he met Miss Ward.

The state contends Jelke was living beyond his income when he won Miss Ward's heart, then put her to work in his behalf.

To obtain faster interception defense against potential strikes by faster jets laden with H-bombs swooping in from the polar regions, the continental air defenses would have to be pushed farther north. High officials here say that whereas in the past American-based squadrons might have been able to cope with an attack on big U.S. industrial centers, the squadrons eventually will have to be based on Canada if an enemy is to be met before he is practically on target.

All of this is a rude awakening to Canada, where officials were saying less than a year ago they saw no possible need for compulsory military service in peacetime.

Volcano Erupts

QUITO, Ecuador, March 29 (AP)—The Cotacachi volcano erupted today and sent streams of lava to the Azabi River. No damage was reported.

Fighter Pilot Has Harrowing Day

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 29 (AP)—It was a harrowing day for Ens. Robert L. Read.

He was on a training mission in his jet fighter when it went into a spiral at 30,000 feet.

Unable to level off, he bailed out at 15,000 feet.

Read landed safely—except for a few scratches—in a farm pasture near here. He was promptly chased up a tree by steers.

There he remained until a couple of men living nearby drove off the animals and brought him into town.

Drop In Small Firms' Profits "Disturbing"

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — The Senate Small Business Committee said today there is a widening gap between profits of small firms and those of big companies which is "most disturbing."

In its annual report, the committee said profits of firms with assets under $250,000 stood at 10.6 per cent after taxes in the first half of 1952 but fell to 4.1 per cent in the corresponding 1954 period.

But for the same period, it said, the profit rate for the large concerns increased from 11.3 per cent to 12 per cent, a rise of 6.1 per cent.

"These and other factors strongly suggest to your committee that there are obscure, complex and underlying forces at work within our economy that are inimical to the future of small, independent business enterprise," the committee said.

690-Carat Diamond Found In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 29 (AP)—The newspaper El Nacional reported today a miner has found a 690-carat diamond near the juncture of the Paraguas and Caroni Rivers in Venezuela's southwestern jungle.

The stone would rank in size close behind the famous Jonker, found in 1934 in South Africa, and the Vargas, found in 1938 in Brazil. They weighed 726 carats each in the rough.

Funeral Director Opposes Proposed State Legislation

ANNAPOLIS, March 29 (AP)—Funeral directors are really nothing more than delivery boys or high-class butlers, a Maryland Legislative Committee was told today.

"If you can go out and get a dead man and put him in a hole in the ground, you shouldn't have to have a degree to do that," W.W. Chambers told the House Judiciary Committee.

Chambers, who told a group of congressmen just about the same thing in 1947, appeared before the Maryland lawmakers to oppose some bills which would tighten the requirements on the funeral business in general.

Declaring his firm handles more than 1,600 funerals a year from its Washington and Riverdale, Md., homes, Chambers said the proposed laws wouldn't bother him at all.

"But it would keep out a lot of young men who want to come into the business and we don't want to do that.

"The funeral business is inviting business. We want more people in it. These bills are just more hurdles for those who want to come in and they aren't necessary," he said.

Charles E. Delosier, secretary of the State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers, told the committee the legislation would increase health safeguards. Some funeral businesses now bought by unlicensed persons who cannot pass the board's examinations on sanitation and disinfection of human bodies, he said. The proposed legislation would make certain that every funeral establishment" has licensed personnel behind it," he added.

Military Experts Doubt China Red Attack Imminent

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 29 (AP)—Military experts on Formosa see a possibility the Chinese Reds may try to seize some minor islands in the Matsus but they doubt any big attack is imminent.

These experts, who must remain anonymous, concede the Communists can take the islands without waiting for an air buildup. The cost would be high. Red casualties might treble those of the defenders.

The Matsu group, roughly 100 miles northwest of Formosa, is defended by at least 11,000 Chinese Nationalists. Matsu, heart of the archipelago and its largest island, is strongly fortified.

There is no doubt here that the Matsus are vulnerable. There are seven islands in the group blocking approaches to the Red port of Foochow (Minhow). Jutting out into the sea northeast of Foochow is Huangchi Peninsula.

South of the peninsula are the five more important islands of the group in this order: Kaoteng, Peikantang (peh Kangtang), Matsu, and the two Paichuan (White Dog) Islands, West White Dog and East White Dog.

Kaoteng, seven - tenths square miles in area, is only four miles south of the peninsula. Peikantang, 3½ square miles, is seven miles south of the peninsula.

Matsu, six square miles, is 9½ miles south of the peninsula, two miles from Peikantang and 16 miles east of the river mouth leading to Foochow.

Capital Cherry Blossom Festival Begins

More than 700,000 visitors are expected to flock to the capital for the six day show, which includes a weekend of pageantry at the Jefferson Memorial.

The famous Japanese cherry trees ringing the tidal basin are still only about 40 per cent in bloom, having been retarded by a recent cold snap. But they are expected to reach full flower within the next couple of days.

He said that in Japan the cherry blossom has been for more than 15 centuries "a symbol of the most exalted virtues of man," and that he hoped their blossoming here might betoken "enduring friendship and goodwill" between Japan and the United States.

QUERETARO, Mexico, March 29 (AP) — Authorities of the town of Juarez reported today two men accused of witchcraft had been hanged by a mob.

Jelke's Defense Rests; Jury Gets Case Tomorrow

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP) — Mickey Jelke rested his defense today in his second compulsory prostitution trial without taking the witness stand. The 25-year-old oleomargarine heir did not testify at his first trial two years ago, either.

The defense was thwarted in a last minute attempt to introduce new evidence. It purported to show the state's star witness, Pat Ward, lived with a casual acquaintance between the two trials.

Final summations will be made by both sides tomorrow. The state rested its case last Thursday.

A jury of 10 men and two women will get the case Thursday morning after General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente's charge. The retrial began March 7.

Jelke faces up to 40 years in prison if convicted of recruiting Miss Ward, 21, and Marguerite Cordova, 26, as $50 to $100 a night Cafe Society call girls. A 1953 conviction was upset on appeal.

The testimony ended on a conservative economic note — with a minute but prosaic examination of Jelke's bank accounts.

These accounts showed he was frequently overdrawn from September, 1951, to March, 1952—the six months period in which Miss Ward claims she staked him to between $10,000 and $15,000 of her call girl earnings. At the same time, they disclosed that his spending from bank assets dropped sharply after he met Miss Ward.

The state contends Jelke was living beyond his income when he won Miss Ward's heart, then put her to work in his behalf.

Peculiar Ward & Co. Policies Attributed To Sewell Avery

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO, March 29 (AP) — You won't find any sex at Ward's. Not in the catalogue anyway.

Each year Montgomery Ward and Co. mails voluminous, attractive catalogues to customers. Unlike other mail order houses, Ward's publications don't let the human form appear inside the books.

This is one of the peculiar Ward policies attributed to Ward's Chairman Sewell Avery, 81, whose reign is being challenged by Louis E. Wolfson, 43, Florida industrialist.

Some other Ward peculiarities—all attributable to Avery—are its sedate, low-pressure advertising; no employe pension plan; a nonglamorous but statistically complete annual report and the lack of a public relations department.

All these, however, are insignificant compared with Ward's main distinction from competitors: its refusal to expand during the country's greatest boom.

Ward's has fewer stores today than it did when World War II ended.

Figures are dull. But they also are important to the real owners of Ward's—its stockholders — who must decide to retain Avery or oust him and put in Wolfson at the annual stockholders meeting April 22.

Let's look at some figures.

World War II started in 1939. Sales and earnings for the two leading mail order firms, plus J. C. Penney, which operates a big chain of retail stores in many small and medium - sized cities, that year were:

	Sales	Earnings
Sears	$617,414,267	$37,255,274
Ward's	474,882,032	27,010,645
Penney	282,148,325	16,481,214

The record for 1945, when the war ended, was:

	Sales	Earnings
Sears	$988,770,170	$34,176,111
Ward's	620,968,523	21,285,839
Penney	549,159,565	17,367,826

Since the end of World War II Ward's has definitely dropped behind its rivals in maintaining sales and earnings. Here's how the companies stood in 1953:

	Sales	Earnings
Ward's	999,123,379	41,195,173
Penney	1,109,507,675	38,472,930

Sears' sales in the 12 months ended Jan. 31, 1955, totaled $3,100,271,101; Ward's $961,410,092. Neither company has reported its earnings for this period.

It should be remembered that Ward sales have been deliberately held down. Ward could have opened additional stores and thereby increased sales and probably earnings. It did not.

Why hold down expansion?

First, because Avery feels the cost of building has been — and still is—too high.

Second, to pile up cash. This cash would protect the company in a depression and would enable it to expand at that time—when building costs would be lower.

Greek Statue Molds Found

OLYMPIA, Greece, March 29 (AP) —A German archeologist said today "very valuable information" may come from his discovery of molds believed used in creating the famed statue of the Greek god Zeus at Olympia.

The archeologist, Dr. Emil Kunze uncovered the molds with other archeological findings near this town in the western Peloponnesus where the ancient Olympic games were held.

The findings were made at a spot where, according to reports coming down from Roman times, the workshop of the famous Greek sculptor Phidias stood. Phidias was said to have created the 65-foot-high statue of Zeus from ivory and gold. The statue remained here from the fifth century B.C. to the fifth century A.D. when it disappeared.

Kunze said he found about 20 complete and numbered molds and fragments of about 20 more that might be reconstructed. They are made of terra cotta.

Episcopal Deacons Will Be Ordained

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP) — In the largest ordination ceremony ever held in the Maryland Diocese, 12 deacons will become priests in the Episcopal Church here next Thursday.

Bishop Noble C. Powell will ordain the deacons in a service beginning at 10 a.m. at Old St. Paul's Church.

Those to be ordained and the churches to which they are assigned:

James Carey Sr., Grace and St. Peter's; Peyton G. Craighill, Church of the Redeemer; Charles E. Danner Jr., Emmanuel; James C. Fenhagen II, Holy Nativity; Ira L. Fetterhoff, St. Michael and All Angeles; Robert Flottemesch, St. Thomas', and James E. Griffis Jr., St. David's.

AP Survey Discloses Evidence Of Trend Toward Open Government On State Level

By CHARLES LAWLISS

CHICAGO, March 29 (AP)—State legislators this year are showing an increasing awareness of the right of the citizen to know what goes on in his government.

A survey by The Associated Press catalogued many important gains, some setbacks and definite evidence of a trend toward open government on the state and local levels.

Generally speaking, these gains came in one of two forms: (1) legislation aimed at opening new channels of information to the public, or (2) the defeat of legislation designed to shut off existing channels.

In six states — Georgia, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Rhode Island and Arkansas — so-called "secrecy" bills were defeated.

One "right-to-know" bill was introduced in the Illinois Legislature by 26-year-old Paul Simon. Simon is publisher of a weekly newspaper in Troy, Ill., and a first-term Democratic representative.

The bill declares it to be the policy of the state that actions of public commissions, boards, councils and other public agencies "be taken openly and that their deliberations be conducted openly."

"In a democracy," says Simon, "the public is entitled to know not only the decision reached by one of its agencies but also what led to it, how it was arrived at, and how to be in a position to influence the final decision."

New Jersey has a distinctive committee on public information made up of representatives of six news organizations.

Here's what the committee has accomplished:

1. It blocked a move by the State Supreme Court to suppress reports on arguments before it concerning charges against lawyers.

2. The cooperation of Gov. Robert Meyner was obtained and now all department heads are free to answer questions concerning established governmental policies. Where no policy has been set, the department head obtains a quick clearance from the governor.

Freedom of information took a long step forward in Arizona this year when committee sessions in both the House and the Senate were opened to the press for the first time.

"Right-to-know" legislation was rejected this year in four states.

In Indiana, a bill to permit the broadcast of public hearings passed both houses. It was killed by a "pocket veto" when Gov. George N. Craig did not sign it into law.

Gov. William Marland of West Virginia vetoed a bill to place on public record the names of persons on relief.

In Iowa, attempts to abolish secret ballots in committee meetings and to open the meetings to newsmen failed.

A similar bill failed to gain approval in Kansas, although it was argued that public meetings are being held except for executive sessions needed to get background information.

Republican caucuses in the Maine house were opened to the press for the first time in many years. Only one restriction was imposed: no one may be quoted by name unless he specifically authorizes it.

Some states — California and Louisiana, for example — already have "right-to-know" laws.

In other states, tradition has made possible the same end result without the necessity of specific legislation. Vermont and New Hampshire — where town meetings still are the basis of local government — enjoy this position.

The movement toward close public scrutiny of state and local government was summed up succinctly by Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida.

Gov. Collins called for government "in the sunshine, not the shade."

Two Ministers Come To President's Defense

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 29 (AP) —Two Washington area ministers today came to the defense of President Eisenhower, who was accused by Sen. Neely (D-WVa) of making an "ungodly" parade of his religion.

The Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church in Washington which the president attends, said "the religious faith of Mr. Eisenhower is so transparently sincere as to be self-validating."

Meanwhile, the president of the Alexandria Ministerial Assn., Dr. Theodore E. Landis, said, "Any statesman who seeks the guidance of God as evidenced by President Eisenhower needs no defense."

Monument To George Is Voted By Commons

LONDON, March 29 (AP) — The House of Commons agreed yesterday to erect a monument to David Lloyd George, the lowly born Welshman who led Britain to victory in World War I.

Calling for Parliament's approval, Prime Minister Churchill eulogized the liberal statesman for his leadership of the 1916-22 coalition government and as the initiator of many of Britain's social services.

"Although unacquainted with the military arts, although by public repute a pacifist, when the life of our country was in peril he rallied the war effort and cast aside all other thoughts or aims," Churchill said.

Supporting Churchill's call, Laborite leader Clement Attlee said: "Lloyd George was the first man to come from a cottage to 10 Downing Street. He symbolized in himself one of the peaceful revolutions of our time."

Monument To George Is Voted By Commons

LONDON, March 29 (AP) — The House of Commons agreed yesterday to erect a monument to David Lloyd George, the lowly born Welshman who led Britain to victory in World War I.

Calling for Parliament's approval, Prime Minister Churchill eulogized the liberal statesman for his leadership of the 1916-22 coalition government and as the initiator of many of Britain's social services.

"Although unacquainted with the military arts, although by public repute a pacifist, when the life of our country was in peril he rallied the war effort and cast aside all other thoughts or aims," Churchill said.

Supporting Churchill's call, Laborite leader Clement Attlee said: "Lloyd George was the first man to come from a cottage to 10 Downing Street. He symbolized in himself one of the peaceful revolutions of our time."

Two Ministers Come To President's Defense

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 29 (AP) —Two Washington area ministers today came to the defense of President Eisenhower, who was accused by Sen. Neely (D-WVa) of making an "ungodly" parade of his religion.

The Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church in Washington which the president attends, said "the religious faith of Mr. Eisenhower is so transparently sincere as to be self-validating."

Meanwhile, the president of the Alexandria Ministerial Assn., Dr. Theodore E. Landis, said, "Any statesman who seeks the guidance of God as evidenced by President Eisenhower needs no defense."

Juvenile Prison At Lancaster, Ohio, Pretty To Look At But Crowded, Understaffed

By SAUL PETT

LANCASTER, Ohio, March 29 (AP)—Like many institutions for juvenile delinquents, the Boys Industrial School of Ohio is pretty to look at.

Its rolling 1,500 acres, its tall pines, trim walks, playing fields and neat brick buildings appear as pleasant and harmless as a small college campus. And there the resemblance ends abruptly.

This school is an overcrowded, understaffed whirlpool of young offenders (age 10 through 17) in staggering variety — from chronic truants to rapists and murderers, from the relatively unstable to the psychotic, from the imbecilic to the brilliant.

They're all dumped together with little effort at segregation except for age. They live in a climate of heavy regimentation, close discipline and, at the very least, occasional abuse by some staff members — abuse that is both physical and psychological.

School officials say such conditions wouldn't exist if the whole program were expanded and diversified. State officials are asking the Legislature for more funds to do that. But meanwhile, the school at Lancaster must get by on what it has.

The school has 870 boys, four times as many as it should have, in the view of national authorities. It has a staff of 200, with few trained to deal with disturbed young minds. Its efforts at psychotherapy and individual counseling are admittedly meager in an institution where virtually every inmate can be presumed to be emotionally sick.

Because its academic school plant is inadequate, only one out of eight boys gets full-time schooling and only four out of eight get part-time schooling. Vocational training facilities are limited.

Physically, there's little doubt the boys are made more comfortable than in most of the homes they came from. While crowded and severely plain, their dormitories are clean and neat. Most of the cottages have relatively cheerful "living rooms," with TV sets, magazines to read and some games to play.

But being overcrowded and understaffed, things happen which aren't supposed to. For example, there's a rule that no staff member except the "court" or official disciplinarian can lay a hand on a boy unless it's in self-defense or to prevent an escape or harm to other boys.

Item: One work shop officer told me, "I spank 'em now and then when I don't think the court will help them."

The boys under him called it beating, not spanking. They said he uses a wooden ax handle for such violations as going to the toilet without permission. There were similar complaints involving other officers.

While he invited my open, free inspection of his institution, Col. T. L. Fultz, superintendent, warned that many of the boys would lie to me. Probably some did. But there was enough consistency in detail to make one wonder.

Item: In the disciplinary cottage, monitors (older boys who are picked to help supervise because of their general reliability) said one officer sometimes used a blackjack on the boys.

The Lancaster school is so crowded because Ohio has only one institution for boys and one for girls. The Legislature is being asked for funds to expand present facilities, to build two additional schools, and to expand other facilities so that psychotics will not end up in the industrial schools.

The first President of the United States was not George Washington, but John Hanson of Maryland. Elected with a full cabinet under the Articles of the Confederation, Hanson signed all official documents as "President of the United States in Congress Assembled."

Air Force's New Recruiting Setup Is Hailed By AFA

OMAHA, March 29 (AP)—The Air Force's new independent recruiting program has been hailed as much more effective than the recently discarded system of recruiting jointly with the Army—and only about half as expensive.

The Air Force Assn. says the program indicates that voluntary enlistments can become a "far more important factor in solving the military manpower problem than has heretofore been realized."

And the backbone of this new look in recruiting, says AFA, is a "family approach"—visits by Air Force recruiters at the homes of prospective enlistees.

The AFA, composed of Air Force veterans and other citizens interested in air power development, made public at a celebration here of the ninth anniversary of the Strategic Air Command a recruiting summary sent to the House Armed Services subcommittee.

James H. Straubel, AFA executive director, told Rep. Brooks (D-La), subcommittee chairman, that:

1. Joint Army-Air Force recruiting with the Army as the executive agency, was able to achieve only 83.7 per cent of the Air Force goal during the fiscal year ending last June 30—140,605 voluntary enlistments out of a goal of 167,907.

2. In the first eight months of existence, the independent Air Force recruiting system has obtained 130,645 voluntary enlistments, an average of 16,330 a month as against the monthly average of 16,076 needed to reach the current fiscal year's goal of 192,920.

The Air Force actually had to "shut off the intake" in January and February in order to permit a more even flow of recruits through training centers, Straubel said.

"A relatively even flow of recruits, achieved for the first time during the past eight months, has resulted in better training, better utilization of manpower, and a saving in money," the AFA official wrote.

"Also, Air Force instructors report that the qualify of voluntary enlistees is now higher than it was under the joint recruiting system."

Five Reported '51 Income Exceeded 5 Million Dollars

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service said today that five personal income tax returns for 1951 reported more than five million dollars income each. The average of the five was close to nine million dollars.

Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews, reporting this and thousands of other facts about taxpaying incomes in 1951, said the number of returns, the amount of income reported, and tax paid all set new records. Figures for later years are not yet available.

Out of the 55,042,597 individual income tax returns received for 1951, the Revenue Service said, there were 171 reporting income of one million dollars or more for the year, after deduction of business-connected personal expenses. The service gave no names.

At the other end of the scale, 404,412 returns reported no income remaining after deduction of personal business expenses. And there were 6,004,956 returns reporting income of less than $750 after adjustment for personal business costs.

The "millionaire returns" reported did not indicate how many people actually had million-dollar incomes in 1951, because the figures were for income after deductions of business - connected expenses.

Science Academy Selects Loyalty "Counsel" Group

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—The National Academy of Sciences has announced appointment of a committee to "counsel" with the government on loyalty programs involving non-secret, federal-supported research by scientists in private institutions.

Academy President Dr. Detlev M. Bronk said the action was taken in response to a request from the Eisenhower administration "that the Academy counsel with the government on its policy with regard to relations between questions of loyalty and the awarding of government grants and contracts in support of unclassified research."

Bronk released a letter dated Jan. 11 from presidential assistant Sherman Adams saying:

"In the administration of government grants and contracts to private institutions for the support of unclassified scientific research, there have been a very small number of occasions when questions have arisen regarding the loyalty of individuals whose work is in connection with these grants and contracts. . . .

"It is of tremendous importance, in the handling of this problem, to avoid misunderstandings between scientists and the government which might impair the cordial relationships which are so vital to the national welfare, misunderstandings which could lead to a loss of valuable benefits from research."

Six Baltimoreans Perish As High Winds Sink Boat

OCEAN CITY, Md., March 29 (AP)—Six persons from two Baltimore families were swept to their deaths from a motor boat in Sunday's high winds, discovery of their bodies revealed today.

The dead were:

William B. Pollard, 46, administrative assistant in charge of building and industry protection in the Baltimore Civil Defense organization, and his wife, Roberta.

The story of the tragedy did not start unfolding until Monday afternoon, when the Pollards' daughter wondered why they did not return to their homes in Baltimore.

The Coast Guard, police, and acquaintances in the Ocean City area started a search last night and about 1 a. m. today came upon five bodies washed up on an island beach in Sinepuxent Bay about 12 miles south of Ocean City.

Pollard's body was spotted not far away this morning by a Coast Guard Helicopter.

Clogg's 15-foot outboard motor boat had sunk in shallow water, apparently capsized by winds up to 50 miles an hour in the area Sunday.

The Cloggs and Pollards had come down from Baltimore for a weekend at High Wind, the hunting lodge which Clogg and half a dozen associates own on Assateague Island.

They parked Clogg's car at South Point, a public landing about 10 miles below Ocean City, and made the three mile crossing to Assateague in the motor boat. The wind came up about the same time, blowing Saturday night, all day Sunday and into Monday.

Daniel Trimper III, son of Ocean City's mayor and another owner of the hunting lodge, said an inspection showed it had been used, tidied up and locked.

The Cloggs and Pollards apparently had just pulled away on the return boat trip to the mainland Sunday when their craft was swamped. Two wrist watches found on the bodies had stopped at 7:30 and 8.

Parents Freed Of Responsibility In Baby's Death

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP) — A jury in Federal court today absolved a young Takoma Park, Md., couple of responsibility for the death of their 11-week-old son.

Steven B. Olney, 25, and Mrs. Eudora Ruth Olney, 23, were acquitted of involuntary manslaughter after the jury deliberated less than 15 minutes.

They left the little boy in their locked car when they went into the Institute of Public Health at Bethesda, Md., last May 24 looking for employment.

But Dr. Russell S. Fisher, State medical examiner, said an autopsy showed the baby had pneumonia.

Olney, who at the time was in the midst of studies for missionary work for the Seventh Day Adventist church, broke down in tears on the witness stand today.

He said it was cool on May 24 and he had no idea the sun shining on the closed car would turn it into an oven inside.

Most of the couple's story was drawn from Mrs. Olney, who had studied to be a nurse.

She said the baby had been a feeding problem. He was asleep when they drove up to the health institute seeking summer employment. She did not want to wake him. She and her husband intended to be inside for only half an hour.

Earlier testimony showed they were gone an hour and a half to two hours. Someone noticed the baby was in distress and called a guard. It was not until several hours later the little boy became violently ill and was taken to a hospital, where he died.

The Olneys were staying at the time with her mother at Takoma Park. They had previously been at the Seventh Day Adventist's Southern Mission College at Collegedale, Tenn. They moved to Baltimore after losing their baby.

The charges against them were tried in Federal court here because the health institute is government property.

N.Y. Firm Wins Tunnel Contract

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP) — Merritt-Chapman & Scott, New York contracting firm, was awarded a $29,891,000 contract today for construction of the main part of the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

The agreement includes a provision that 12 of the 21 giant tubes which will make up the tunnel will be built at Baltimore shipyards.

The New York firm, which bid about $250,000 less than four others seeking the contract, originally planned to build all of the tubes at New York Shipbuilding Co., a subsidiary at Camden, N. J.

But objections were raised by labor leaders and waterfront interests who wanted local shipyards, operating at only a fraction of capacity, to share in the work.

Merritt-Chapman & Scott agreed to have eight of the tubes constructed at Bethlehem Steel's Sparrow Point shipyard here and four at Maryland Drydock Co. The other nine will be built at Camden.

The construction scheduled for the 1.7-mile-long tunnel and more than 13 miles of approach expressways contemplates it will be ready for traffic about Dec. 1, 1957.

He served for 12 years as a county commissioner and was president of the board for eight. He was sworn in to a new term as judge of the Orphans Court last December after completing one full term and part of another.

U. Of Md. Faculty Seeks Greater Voice In Policy

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 29 (AP)—A special faculty committee proposed to the University of Maryland today a plan to organize the school's professors and instructors so they will have a greater voice in its administration.

The plan was developed at the suggestion of Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, new president of the university since last September.

Maryland presently is on notice its academic certification may not be renewed next year if it does not remedy certain deficiencies. One of the weaknesses cited by the Middle States Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools was the scanty voice its faculty had in educational and administrative policy making.

At the time of the association's inspection in the fall of 1953, Dr. H. C. Byrd was president. The association said too much authority and control had been concentrated in his hands.

Dr. Byrd retired in 1954 and now is president emeritus.

University Senate Proposed

The special committee recommended to Dr. Elkins that the faculty establish a formal organization in which all those with the rank of instructor or above, plus administrative officers and the heads of various departments, would all have a vote.

The faculties of the various schools and colleges would elect delegates to a University Senate, with each division represented according to the number it has in the faculty.

Some administrative officers and department heads also would be members of the senate automatically.

Dr. Elkins would be president of both bodies. He would have broad veto powers over their actions.

The plan will be submitted to the university's board of regents, which would be something like a court of final appeal in case of differences.

The report of the special committee said the plan is designed to "provide a means for the faculty to discharge its function with respect to educational policy and other affairs of the university."

It described the proposed faculty organization as "a referendum body on questions referred to it by the University Senate."

Senate's Functions

The senate's suggested functions:

1. Legislative authority over educational policy of the university as a whole, leaving policy of the various divisions to the faculties of those divisions.

2. Legislative authority over policies pertaining to student life and activities.

3. Consultation with the president on policy matters pertaining to the employment of the instructional and research staff.

4. Advise the president and board of regents.

The breadth of the concern which the faculty organization would have in university affairs is indicated by the 21 standing committees proposed for it.

Some of the more important are: A general committee on educational policy. Committees on admissions, scheduling and registration, instructional procedures, and programs, curricula and courses. A committee on scholarships and grants-in-aid. A committee on faculty research. A committee on libraries. A committee on student life and activities. A committee on student publications and communications. A committee on student discipline. And a committee on intercollegiate competition.

The Middle States association, in its report on Maryland's academic standards, criticized the preponderance of scholarships and other helps granted football players.

It also noted a close tieup between the university's athletic committee and agencies responsible for scholarships and campus jobs.

The proposed faculty setup included three committees who would have a voice in this general area.

Constellation To Rest At Ft. McHenry Site

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP)—Federal and local authorities met here yesterday to select the Ft. McHenry site on which the U.S.S. Constellation, the Navy's oldest warship, will rest when it is enshrined here.

The War of 1812 fighting craft was launched in Baltimore in 1797.

Baltimore has appropriated $50,000 to defray the expenses of locating the ship here as a shrine. The Legislature is considering appropriating another $50,000 in State funds for the purpose.

Montgomery Co. Police Post Goes To McAuliffe

ROCKVILLE, Md., March 29 (AP)—The Montgomery County Council named Inspector James S. McAuliffe, 48, as the county's new superintendent of police at $6,976 a year.

McAuliffe will take over the post Friday. He will succeed Charles S. Orme of Gaithersburg, who is retiring.

The council also appointed Capt. Carroll V. Miller, 45, to succeed McAuliffe as inspector. Miller will receive $6,202 annually. An examination will be held to select a new captain.

Three Children, Invalid Killed In Three Fires

[By The Associated Press]

Three small children and a 79-year-old invalid died in fires in homes at scattered points in Maryland yesterday.

An oil stove exploded in a four-room house in Charlestown, Cecil County, and the resulting fire was fatal to Mickey Walker, 3, and John Ebley, 13 months old.

John E. Towers, the elderly invalid, burned to death in his bed when a fire swept the house where he lived with his wife and a son on the outskirts of Federalsburg.

In Annapolis, two-year-old Carl Niemiller died in a fire that broke out in the basement of their home. His three-year-old brother, Edward, was critically burned.

The fire in Charlestown resulted in injuries to four other persons. Mrs. Barbara Ebley, 22-year-old mother of one of the victims, and another son, William 2, were in critical condition at Union Hospital in Elkton.

In fair condition were Doreen Walker, 4, and Patty Burchett, 4. Mrs. Helen Walker, mother of the other little boy who burned to death, was treated at the hospital and discharged.

Two others were also burned in the fire that destroyed the Towers home at Federalsburg. Mrs. Towers was treated for second degree burns on the face and hands at Memorial Hospital at Easton. A son, Roland, about 30, had less severe burns on the hands, face and neck.

In the Annapolis fire a passing salesman, identified only as Thomas Thompson, discovered the basement fire and managed to rescue Edward Niemiller, the three-year-old, from the blaze. The younger boy, Carl, burned to death, however.

The mother of the two boys was talking to a neighbor outside the house and was not aware of the fire until it was well under way.

Maryland's State House in Annapolis, built in 1772, is the oldest State House in America still in daily use.

Six Baltimoreans Perish As High Winds Sink Boat

OCEAN CITY, Md., March 29 (AP)—Six persons from two Baltimore families were swept to their deaths from a motor boat in Sunday's high winds, discovery of their bodies revealed today.

The dead were:

William B. Pollard, 46, administrative assistant in charge of building and industry protection in the Baltimore Civil Defense organization, and his wife, Roberta.

The story of the tragedy did not start unfolding until Monday afternoon, when the Pollards' daughter wondered why they did not return to their homes in Baltimore.

The Coast Guard, police, and acquaintances in the Ocean City area started a search last night and about 1 a. m. today came upon five bodies washed up on an island beach in Sinepuxent Bay about 12 miles south of Ocean City.

Pollard's body was spotted not far away this morning by a Coast Guard Helicopter.

Clogg's 15-foot outboard motor boat had sunk in shallow water, apparently capsized by winds up to 50 miles an hour in the area Sunday.

The Cloggs and Pollards had come down from Baltimore for a weekend at High Wind, the hunting lodge which Clogg and half a dozen associates own on Assateague Island.

They parked Clogg's car at South Point, a public landing about 10 miles below Ocean City, and made the three mile crossing to Assateague in the motor boat. The wind came up about the same time, blowing Saturday night, all day Sunday and into Monday.

Daniel Trimper III, son of Ocean City's mayor and another owner of the hunting lodge, said an inspection showed it had been used, tidied up and locked.

The Cloggs and Pollards apparently had just pulled away on the return boat trip to the mainland Sunday when their craft was swamped. Two wrist watches found on the bodies had stopped at 7:30 and 8.

Parents Freed Of Responsibility In Baby's Death

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP) — A jury in Federal court today absolved a young Takoma Park, Md., couple of responsibility for the death of their 11-week-old son.

Steven B. Olney, 25, and Mrs. Eudora Ruth Olney, 23, were acquitted of involuntary manslaughter after the jury deliberated less than 15 minutes.

They left the little boy in their locked car when they went into the Institute of Public Health at Bethesda, Md., last May 24 looking for employment.

But Dr. Russell S. Fisher, State medical examiner, said an autopsy showed the baby had pneumonia.

Olney, who at the time was in the midst of studies for missionary work for the Seventh Day Adventist church, broke down in tears on the witness stand today.

He said it was cool on May 24 and he had no idea the sun shining on the closed car would turn it into an oven inside.

Most of the couple's story was drawn from Mrs. Olney, who had studied to be a nurse.

She said the baby had been a feeding problem. He was asleep when they drove up to the health institute seeking summer employment. She did not want to wake him. She and her husband intended to be inside for only half an hour.

Earlier testimony showed they were gone an hour and a half to two hours. Someone noticed the baby was in distress and called a guard. It was not until several hours later the little boy became violently ill and was taken to a hospital, where he died.

Revision Of 4-H Trail To Be Discussed At Meeting Apr. 2

Plans to place the Girls 4-H Trail on a more democratic basis will be discussed at the meeting of the Trail Saturday. Miss Justine Miller, assistant home demonstration agent, is suggesting having the council a representative group.

In order for each club to have an equal say in county-wide programs, Miss Miller proposed to have the club president, or elected delegate eligible to vote at Trail meetings, instead of every person present voting.

The meeting of the Trail will be held at 10:30 a. m. in the Extension office at the Court House.

A discussion on the club constitution, its revision, amendments or drawing up a new one, will be discussed. Plans also will be made for the May radio broadcast. Clubs wishing to suggest business of county-wide interest will be asked to do so.

Instead of having only presidents of each club attend, any girl who has paid her club dues is a member of the Trail, Miss Miller said last evening.

Durable "Engine Charley" Wilson Sets Record In Defense Hot Seat

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Charles E. Wilson, around whose white-thatched head resignation rumors have ricocheted almost since he took the job, has rounded out 26 months as secretary of defense.

Durable "Engine Charley" has thus set a record—he has lasted longer than any of his four predecessors in that hot seat of the Cabinet.

The rumors persist—and so does Wilson's intention of remaining.

If Wilson had stuck to his old post as president of General Motors Corp. he would have been jobless, although probably not penniless, next July. That will be his 65th birthday, and time for retirement under company policy.

Along with his hope to keep his present job, which pays a fraction of his former General Motors Salary, Wilson has two other ambitions:

1. To play the violin.
2. To be a cartoonist.

So far as is known, there has been no progress toward ambition No. 1.

But he has had a nibble of sorts on the second. A cartoonist told him that you can learn the art in 10 easy lessons. He has received the lessons—10 pencilled ovals into which, in 9 stages, the eyes, nose and other features are drawn. "C. E." has taken the lessons home. The census of working cartoonists remains unchanged.

An anteroom of Wilson's Pentagon office suite is the "Cartoon Room." There, framed on the wall, are a half hundred original drawings of cartoons lampooning Wilson's troubles with bird dog comments and foot-in-mouth statements. He likes the cartoons—so much that he invited the cartoonists to come to Washington and lunch with him last Monday.

He wrote them that "I have long admired the ability and facility with which you gentlemen in the profession point up the events in the news, and I hope you will be able to give me something of an insight on how you do it."

The secretary noted recently that his boss, President Eisenhower, had won an award for photography—which made him wonder if he couldn't get one for cartooning.

Wilson plays golf, but with none of the polish and intentness of his boss in the White House.

Like most other top-level government chiefs, he takes work home with him in a couple of bulging briefcases on all nights except those when Washington social life makes demands. Wilson likes parties because he seems to like, or at least be interested in, people.

He even seems to like news conferences, which are an ordeal for many newcomers to public life. He developed that liking gradually. At first there were no news conferences. Then there were some with cautious comments or no comments. Now he answers virtually all questions.

Dane Proves World's Best Pipe Smoker

MONTREAL, March 30 (AP) — A Danish smoker, J. Stelling of Copenhagen, has been declared the world champion pipe smoker in a 16-nation competition.

Stelling kept alive his 3.3 grams of burley for one hour, 39 minutes and 15 seconds to win the championship sponsored by the Maple Leaf Pipe Club of Montreal.

U.S., Canada To Build Arctic Radar Stations

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — A joint United States-Canadian fleet of ships will push into arctic ice this summer with men and equipment to build Distant Early Warning—DEW Line—radar stations along the northern fringe of the continent.

The Navy announced this week that the Navy icebreaker Edisto, the Coast Guard icebreakers Eastwind and Westwind and the Canadian arctic patrol ship Labrador will move into Hudson Strait as early in July as ice conditions permit.

They will clear the way for transport vessels carrying construction workers and material to landing areas along the coasts of Hudson Bay and in the high north.

In a race to get DEW Line extended across northern Canada from existing stations in Alaska, a big-scale airlift of men and material already is under way. Cargo carriers of the 18th Air Force based at Greenville, S.C., are flying in tons of material to points far beyond coastal areas, using frozen lakes and streams for landing fields.

Electronic Milling Machine To Be Built For Plane Industry

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 29 (AP)—The aircraft industry's first electronically controlled milling machine—expected to save as much as 85 per cent of time now spent on some parts—will be developed by Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp.

Capable of producing aircraft dies or parts of any shape within the second degree curves embodied in today's airplanes, the 200-ton milling machine and the electronic system that directs it will be completed in about 18 months, Convair President Joseph T. Mc Narney said today.

Describing the machine as a revolutionary new departure in industrial methods, Mc Narney said it would be guided by a magnetic tape running through an electronic director. A computer will translate engineering data into numerical commands on the tape, Mc Narney explained. He said the commands will guide the machine's four cutting heads, its bed and turntable.

Psychiatrist Urges Doctors To Lie To Cancer Patients

LOS ANGELES, March 30 (AP) — Doctors should lie to their cancer patients as a means of prolonging human life, a Baltimore psychiatrist has advised the nation's family physicians.

People who say that they would want to know about it if they developed cancer are forgetting they have two selves—one who wants to know about it and the other who does not, said Dr. Leo H. Bartemeier. He addressed the American Academy of General Practice.

The part of the personality that does not want to know should be protected by the physician, Dr. Bartemeier asserted, because it supports the natural will to live.

"Some people who are told about it may turn toward suicide via the drug or alcohol route," the psychiatrist added.

Dr. Bartemeier said there are some instances where a cancer patient may be told safely that he has a tumor. That would be technically true because most cancers are tumors. Also there are some cancers which are not fatal. Depending on the individual patients, there may be justification for allowing the person to learn the whole truth.

The psychiatrist cited one case of a man who was operated on 25 years ago for cancer, made a good recovery and returned to his job of teaching. Recently there was a recurrence of the malignancy. He underwent a second operation and has gone back to work again.

Only a few of the southern cities of Canada have annual temperature averages above 40 degrees.

This, said Dr. Bartemeier, is an example of a patient who could endure the truth. But such cases are rare, he said.

Dr. Edward Weiss, an allergist from Temple University, Philadelphia, said this country has so many neurotics and so many allergic people that the two types of trouble overlap in many individuals.

The neurotic factors in allergy are so frequent, he reported, that the patient's private life often should be investigated and in many cases they should be turned over to psychiatrists.

Electronic Milling Machine To Be Built For Plane Industry

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 29 (AP)—The aircraft industry's first electronically controlled milling machine—expected to save as much as 85 per cent of time now spent on some parts—will be developed by Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp.

Capable of producing aircraft dies or parts of any shape within the second degree curves embodied in today's airplanes, the 200-ton milling machine and the electronic system that directs it will be completed in about 18 months, Convair President Joseph T. Mc Narney said today.

The Air Force awarded Convair a $1,128,000 contract to develop the machine.

Describing the machine as a revolutionary new departure in industrial methods, Mc Narney said it would be guided by a magnetic tape running through an electronic director. A computer will translate engineering data into numerical commands on the tape, Mc Narney explained. He said the commands will guide the machine's four cutting heads, its bed and turntable.

U.S., Canada To Build Arctic Radar Stations

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — A joint United States-Canadian fleet of ships will push into arctic ice this summer with men and equipment to build Distant Early Warning—DEW Line—radar stations along the northern fringe of the continent.

The Navy announced this week that the Navy icebreaker Eqisto, the Coast Guard icebreakers Eastwind and Westwind and the Canadian arctic patrol ship Labrador will move into Hudson Strait as early in July as ice conditions permit.

They will clear the way for transport vessels carrying construction workers and material to landing areas along the coasts of Hudson Bay and in the high north.

In a race to get DEW Line extended across northern Canada from existing stations in Alaska, a big-scale airlift of men and material already is under way. Cargo carriers of the 18th Air Force based at Greenville, S.C., are flying in tons of material to points far beyond coastal areas, using frozen lakes and streams for landing fields.

Psychiatrist Urges Doctors To Lie To Cancer Patients

LOS ANGELES, March 30 (AP) — Doctors should lie to their cancer patients as a means of prolonging human life, a Baltimore psychiatrist has advised the nation's family physicians.

People who say that they would want to know about it if they developed cancer are forgetting they have two selves—one who wants to know about it and the other who does not, said Dr. Leo H. Bartemeier. He addressed the American Academy of General Practice.

The part of the personality that does not want to know should be protected by the physician, Dr. Bartemeier asserted, because it supports the natural will to live.

"Some people who are told about it may turn toward suicide via the drug or alcohol route," the psychiatrist added.

Dr. Bartemeier said there are some instances where a cancer patient may be told safely that he has a tumor. That would be technically true because most cancers are tumors. Also there are some cancers which are not fatal. Depending on the individual patients, there may be justification for allowing the person to learn the whole truth.

The psychiatrist cited one case of a man who was operated on 25 years ago for cancer, made a good recovery and returned to his job of teaching. Recently there was a recurrence of the malignancy. He underwent a second operation and has gone back to work again.

Only a few of the southern cities of Canada have annual temperature averages above 40 degrees.

This, said Dr. Bartemeier, is an example of a patient who could endure the truth. But such cases are rare, he said.

Dr. Edward Weiss, an allergist from Temple University, Philadelphia, said this country has so many neurotics and so many allergic people that the two types of trouble overlap in many individuals.

The neurotic factors in allergy are so frequent, he reported, that the patient's private life often should be investigated and in many cases they should be turned over to psychiatrists.

Berkowitz Firm Is Seeking Plant Space In Frostburg

Norman Fisher, general manager of the M. Berkowitz company, explained to a special meeting of the Frostburg Mayor and City Council Monday evening, the position of his firm in regard to the local plant.

Fisher stated that the building has been condemned and that the company has facilities to absorb local operations but is interested in remaining here because of the large pool of trained operators. He stated that the plant went on 50 per cent working time as of last week because operation on the second floor had to cease immediately as a result of an inspection by safety engineers.

The council asked what type and how large a building is needed. Fisher said between 10,000 and 15,000 square feet of space is needed on one floor. The type of construction does not matter just so it is warm in winter and not in the flood area.

Simeon Green, local businessman, asked about V.F.W. building but Fisher replied that after an inspection it was found to be unsuitable.

Green offered the use of the garage building located on Water Street at the rear of the American Legion building. Fisher and representatives of the local union made an inspection of the building and arrangements are being made for Berkowitz engineers to inspect and see if it can be utilized. It has three stories and an elevator.

The council reviewe former plans to erect a plant on Borden Mining Company property at the west end of town. After consulting with the city attorney, Edward Ryan, the council pointed out that it has the power to issue bonds up to $100,000 for industrial purposes, provided the public would approve the transaction in a referendum. Plans were made to secure estimates on cost of land, the construction of the type building that would be suitable. If a rental basis can be worked out the entire plan will be laid before the citizens of Frostburg for either approval or rejection.

It was pointed out that the erection of buildings for small industries by local communities is being done all over the country in order to attract industry to their communities. Such procedure was used to bring a garment factory to Grantsville. An available building was offered to a manufacturing company in Lonaconing and the only city-owned building in Frostburg is being rented to Chalmer Livingston Machine Shops.

The council meets Friday evening when a report is expected from Berkowitz concerning the Green offer.

Others attending the meeting were Richard McKay, manager of the factory, Sue Panko, of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and the officers of the local union and the shop committee.

$2,000 Is Budgeted For Beetle Control

A budget of $2,000 for Japanese beetle control work in Allegany County during the coming summer was submitted to the county commissioners yesterday.

The budget was contained in a letter from George S. Langford, specialist in insect control with the University of Maryland Extension Service. The state and county will each provide $1,000 for the eradication work.

Milky white spore and tiphia wasps are used in combatting the Japanese beetles. Great strides have been made in recent years in combatting the insect.

Slate Of Officers Named By Local PTA

Mrs. George Miller was nominated for president of the SS. Peter and Paul School Parent-Teacher Association at the monthly meeting Sunday in the parish hall.

Others on the slate of officers for the April election are Norman Chirdon and Charles Fields, vice president; Mrs. Herman Grabenstein Jr., recording secretary; Charles Azar and Ambrose Griffin, treasurer; and Mrs. Ann Whinnie and Mrs. Joseph Mooney.

Thomas B. Cumiskey Jr. reported the children from Chinatown parish of Rev. John Moore, native of Cash Valley, in New York will arrive here July 7.

The children will spend two weeks at the homes of PTA members. Cumiskey and John Wolfhope, who are serving as co-chairmen, met recently with Father Moore to map out plans for the second annual event.

About 40 children from the crowded tenement section of New York City were guests in homes of SS. Peter and Paul PTA members.

An award was presented to Sister Jeanine's First Grade, of which Mrs. George Holler is home room mother, for selling the most tickets to the pre-Lenten card party sponsored by the PTA. Rev. Kenan Crowley OFM, Cap., assistant pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church, presented the award.

Sister Gabriel's combined Grade Six and Seven won the award for having the highest percentage of parents present.

Donation Is Voted By East Side PTA

The East Side School Parent-Teacher Association voted to donate $130 to supplement the school's recreation fund at its March meeting.

The PTA also coptributed $15 to the school for use as an emergency fund and $12.50 to purchase additional cups for the cafeteria. April 29 was set as the annual PTA fun night.

Mrs. Ethel Marie Davis showed a movie, "The U. S. Savings and Loan League." Charles Cubbage presided.

Woman Is Located

City police said Mrs. Elizabeth Cruthers, 82, who was reported missing from her home at the rear of Glenwood Street Sunday, was located visiting her son-in-law in Lonaconing.

The woman, partially blind, left her home Sunday without informing relatives of her destination. She returned home Monday night.

Bumper Year Forecast For Area Fruit

In the event the Hampshire Fruit Belt south of here in West Virginia escapes any major frost or hail damage from now until the marketing season, the growers there will see the best year economically in 50 years.

R. L. Sumner, manager of Mountain Fruit Sales, Inc., Romney, reported that while most of the peach raising sections suffered major damage Saturday night because of the cold, the Hampshire belt apparently escaped serious loss.

Clifford Gordon, general manager of Consolidated Orchards, Paw Paw, which has holdings in Morgan and Allegany counties, echoed Sumner's observations.

Gordon said that barring some major weather calamity, this area will be in an enviable position in regard to peach prices.

Sumner said he has talked with cooperative managers in Georgia and Illinois since Saturday and has been informed that crops in those main peach growing areas have been wiped out.

The sudden cold also killed crops in parts of Virginia, but the northern section around Winchester fared as well as the nearby Hampshire County orchards.

It is the opinion of some orchardists that apples in the Hampshire County section were hurt worse than peaches, Sumner reported.

Peach buds in the Hampshire Belt have swelled, and are between the dormant and pre-pink stages.

In Illinois and Georgia the peaches were in the full pink to full bloom. The mercury dropped to six degrees for eight hours in Illinois and to 19 degrees for a similar period of time in Georgia Saturday night. Practically all peaches in those states were killed outright.

Gordon said the U. S. Department of Agriculture crop report yesterday said all peaches south of Mt. Jackson, Va., in the Carolinas and Georgia were wiped out.

Sumner said while not all of the damage that did occur can be figured, the preliminary reports are that the number of live buds will require the orchardists in Hampshire County to do some thinning.

However, Sumner was not overly optimistic about the future, as he pointed with caution to the long period that remains until the end of frost, which is the middle of May, and also to the period following that when hail and drought could threaten.

Last year the orchardists in this section took it on the chin as hail hurt much fruit in a time when the market was loaded with peaches. Top grade fruit brought about $2.25 a bushel. Many bushels of hail damaged fruit were sold for as low as a $1 a bushel.

About five per cent of lung cancer cases are cured today. More than 50 per cent could be cured if they were diagnosed early enough.

State To Pay Lion's Share Of Increased School Costs

The budget submitted to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for school expenses for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1955 lists a grand total of $4,049,731 as compared to the budget of $3,555,995 for the period ending June 30, 1955.

Despite this, the increased cost to the county will only be $76,358. Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of county schools, explained that this results from the lower assessable tax basis for the county during the coming fiscal year. The assessable basis will drop sharply due to two tax exemptions granted industry and business.

The overall increase in the budget for the coming fiscal year will be $593,736 and the state will be paying practically all of this as the county's increased costs will be only $76,358 mentioned above.

The state will accordingly pay a greatly increased amount in equalization funds. The county's direct cost for schools in the coming fiscal year will be $1,639,411 as compared to $1,563,043 for the budget ending June 30, 1955.

The costs in the next budget will be as follows:

Teachers, $3,100,986 with the state paying $1,850,265 and the county, $1,250,721. Administrative costs will be $70,065 with the state paying $41,801 and the county, $28,264. Operation costs will be $319,840 with the state paying $184,851 and the county, $134,989.

Maintenance costs will be $130,180 with the state paying $77,665 and the county, $52,515. Transportation costs will be $299,486 with the state paying $178,673 and the county, $120,813. Fixed charges will total $54,804 with the state paying $32,696 and the county, $22,108. Other school services will cost $74,370 with the state paying $44,369 and the county $30,001.

Capital outlay will be cut to $9,000 for the coming fiscal year as compared to $15,000 in the current budget. The incentive fund paid by the state will drop from $76,444 to $74,927.

The budget includes a $300 per year salary increase for teachers, principals, supervisors and administrative personnel.

Webster said that as soon as the tax structure of the county is stabilized he will, as superintendent of schools and being close to school people, urge the board to consider further increases in salary.

"This will give better leverage in securing top level recruits among teachers and rewarding those teachers who have given long and faithful service," Webster stated.

Improved Headlights For Night Driving

One of the major innovations in 1955 model automobiles that has not been exploited unduly in industry advertising is described in detail in a booklet released by the Automobile Manufacturers Association. For the first time in 15 years headlights have been improved.

The change is universal — all motor vehicle manufacturers in the United States and Canada have adopted what is called the "new, improved sealed beam lamp" for their production models.

Reason for the change is this: since 1945, the number of cars, trucks, and buses has almost doubled, so that now there are 60 million in the United States. With this huge increase, special problems of night driving have arisen.

Specifically, this means that there are fewer and fewer opportunities for the driver today to use his high beams. Four years ago, the manufacturer's association, the headlamp manufacturers, and the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators recognized this fact and began research and development that resulted in the new, improved headlamp.

Scientists and technicians in three fields—optics, illumination, and electrical engineering—were called in to help solve the problem. The changes they have come up with are not revolutionary, but they are somewhat surprising to the layman.

Basically, the change is in the lower beam. It has been redesigned to provide light farther ahead on the right side of the road—where pedestrians and other obstacles are likely to be. As much as 80 feet has been added to the distance the low beams will illuminate on the right.

Part of this increase was obtained by increasing the wattage of the lamps—five watts was added to each beam, bringing that of the low beam to 40 watts and that of the high beam to 50. Another change is in raising the height of the beam.

More than 50 different parts or optical elements of the sealed beam unit were studied and engineered to put the light where it will do the driver the most good. The result is that headlights now provide better night vision for the driver both under good and adverse weather conditions.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A Sense Of History

The National Committee for an Effective Congress has issued a circular letter to a general mailing list, including persons who have always opposed it. It wants more money. The letter is signed by Oscar Hammerstein II who writes successful plays and Sidney H. Scheuer, about whom I know nothing.

The circular letter speaks of a "know-nothing group in Congress" which is supposed to be a term of opprobrium but is historically a synonym for nationalism. Why Mr. Hammerstein does not call these members of Congress nationalists, I cannot know, except perhaps that to do so would lose him contributors. There is still a strong grassroots nationalistic sentiment in the United States, albeit one must admit that it is not too strong in Washington or New York where internationalism thrives despite all.

So, Messrs. Hammerstein and Scheuer hold that these nationalists combined with commentators, newspapers and organizations to grab "for the instruments of power, and set the political climate." These elected representatives of the people apparently did something wrong when they voted their consciences or according to the general attitude of their constituencies.

Then I must quote:

"On the other hand, the responsible candidates, when they arrived on Capitol Hill, found that most of the outside organizations to which they looked for support and research were limited in scope to specific legislative goals, mostly economic and usually unattainable in the existing climate. Yet these good legislators were in a fight to defend our way of life, requiring a sense of history reaching beyond the slogans of economic groups."

I cannot tell you who these "responsible candidates" who arrived on Capitol Hill are because they are not listed, although I think the writers meant elected representatives. Have it as you will, what makes one group "responsible" and another group power-grabbers? The answer is that those who agree with the National Committee for an Effective Congress are "responsible" and everybody else is a bum. You can turn that idea vice versa and come up with the same degree of truth.

The next sentence in this quoted paragraph I do not understand at all. Who are "these good legislators?" Is, for instance, Senator Flanders a good legislator because he read a speech that this committee prepared for him? Is Senator Dirksen a bad legislator because he did not read such a speech? Look at the record and the goodness or badness of neither is so clearly definable.

And what is meant by "a sense of history reaching beyond the slogans of economic groups?" What are these economic groups? Take, for instance, H.R. 1, the tariff act, which is supported by Henry Ford II and Walter Reuther, one representing ownership and management and the other the labor union — both in the same industry. Although they divide on the question of the annual wage, they unite on H.R. 1, on a freer trade tariff. Where is the clear-cut economic grouping? And what are their slogans? And wherein do they lack a sense of history? And why are we to believe that Messrs. Hammerstein and Scheuer have a more acute sense of history? The letter does not say.

Firstly, McCarthy was not censured.

Secondly, if what these gentlemen call know-nothingism and what actually is nationalism has so declined that it leaves a political vacuum, the National Committee for an Effective Congress has won a great victory. It has done its work. It should now go out of existence having saved the United States from the plague of nationalism. Even a doctor quits when the patient is cured. But no! This committee would fill that vacuum — that is, the vacuum created by the decline of nationalism. There is no vacuum among the internationalists.

Nevertheless, this organization wants more money to provide members of Congress with their services ". . . whether it involves a request for a lawyer with the qualifications and time to undertake a particular study, or the provision of a typist who can help prepare necessary documents—requires a constant application of skilled man-hours."

It is an interesting appeal. If they had asked me for a contribution, I would send mine to the Damon Runyon Fund or to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

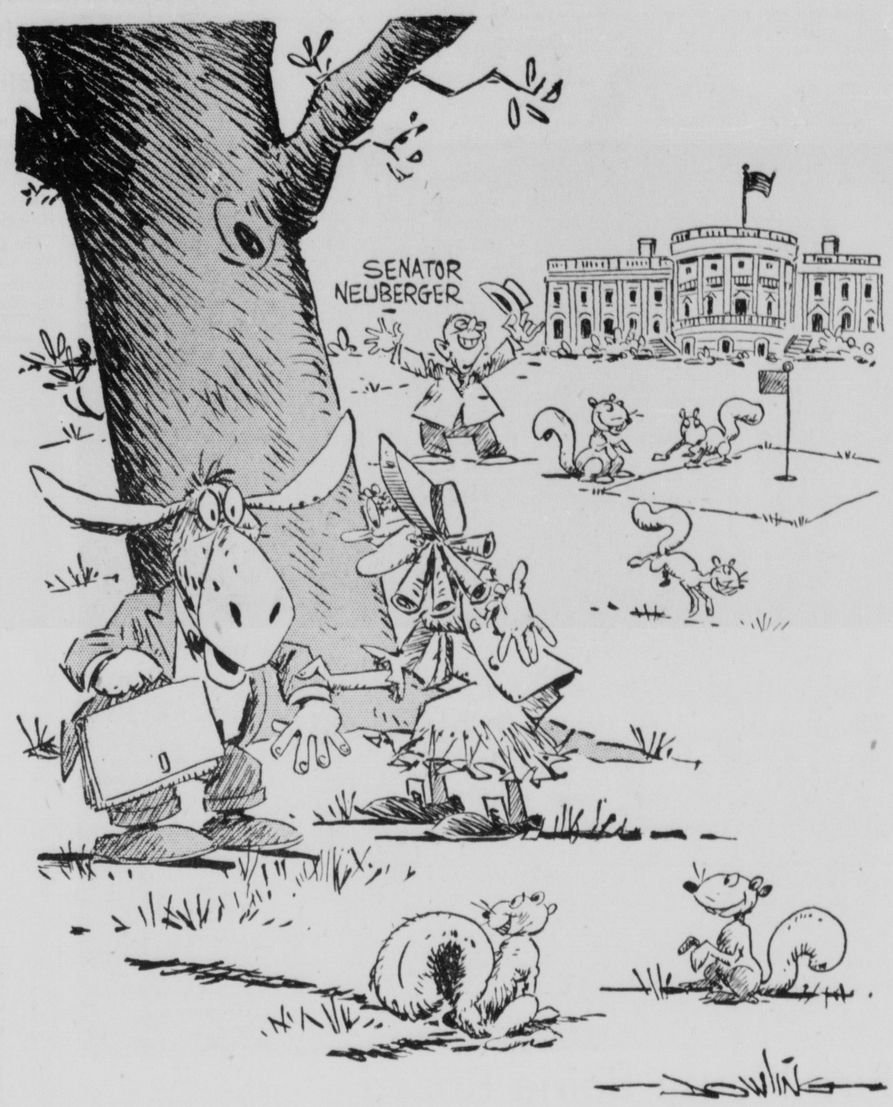
"Hooray, I Think We've Got An Issue"



Bomb Tests Unlikely To Affect Future Generations

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Governor Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, Democrat, was for 10 years a member of the Atomic Energy Committee of the United States Senate and was, therefore, able to learn a great deal about the super-bombs and their effects. He retired of his own volition last year. Recently he issued a statement to the press deploring the attempts on the part of certain scientists to exaggerate the effects of the atomic bomb tests in Nevada. He said in part:

"It must be crystal clear to everyone now that the carefully planted 'fright campaign' launched by Drs. Lanier and Puck of Colorado University was merely part of a nationwide drive by American scientists against the use of atomic bombs.

"Many of us could and would share their opposition to these lethal destroyers were it not that the United States is in a desperate and deadly atomic race with ruthless Russia . . . Much as the United States would like to stop testing and improving atomic bombs, she dare not do so . . .

Damaging To Free World

"We must not permit the defenses of this country to be weakened by wild and probably baseless speculation about the genetics of future generations. Unless American scientists remain way out in front of Russian atomic scientists, there will be no future generations of Americans.

"I am not accusing our Boulder (Colorado University) radiologists and their colleagues in other educational institutions in their fight against development of effective lethal weapons by the United States of being fifth columnists. But I do think their employing of 'fright strategy' to create public sentiment against the necessary testing of atomic bombs is most damaging to the defenses of the free world."

Shortly after this statement was issued, Governor Johnson had occasion to answer a letter from Mrs. Connie Montfort of Denver, Colo., and the following extract from the governor's letter reveals further details about the "scare story." Governor Johnson wrote:

"It seems to me the two university professors made a very grave and unnecessary mistake. This is what they did:

Cites Real Question

"On Friday they called a press conference and gave out a very frightening story to newspaper reporters about the dangers to the people of Denver of radiation caused by the Nevada atomic experiments. It was agreed that the story would not be published until the Sunday papers, March 13th . . .

"Why these professors did not take the matter up with the mayor of Denver or the governor of the state, or even the President of the United States, only they can explain. What did they expect the people of Denver to do? Hide in their basements and demand that the defense tests in Nevada be discontinued? The mayor, the governor, and the President have the responsibility of protecting the people and if there be danger, very quietly they should be alerted first.

"When I was told that they held their press conference on Friday and that they suggested it be published on Sunday, I said: 'If they know on Friday that the lives of the people of Denver are in danger on Friday and keep such facts under cover until Sunday, they ought to be arrested.'

"As I see it, the real question here is: shall the United States abandon the production, tactical development and improvement of atomic weapons, or shall we turn that field over exclusively to Soviet Russia?

Governor's Comments In Line

"I am convinced also that upon the scientists of America depends our security and safety. The free world owes them a great debt of gratitude. To continue to protect us from our enemies, the universities and colleges must turn out scientists in ever-increasing numbers. They gave us the atomic bomb. They can protect us from harmful radiation. They have well-equipped laboratories in which to do these things.

"But, remember this, no true scientist leaves his laboratory to run to the press with an unproven supposition. The true scientist develops his theories patiently, quietly, thoroughly, through the relentless process of trial and error."

Governor Johnson's comments are in line with the information available here from official sources —namely, that the amount of radioactivity outside of the immediate testing area is negligible and cannot be regarded as having any after-effect on future generations, as the propagandists are continually saying.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Here's the way the American public thinks about Maggie's dream boy.

We went right down the line with Eddie and Wallis from the minute Eddie told Churchill, "I may not attend your old coronation."

No finer words were ever engraved on a peppermint lozenge. Eddie sang, "I Got a Gal in Baltimore."

Townsend has a war record from here to there. He was one of the spitfires that wallopused Shickelgruber's invasion escadrilles. No reason for Maggie and Pete to bother with her old lady.

All they have to do is clear it with Godfrey.

We don't know what they mean by commoner, royal blood or dynasties. We thought the Duke of Windsor settled that business when he married the girl he loved. It looked like Winnie Churchill was going to run for president on the old school tie ticket.

This isn't exactly a Cinderella story because it's started too late upon a time, the glass slipper is a bit out-size and nobody has to get home by 12 midnight.

England is acting as stuffy as an attic closet about this romance.

All Maggie had to do is renounce her succession to the throne. All Pete has to do is stay home on his night out.

You know Winnie should have some say in it. Like all the other babies in the world theirs will be sure to look like him.

Adm. Carney Expects Quemoy-Matsu War To Begin About Middle Of April

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower sits down with congressional leaders today to try to get American foreign policy back on a bipartisan, even keel. As he does so, the legislators, plus the public, have been confused by a rash of completely conflicting headlines.

First headlines proclaimed that the Chinese Reds were expected to attack Quemoy and Matsu on or about April 15 and that this would probably lead to war.

Next day headlines announced that diplomats did not expect the Chinese Reds to attack that soon, or perhaps at all.

About the same time came an announcement from Foreign Minister Lester Pearson of Canada that much as Canada loved the U.S.A. it would not back us up in case of war over Quemoy and Matsu.

Naturally, the legislators have been confused.

Behind The Headlines

To the best of this writer's ability, here is a report on the background behind the confusion.

Background No. 1—Adm. Robert Carney, chief of nava. operations, a fine sailor but no diplomat, gave a briefing to newsmen that the Chinese Reds were expected to attack on or about April 15. The admiral was quite alarming. Of course admirals shouldn't talk. They're supposed to execute foreign policy, not formulate it. However, the admiral mistakenly let himself get euchred into this briefing and newsmen were justified in coming out with alarmist headlines.

Background No. 2—The State Department next day played down Admiral Carney's remarks, said the Reds were most unlikely to go to the Bandung conference of Asian-African powers with blood on their hands. This was the reason for the second series of headlines.

Background No. 3 — Secretary Dulles, earlier, had gone to Canada and dropped some remarks that scared the Canadian government half out of its wits. This was the reason for Foreign Minister Pearson's statement divorcing Canada from any American war over Quemoy and Matsu.

What Dulles indicated to Canadians at a closed-door session of their Canadian big-wigs was that the United States would definitely defend the small offshore islands so close to the Chinese mainand that a good swimmer can swim to them. Second, he said if the Chinese attacked, the U.S.A. would use atom bombs to make mincemeat of Chinese troop and artillery concentrations on the mainland.

Dulles was brutally frank. According to Canadians, he assumed that war was a foregone conclusion. He didn't even take much trouble to explain that assumption. His Canadian listeners were shocked and dumfounded over his apparent willingness to start a world war over two little Chinese offshore islands.

This was why Foreign Minister Pearson issued his U.S.-Canadian divorce statement, also why he sent a cable to Foreign Minister Anthony Eden that he was convinced the United States would go to war over Quemoy and Matsu.

Background No. 4—Does Mr. Dulles represent the view of the commander-in-chief, President Eisenhower? As far as this writer can ascertain—and, I have every reason to believe it's accurate—Dulles does not.

No later than last week, the President complained in a staff conference that he did not want to go to war over two small islands without allies and that he was convinced the United States would have no allies if we tried to defend Quemoy and Matsu.

The President indicated that he knew something about the importance of having allies in wartime. He said he thought we would have allies if we defended Formosa but not if we defended Quemoy and Matsu. Thus the President was in definite disagreement with his secretary of state (and also his Joint Chiefs of Staff, except for General Ridgway, Army chief of staff).

Background No. 5 — The next puzzling question is why Secretary Dulles, hitherto in disagreement with the Joint Chiefs of Staff regarding the defense of the offshore islands, now agrees with them.

The answer is that when Dulles flew to the Bangkok conference, he also visited Formosa — at the insistent demand of Chiang Kai-shek. There he had various talks with Admiral Carney and other American officers. They argued that the United States had retreated enough, that we could retreat no further.

We had backed down at Dien Bien Phu, they pointed out, and in every other negotiation in the Far East. Dulles had talked about massive retaliation and Vice President Nixon had talked about using land troops. Nevertheless, after waving the big stick, we had ignominously retreated. So they argued we could not back down again.

Dulles Vs. Ike

Secretary Dulles was convinced. He came back siding with the admirals and opposing the President. This is unusual for the secretary of state, but he has stuck to his position.

Eisenhower, meanwhile, still has not made up his mind definitely as to what he will do about Quemoy and Matsu — unless he has done so in the last 48 hours. As early as last September, a special meeting of the National Security Council was held in Denver to try to decide whether we should defend these small islands. The Joint Chiefs realized their defense was extremely important and wanted the United States to take a definite position early and make it known to the world.

Eisenhower, however, refused. We'll wait and meet the situation when it arises, was his final word.

World's Toughest Job

By Bob Considine

OMAHA, Neb., March 29 (INS)— Gen. Curt Lemay looks tough, talks tough, is tough and holds the world's toughest job. Let the man goof just once and your life (and the lives of everybody else in the free world) wouldn't be worth a counterfeit slug.

Lemay holds the club. From a map-lined and chart-filled room at nearby Offut Air Force Base he controls the Strategic Air Command, the mightiest military striking force in all history. "If the bell rings today," which is SAC language for "if war breaks out," the atomic attack on scores of Russian and satellite targets would be directed from this room by a cigar-chewing man who seldom raises his voice but has a way of meaning every word he consents to utter.

It has been reported that in the first critical hours of a World War III Lemay would take off in his twin-decked C-97, fly to the center of the conflict and there direct the dropping of A-bombs, H-bombs and whatever else we have in the closet. That presents quite a picture, and the muscular, hard-chinned Lemay would be good typecasting. But the story is wronger than Harvey Matusow. If war comes, the toughest general of them all will do his fighting from Offut, no matter how much he growls and wants in. All his tools are here. All his magic buttons.

Looks Are Deceiving

The nerve center of SAC is deceptively innocuous-looking. The pastel-shaded quarters of SAC's enlisted men, all modishly decorated, give off the air of a Miami hotel. The administration buildings look about as menacing as the Census Bureau. The airstrips are not constructed to hold SAC's hardware—the 10-engine B-36, the 6-jet B-47 and the incredible 8-jet B-52.

But once you are taken inside the main administration building, you know that what they're playing they're playing for keeps. You're scrutinized no matter how many badges and cards you're armed with. You don't do any wandering about by yourself. There's a big fellow to walk beside you, and you don't take more than half a dozen steps before you sense that he is your keeper, rather than a pleasant guide.

As you are led closer to "the room" you are deeply impressed with its importance, though the man at your side may be chatting idly about the weather or the Yankees. Big bold signs caution against loose talk. Other signs restrict this or that room, deny one admission to certain corridors. And then at a certain point there are no more open doors. The final portals do not have standard locks, either. They are opened like safes.

SAC is another world . . . another war. You won't find a "raunch" cap in the whole outfit. The memories of World War II pilots simmer in you, but their gaiety, their lighthearted affishness are hard to believe as one moves through the stern sobriety of a SAC base.

The SAC pilot (oops, aircraft commander) doesn't smile often. He is likely to be 32, 33 years old and has a couple of children growing up. He is a major, most likely, or even a lieutenant colonel. On duty he carries sidearms. He knows the precise "yields" of every nuclear weapon, is hep to radiation problems, the fantastic mathematics of intercontinental navigation, and the figures on life expectancy.

Knows His Target

He has made his will and literally is packed and ready to go on a few minutes' notice. His target was selected for him several years ago. He knows it as well as he knows the face of his wife. He has "bombed" it scores of times on the endless practice missions. He'd recognize it on his radar screen through 50,000 feet of pea soup.

There's a place in this country that looks just like it—let's say the railroad switching yards of Chicago, or the Pentagon building—and so he is often sent there, sometimes by way of the north pole. A truck filled with electronic equipment, parked at the site of the target, keeps tabs on the accuracy of his hypothetical bomb drop.

A near-miss isn't good enough. In SAC nothing is "good enough." It must be damned perfect. If it isn't, somebody gets rapped on the skull with an on-the-spot reduction in rank. But it works the other way, too, and the men of SAC have come to live by those standards . . . just as the boss himself lives by them.

The boss?—he's just tough, that's all. He walked out to a bomber once when the ground crew was gassing it up, and kept his cigar in his mouth, despite the heavy perfume of the gas vapors. A sergeant said, "General, better douse that cigar . . . this ship might burn."

"It wouldn't DARE," the boss growled.

Accidental Poisoning Has Become Big Health Problem

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Accidental poisoning in children could be avoided if parents would put all toxic materials out of reach. This is difficult to do because most households are arsenals for chemicals used for cleaning, bleaching, killing flies and rats, coloring hair, and curing athlete's foot. Some of these preparations are highly poisonous but we have become careless about them because they are so readily available at the store.

We need only to look at the records to determine that kerosene, for example, in a milk or soft drink bottle holds an attraction for the small fry when left under the sink or on a cabinet. When mother says, "mustn't touch" Junior's curiosity gets the better of him and he drinks the lethal "pop."

In a recent report on 375 children who received emergency treatment after swallowing poisonous substances found in the home, 36 per cent of cases requiring over three days of hospitalization were due to kerosene. The solution to this hazard is simple: Never keep this or other petroleum products in a container within reach of young ones.

Poisoning has become a major health problem because our chemists are synthesizing new compounds faster than physicians can prepare antidotes. According to Doctors Edward Press and Robert B. Mellins, many cities have established a control program to meet this situation.

The Chicago plan of these physicians combines information and treatment service. By considering and handling poisonings on a public health basis, authorities hope to be as successful in conquering them as they were with smallpox, cholera, plague, and typhoid.

The hospital centers are cooperating by obtaining data on the toxic constituents of various household materials and on antidotes and the most recent methods of poisoning. As each poisoned child enters the hospital for emergency care, a detailed questionnaire is prepared giving the nature of the substance, symptoms, how the child obtained the lethal drug, and why it was placed where it was.

Research of this nature should pay dividends. Meanwhile, parents can help by keeping chemicals out of little hands. When mother catches Junior swallowing a poisonous compound, she should induce vomiting and then call a physician. In this way the lad can be kept under observation until all danger signs pass.

This is no time for complacency and carelessness if we hope to reduce the annual toll of 1,500 casualties and 15,000 disabilities from poisoning in the United States.

REST FOR THE COLON

F. T. writes: Could pockets in the colon be made to disappear entirely through proper diet and the avoidance of strain?

REPLY

No, but resting the colon through a bland diet and the avoidance of excesses will help to prevent irritation and infection of diverticulae.

VIRAL PNEUMONIA

P. C. writes: Does one bout of virus pneumonia leave a person more susceptible to a second attack?

REPLY

No, but repeated bouts usually mean that resistance is low or that unusual susceptibility to the virus exists.

FAST, POUNDING HEART

F. G. writes: Is a rapid pulse the same as palpitation of the heart?

REPLY

No. Palpitartion is a sensation of pounding of the heart. If the pulse is taken at this time, the rate may be slow but it often speeds up if the individual becomes frightened by the palpitation.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Improved Headlights For Night Driving

One of the major innovations in 1955 model automobiles that has not been exploited unduly in industry advertising is described in detail in a booklet released by the Automobile Manufacturers Association. For the first time in 15 years headlights have been improved.

The change is universal — all motor vehicle manufacturers in the United States and Canada have adopted what is called the "new, improved sealed beam lamp" for their production models.

Reason for the change is this: since 1945, the number of cars, trucks, and buses has almost doubled, so that now there are 60 million in the United States. With this huge increase, special problems of night driving have arisen.

Specifically, this means that there are fewer and fewer opportunities for the driver today to use his high beams. Four years ago, the manufacturer's association, the headlamp manufacturers, and the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators recognized this fact and began research and development that resulted in the new, improved headlamp.

Scientists and technicians in three fields—optics, illumination, and electrical engineering—were called in to help solve the problem. The changes they have come up with are not revolutionary, but they are somewhat surprising to the layman.

Basically, the change is in the lower beam. It has been redesigned to provide light farther ahead on the right side of the road—where pedestrians and other obstacles are likely to be. As much as 80 feet has been added to the distance the low beams will illuminate on the right.

Part of this increase was obtained by increasing the wattage of the lamps—five watts was added to each beam, bringing that of the low beam to 40 watts and that of the high beam to 50. Another change is in raising the height of the beam.

More than 50 different parts or optical elements of the sealed beam unit were studied and engineered to put the light where it will do the driver the most good. The result is that headlights now provide better night vision for the driver both under good and adverse weather conditions.

These Days

A Sense Of History

The National Committee for an Effective Congress has issued a circular letter to a general mailing list, including persons who have always opposed it. It wants more money. The letter is signed by Oscar Hammerstein II who writes successful plays and Sidney H. Scheuer, about whom I know nothing.

The circular letter speaks of a "know-nothing group in Congress" which is supposed to be a term of opprobrium but is historically a synonym for nationalism. Why Mr. Hammerstein does not call these members of Congress nationalists, I cannot know, except perhaps that to do so would lose him contributors. There is still a strong grassroots nationalistic sentiment in the United States, albeit one must admit that it is not too strong in Washington or New York where internationalism thrives despite all.

So, Messrs. Hammerstein and Scheuer hold that these nationalists combined with commentators, newspapers and organizations to grab "for the instruments of power, and set the political climate." These elected representatives of the people apparently did something wrong when they voted their consciences or according to the general attitude of their constituencies.

Then I must quote:

"On the other hand, the responsible candidates, when they arrived on Capitol Hill, found that most of the outside organizations to which they looked for support and research were limited in scope to specific legislative goals, mostly economic and usually unattainable in the existing climate. Yet these good legislators were in a fight to defend our way of life, requiring a sense of history reaching beyond the slogans of economic groups."

I cannot tell you who these "responsible candidates" who arrived on Capitol Hill are because they are not listed, although I think the writers meant elected representatives. Have it as you will, what makes one group "responsible" and another group power-grabbers? The answer is that those who agree with the National Committee for an Effective Congress are "responsible" and everybody else is a bum. You can turn that idea vice versa and come up with the same degree of truth.

The next sentence in this quoted paragraph I do not understand at all. Who are "these good legislators?" Is, for instance, Senator Flanders a good legislator because he read a speech that this committee prepared for him? Is Senator Dirksen a bad legislator because he did not read such a speech? Look at the record and the goodness or badness of neither is so clearly definable.

And what is meant by "a sense of history reaching beyond the slogans of economic groups?" What are these economic groups? Take, for instance, H.R. 1, the tariff act, which is supported by Henry Ford II and Walter Reuther, one representing ownership and management and the other the labor union — both in the same industry. Although they divide on the question of the annual wage, they unite on H.R. 1, on a freer trade tariff. Where is the clear-cut economic grouping? And what are their slogans? And wherein do they lack a sense of history? And why are we to believe that Messrs. Hammerstein and Scheuer have a more acute sense of history? The letter does not say.

Firstly, McCarthy was not censured.

Secondly, if what these gentlemen call know-nothingism and what actually is nationalism has so declined that it leaves a political vacuum, the National Committee for an Effective Congress has won a great victory. It has done its work. It should now go out of existence having saved the United States from the plague of nationalism. Even a doctor quits when the patient is cured. But no! This committee would fill that vacuum — that is, the vacuum created by the decline of nationalism. There is no vacuum among the internationalists.

Nevertheless, this organization wants more money to provide members of Congress with their services ". . . whether it involves a request for a lawyer with the qualifications and time to undertake a particular study, or the provision of a typist who can help prepare necessary documents—requires a constant application of skilled man-hours."

It is an interesting appeal. If they had asked me for a contribution, I would send mine to the Damon Runyon Fund or to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

"Hooray, I Think We've Got An Issue"

Adm. Carney Expects Quemoy-Matsu War To Begin About Middle Of April

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower sits down with congressional leaders today to try to get American foreign policy back on a bipartisan, even keel. As he does so, the legislators, plus the public, have been confused by a rash of completely conflicting headlines.

First headlines proclaimed that the Chinese Reds were expected to attack Quemoy and Matsu on or about April 15 and that this would probably lead to war.

Next day headlines announced that diplomats did not expect the Chinese Reds to attack that soon, or perhaps at all.

About the same time came an announcement from Foreign Minister Lester Pearson of Canada that much as Canada loved the U.S.A. it would not back us up in case of war over Quemoy and Matsu.

Naturally, the legislators have been confused.

Behind The Headlines

To the best of this writer's ability, here is a report on the background behind the confusion.

Background No. 1—Adm. Robert Carney, chief of nava. operations, a fine sailor but no diplomat, gave a briefing to newsmen that the Chinese Reds were expected to attack on or about April 15. The admiral was quite alarming. Of course admirals shouldn't talk. They're supposed to execute foreign policy, not formulate it. That is the background for last week's scare headlines. Now let's look at some more background.

Bomb Tests Unlikely To Affect Future Generations

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Governor Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, Democrat, was for 10 years a member of the Atomic Energy Committee of the United States Senate and was, therefore, able to learn a great deal about the super-bombs and their effects. He retired of his own volition last year. Recently he issued a statement to the press deploring the attempts on the part of certain scientists to exaggerate the effects of the atomic bomb tests in Nevada. He said in part:

"It must be crystal clear to everyone now that the carefully planted 'fright campaign' launched by Drs. Lanier and Puck of Colorado University was merely part of a nationwide drive by American scientists against the use of atomic bombs.

"Many of us could and would share their opposition to these lethal destroyers were it not that the United States is in a desperate and deadly atomic race with ruthless Russia . . . Much as the United States would like to stop testing and improving atomic bombs, she dare not do so . . .

Damaging To Free World

"We must not permit the defenses of this country to be weakened by wild and probably baseless speculation about the genetics of future generations. Unless American scientists remain way out in front of Russian atomic scientists, there will be no future generations of Americans.

"I am not accusing our Boulder (Colorado University) radiologists and their colleagues in other educational institutions in their fight against development of effective lethal weapons by the United States of being fifth columnists. But I do think their employing of 'fright strategy' to create public sentiment against the necessary testing of atomic bombs is most damaging to the defenses of the free world."

Shortly after this statement was issued, Governor Johnson had occasion to answer a letter from Mrs. Connie Montfort of Denver, Colo., and the following extract from the governor's letter reveals further details about the "scare story." Governor Johnson wrote:

"It seems to me the two university professors made a very grave and unnecessary mistake. This is what they did:

Cites Real Question

"On Friday they called a press conference and gave out a very frightening story to newspaper reporters about the dangers to the people of Denver of radiation caused by the Nevada atomic experiments. It was agreed that the story would not be published until the Sunday papers, March 13th . . .

"Why these professors did not take the matter up with the mayor of Denver or the governor of the state, or even the President of the United States, only they can explain. What did they expect the people of Denver to do? Hide in their basements and demand that the defense tests in Nevada be discontinued? The mayor, the governor, and the President have the responsibility of protecting the people and if there be danger, very quietly they should be alerted first.

"When I was told that they held their press conference on Friday and that they suggested it be published on Sunday, I said: 'If they know on Friday that the lives of the people of Denver are in danger on Friday and keep such facts under cover until Sunday, they ought to be arrested.'

"As I see it, the real question here is: shall the United States abandon the production, tactical development and improvement of atomic weapons, or shall we turn that field over exclusively to Soviet Russia?

Governor's Comments In Line

"I am convinced also that upon the scientists of America depends our security and safety. The free world owes them a great debt of gratitude. To continue to protect us from our enemies, the universities and colleges must turn out scientists in ever-increasing numbers. They gave us the atomic bomb. They can protect us from harmful radiation. They have well-equipped laboratories in which to do these things.

"But, remember this, no true scientist leaves his laboratory to run to the press with an unproven supposition. The true scientist develops his theories patiently, quietly, thoroughly, through the relentless process of trial and error."

Governor Johnson's comments are in line with the information available here from official sources —namely, that the amount of radioactivity outside of the immediate testing area is negligible and cannot be regarded as having any after-effect on future generations, as the propagandists are continually saying.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Here's the way the American public thinks about Maggie's dream boy.

We went right down the line with Eddie and Wallis from the minute Eddie told Churchill, "I may not attend your old coronation."

No finer words were ever engraved on a peppermint lozenge. Eddie sang, "I Got a Gal in Baltimore."

Townsend has a war record from here to there. He was one of the spitfires that wallopused Shickelgruber's invasion escadrilles. No reason for Maggie and Pete to bother with her old lady.

All they have to do is clear it with Godfrey.

We don't know what they mean by commoner, royal blood or dynasties. We thought the Duke of Windsor settled that business when he married the girl he loved. It looked like Winnie Churchill was going to run for president on the old school tie ticket.

This isn't exactly a Cinderella story because it's started too late upon a time, the glass slipper is a bit out-size and nobody has to get home by 12 midnight.

England is acting as stuffy as an attic closet about this romance.

All Maggie had to do is renounce her succession to the throne. All Pete has to do is stay home on his night out.

You know Winnie should have some say in it. Like all the other babies in the world theirs will be sure to look like him.

SAC is another world . . . another war. You won't find a "raunch" cap in the whole outfit. The memories of World War II pilots simmer in you, but their gaiety, their lighthearted raffishness are hard to believe as one moves through the stern sobriety of a SAC base.

The SAC pilot (oops, aircraft commander) doesn't smile often. He is likely to be 32, 33 years old and has a couple of children growing up. He is a major, most likely, or even a lieutenant colonel. On duty he carries sidearms. He knows the precise "yields" of every nuclear weapon, is hep to radiation problems, the fantastic mathematics of intercontinental navigation, and the figures on life expectancy.

Knows His Target

He has made his will and literally is packed and ready to go on a few minutes' notice. His target was selected for him several years ago. He knows it as well as he knows the face of his wife. He has "bombed" it scores of times on the endless practice missions. He'd recognize it on his radar screen through 50,000 feet of pea soup.

There's a place in this country that looks just like it—let's say the railroad switching yards of Chicago, or the Pentagon building—and so he is often sent there, sometimes by way of the north pole. A truck filled with electronic equipment, parked at the site of the target, keeps tabs on the accuracy of his hypothetical bomb drop.

A near-miss isn't good enough. In SAC nothing is "good enough." It must be damned perfect. If it isn't, somebody gets rapped on the skull with an on-the-spot reduction in rank. But it works the other way, too, and the men of SAC have come to live by those standards . . . just as the boss himself lives by them.

The boss?—he's just tough, that's all. He walked out to a bomber once when the ground crew was gassing it up, and kept his cigar in his mouth, despite the heavy perfume of the gas vapors. A sergeant said, "General, better douse that cigar . . . this ship might burn."

"It wouldn't DARE," the boss growled.

Accidental Poisoning Has Become Big Health Problem

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Accidental poisoning in children could be avoided if parents would put all toxic materials out of reach. This is difficult to do because most households are arsenals for chemicals used for cleaning, bleaching, killing flies and rats, coloring hair, and curing athlete's foot. Some of these preparations are highly poisonous but we have become careless about them because they are so readily available at the store.

We need only to look at the records to determine that kerosene, for example, in a milk or soft drink bottle holds an attraction for the small fry when left under the sink or on a cabinet. When mother says, "mustn't touch" Junior's curiosity gets the better of him and he drinks the lethal "pop."

In a recent report on 375 children who received emergency treatment after swallowing poisonous substances found in the home, 36 per cent of cases requiring over three days of hospitalization were due to kerosene. The solution to this hazard is simple: Never keep this or other petroleum products in a container within reach of young ones.

Poisoning has become a major health problem because our chemists are synthesizing new compounds faster than physicians can prepare antidotes. According to Doctors Edward Press and Robert B. Mellins, many cities have established a control program to meet this situation.

The Chicago plan of these physicians combines information and treatment service. By considering and handling poisonings on a public health basis, authorities hope to be as successful in conquering them as they were with smallpox, cholera, plague, and typhoid.

The hospital centers are cooperating by obtaining data on the toxic constituents of various household materials and on antidotes and the most recent methods of poisoning. As each poisoned child enters the hospital for emergency care, a detailed questionnaire is prepared giving the nature of the substance, symptoms, how the child obtained the lethal drug, and why it was placed where it was.

Research of this nature should pay dividends. Meanwhile, parents can help by keeping chemicals out of little hands. When mother catches Junior swallowing a poisonous compound, she should induce vomiting and then call a physician. In this way the lad can be kept under observation until all danger signs pass.

This is no time for complacency and carelessness if we hope to reduce the annual toll of 1,500 casualties and 15,000 disabilities from poisoning in the United States.

REST FOR THE COLON

F. T. writes: Could pockets in the colon be made to disappear entirely through proper diet and the avoidance of strain?

REPLY

No, but resting the colon through a bland diet and the avoidance of excesses will help to prevent irritation and infection of diverticulae.

VIRAL PNEUMONIA

P. C. writes: Does one bout of virus pneumonia leave a person more susceptible to a second attack?

REPLY

No, but repeated bouts usually mean that resistance is low or that unusual susceptibility to the virus exists.

FAST, POUNDING HEART

F. G. writes: Is a rapid pulse the same as palpitation of the heart?

REPLY

No. Palpitartion is a sensation of pounding of the heart. If the pulse is taken at this time, the rate may be slow but it often speeds up if the individual becomes frightened by the palpitation.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

One of the idiosyncrasies of International Business Machine's headman Tom Watson in his insistence on having sign's commanding "THINK" plastered all over the premises. A search is now in progress for the miscreant who penciled "OR THWIM" on the bottom of all of them when the staff had gone home one night.

There was a look of deep compassion in the judge's eyes—particularly the left one, which was made of glass. "You have testified that you never were sent to prison before," he said to the cowering specimen before him. "That's right, Your Honor," sniveled the prisoner. "Never in my whole life!" "There, there, don't cry," soothed the judge. "You're going to be now!"

Milwaukee has gotten the baseball bug so badly that when a brand-new father was asked last season at what hour his heir had put in an appearance, he enthused, "Just 10 seconds before Eddie Matthews hit one over the roof in the fourth inning."

Speaking of cafes, we note that this year mark the 300th anniversary of the establishment of the first tavern in North America. After three centuries the industry, no doubt, finds itself ale and hearty!

Seventeenth Century taverns, we read, were used as meeting houses for debate. They still are, only now it's called bar-side argument.

Old Fire House Being Razed

The building on Plum Alley between Washington and Greene streets which housed the old Vigilant Hose Company, a group of volunteer firemen on West Side, is now being razed. The structure was built back in 1890 and was in use before the paid fire department was established in Cumberland. During recent years the old building has been lying idle.

Assembly Seeks

The House confirmed a favorable report on a bill by Del. Combs (D-St. Mary's) to prevent a company from selling at different prices throughout the state for the purpose of eliminating competition. It was aimed at a Washington milk distributor accused by St. Mary's County dairymen of underselling them to put them out of business.

Favor School Aid

The House also adopted a favorable report on increase of the State's aid for constructing schools. The revised aid is estimated to produce 170 million dollars within the next five years.

The Senate Finance Committee at the same time shuffled off to the Legislative Council for study a bill that would have the State borrow 75 million dollars from which the counties in turn could borrow for school construction.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to outlaw wiretapping in Maryland and prohibiting any evidence so obtained from admission in court. It permits fines and sentences up to $1,000 and one year in jail.

Also moved along to the House were two bulky bills streamlining Public Service Commission laws, and two others to liberalize workmen's compensation benefits.

Former Fire House Being Demolished

Vigilant Co. Was On Plum Alley

A two-story brick building on Plum Alley between Washington and Greene streets, which housed fire fighting apparatus and provided quarters for volunteer firemen just before the turn of the century, is now being razed.

The Vigilant Hose Company which was in the building on West Side was one of the oldest volunteer companies formed in Cumberland prior to the paid department.

Others included Pioneer No. 1, where Central Fire Station now is located; Canada Hose Company, North Mechanic Street and Chapel Hill Hose Company on Arch Street.

The building now being demolished by Brown and Nazelrod of Bowmans Addition, is reported to have been constructed in the 1890s.

During recent years it has been lying idle and was being used for storage space.

The Plum Alley building is one of three fire houses on West Side where fire fighting equipment was kept before the present station was constructed on Greene Street.

The other two now occupied as residences are on Spruce Alley near Cumberland Street and on Smallwood Street near Greene.

Injured In Crash

Robert Paugh, 23, Kitzmiller, was injured in a two-car collision in the Uniontown area over the weekend. He sustained left hip and leg fractures, a head injury and contusions of the feet and upper eyelid.

His wife, Shirley, 18, received head and pelvis injuries while her mother-in-law, Mrs. Violet Paugh, driver of the vehicle, 42, had elbow and shoulder injuries, contusion of the right thigh and abrasion of the right ear.

Claudine Paugh, 20, daughter of the driver suffered a head injury, fractured legs, lacerations of the forehead and a scalp abrasion. A brother, Delbert, 18, was cut about the head.

Driver of the other vehicle in the crash near Braddock's Inn on Route 40 was Mrs. Sarah Malone, 52, RD 3, Washington, Pa., who had contusions of the left elbow.

With the exception of Delbert Paugh, and Mrs. Violet Paugh, other members of the family were admitted to Uniontown Hospital. Ice on the highway was blamed for the mishap.

Traffic Control Plan Is Approved

An agreement was made yesterday afternoon in the office of Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan on traffic control plans for the new Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge.

He said plans were made for the city to lay conduits for the traffic lights at the approach just before the concrete is poured for the approach to the bridge.

Commissioner Keegan said the plans are being worked out carefully so it will not be necessary to tear up the concrete pavement.

Plans for the traffic controls, approved by the Bureau of Public Roads, will be turned over to the engineer of a signal equipment firm so he can design the lights.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 29 (INS)—Had luncheon with Cornell Borchers, the German beauty brought here from Munich for "A Time Remembered." She looks like the young Ingrid Bergman—the scrubbed, wholesome appearance that Ingrid had when she first arrived in Hollywood, although Cornell's much more blonde and her eyes are bluer.

She speaks English fluently and she said that she is getting off to a wonderful start at U-I. She not only has Rock Hudson as her co-star, but George Sanders as well.

Cornell said she's going to open in "Anastasia" on the stage in Vienna in September. That ought to be a hint to Darryl Zanuck, who shares her contract. Who could do better than this girl?

James Dean, after driving his first sports car race and roaring his white Porsche roadster to victory in Palm Springs over the weekend, is due for an unpleasant surprise, methinks.

Interviewed following his speed victory, Dean was asked if his film producers objected to his racing. "No," said the 24-year-old sensation of "East of Eden," "not if I'm not working in a picture."

That's what he thinks. Warner Brothers have a few thousand words to say to the young daredevil about this dangerous sport. Remember when MGM "grounded" Keenan Wynn, Van Johnson and other motorcycle demons whether they were working or not?

Terrifying and brooding, "Night of the Hunter," is the most completely different horror movie I have ever seen and it proves beyond doubt that Robert Mitchum is one of our finest actors.

Charles Laughton, making his debut as a director, has not tried to whitewash Davis Grubb's best-seller about an evil man hiding behind a cloak of religion whose greed drives him to the point of maniacal murder. His grim, relentless stalking of two small children whom he believes know where $10,000 is hidden, caused women to scream at the previews.

It is to be expected that Paul Gregory's first screen production coupled with Charles Laughton's initial directing stint would be "arty" and unusual — and "Night of the Hunter" is.

Judith Anderson will realize an actress' dream this summer when she goes to Paris to star in "Media" under the auspices of our government's salute to France's program of cultural exchange with foreign countries.

She will occupy the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre and will also use the great Bernhardt's dressing room, a thing that would give any actress a feeling of great inspiration.

Judith, who is very excited about going into "The Ten Commandments" for De Mille, will finish her work for C. B. before she goes on to Paris.

When Ruth Roman goes to Las Vegas for Mario Lanza's opening at the New Frontier Hotel, she'll likely stay on and establish residence to divorce Mortimer Hall.

Allan Jones' son, Theodore Allan, graduates from the Air Force Technical School as a lieutenant jet pilot tomorrow. Allan planes to Oklahoma for the ceremonies, but he'll be back in time to open at the Mocambo April 12.

Jeff Chandler is taking his recently reconciled wife with him to New York and Boston for 10 days before he catches up with the "Away All Boats" company in the Virgin Islands. Marjorie can't go all the way because she has to look after the children.

Tony Martin gave the Heart of Gold award he received from the City of Hope as "humanitarian of the year," to his mother. He said he felt she deserved it.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Snakes can swim, contrary to general belief. They cannot strike as far on water as on land because of lack of firm support. But their bite is almost as effective under water as elsewhere.

Just make sure your little daughter keeps the natural charm she has now, and she'll charm the world.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

But as she grows up, her natural charm should be encouraged and guided. Her natural charm, the charm she was born with as a happy, warmhearted child. You can help her most by helping her to be herself in any situation, and by keeping her from feeling awkward and restrained because she is unsure of herself and what to do.

Meeting people, for example. Take your little daughter with you to the door to greet visitors from the time she's able to run about. She loves to see someone new when she's very little, and if she always joins you in a happy welcome then, she won't go through a period of being coaxed even to say "hello" later.

Introduce her as warmly and as definitely as you do a grownup, say the visitor's name to her plainly, and add a few words of identification. Make her feel that it's important that she know your friends; never let her feel left out. The trick, of course, is to make her feel interested in someone new. Of course, you can teach her polite words to say, but to encourage a perfectly natural attitude with new people from the beginning brings sincerity to whatever words she says, and it starts her toward being a charming person to meet the rest of her life.

Your own example counts so much. She feels your own sincerity long before she quite knows the meaning of all your words.

How to say "thank you" is another thing she must learn very young. Your own warm thanks to anyone who does something for her or brings her a gift has her chiming in so delightedly and naturally when she's tiny, she'll do her own thanking alone in just a few years more. Just teach her all you can by example before she's old enough to be selfconscious, and there should be no problem later.

Make sure the little one always joins you in saying "goodbye" graciously, too. These three small social graces—meeting people, saying "thank you" and "goodbye"—are really big ones. They're keys to all her future relations with her world, important keys to charm.

However, she may not turn in a perfect performance every time. A friend of mine was proud to bursting of his five-year-old daughter as her birthday party guests departed. "Goodbye" she said, "Please come to see us again." But she added something of her own. "Please come to see us again," she smiled at her friends, "and bring more presents."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 29 (INS)—Had luncheon with Cornell Borchers, the German beauty brought here from Munich for "A Time Remembered." She looks like the young Ingrid Bergman—the scrubbed, wholesome appearance that Ingrid had when she first arrived in Hollywood, although Cornell's much more blonde and her eyes are bluer.

She speaks English fluently and she said that she is getting off to a wonderful start at U-I. She not only has Rock Hudson as her co-star, but George Sanders as well.

Cornell said she's going to open in "Anastasia" on the stage in Vienna in September. That ought to be a hint to Darryl Zanuck, who shares her contract. Who could do better than this girl?

James Dean, after driving his first sports car race and roaring his white Porsche roadster to victory in Palm Springs over the weekend, is due for an unpleasant surprise, methinks.

Interviewed following his speed victory, Dean was asked if his film producers objected to his racing. "No," said the 24-year-old sensation of "East of Eden," "not if I'm not working in a picture."

That's what he thinks. Warner Brothers have a few thousand words to say to the young daredevil about this dangerous sport. Remember when MGM "grounded" Keenan Wynn, Van Johnson and other motorcycle demons whether they were working or not?

Terrifying and brooding, "Night of the Hunter," is the most completely different horror movie I have ever seen and it proves beyond doubt that Robert Mitchum is one of our finest actors.

Charles Laughton, making his debut as a director, has not tried to whitewash Davis Grubb's best-seller about an evil man hiding behind a cloak of religion whose greed drives him to the point of maniacal murder. His grim, relentless stalking of two small children whom he believes know where $10,000 is hidden, caused women to scream at the previews.

It is to be expected that Paul Gregory's first screen production coupled with Charles Laughton's initial directing stint would be "arty" and unusual — and "Night of the Hunter" is.

Judith Anderson will realize an actress' dream this summer when she goes to Paris to star in "Medea" under the auspices of our government's salute to France's program of cultural exchange with foreign countries.

She will occupy the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre and will also use the great Bernhardt's dressing room, a thing that would give any actress a feeling of great inspiration.

Judith, who is very excited about going into "The Ten Commandments" for De Mille, will finish her work for C. B. before she goes on to Paris.

When Ruth Roman goes to Las Vegas for Mario Lanza's opening at the New Frontier Hotel, she'll likely stay on and establish residence to divorce Mortimer Hall.

Allan Jones' son, Theodore Allan, graduates from the Air Force Technical School as a lieutenant jet pilot tomorrow. Allan planes to Oklahoma for the ceremonies, but he'll be back in time to open at the Mocambo April 12.

Jeff Chandler is taking his recently reconciled wife with him to New York and Boston for 10 days before he catches up with the "Away All Boats" company in the Virgin Islands. Marjorie can't go all the way because she has to look after the children.

Tony Martin gave the Heart of Gold award he received from the City of Hope as "humanitarian of the year," to his mother. He said he felt she deserved it.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

But as she grows up, her natural charm should be encouraged and guided. Her natural charm, the charm she was born with as a happy, warmhearted child. You can help her most by helping her to be herself in any situation, and by keeping her from feeling awkward and restrained because she is unsure of herself and what to do.

Meeting people, for example. Take your little daughter with you to the door to greet visitors from the time she's able to run about. She loves to see someone new when she's very little, and if she always joins you in a happy welcome then, she won't go through a period of being coaxed even to say "hello" later.

Introduce her as warmly and as definitely as you do a grownup, say the visitor's name to her plainly, and add a few words of identification. Make her feel that it's important that she know your friends; never let her feel left out. The trick, of course, is to make her feel interested in someone new. Of course, you can teach her polite words to say, but to encourage a perfectly natural attitude with new people from the beginning brings sincerity to whatever words she says, and it starts her toward being a charming person to meet the rest of her life.

Your own example counts so much. She feels your own sincerity long before she quite knows the meaning of all your words.

How to say "thank you" is another thing she must learn very young. Your own warm thanks to anyone who does something for her or brings her a gift has her chiming in so delightedly and naturally when she's tiny, she'll do her own thanking alone in just a few years more. Just teach her all you can by example before she's old enough to be selfconscious, and there should be no problem later.

Make sure the little one always joins you in saying "goodbye" graciously, too. These three small social graces—meeting people, saying "thank you" and "goodbye"—are really big ones. They're keys to all her future relations with her world, important keys to charm.

However, she may not turn in a perfect performance every time. A friend of mine was proud to bursting of his five-year-old daughter as her birthday party guests departed. Nationally Known Drivers To Vie In Sports Car Races Here

Three Entered In Grand Prix Test In France

Momo Sending Five Cars For Lions Club Benefit On May 15

Four nationally known drivers, namely, Briggs Cunningham, Bill Spear, Bill Lloyd and Sherwood Johnston, will be at the wheel for the National Sports Car Races that will be staged at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, Sunday, May 15, under the co-sponsorship of the Cumberland Lions Club and the Steel Cities Region (Pittsburgh) of the Sports Car Club of America, it was announced last night.

Three of the drivers, Cunningham, Spear and Johnston, will use the local races as a tuneup for the Grand Prix 24-hour endurance event at LeMans, France, June 13-14, as the airport races will be their last competition in the United States prior to their departure for Europe.

The Lions Club has been advised that Momo Corporation of New York City, which maintains high tuned sports cars, is sending five machines here for the May 15 event—three Maseratis (each three litres); one Ferrari (4½ litres) and either on Osca (1½ litres) or a Porsche Spyder (1½ litres). Cunningham, Spear, Lloyd and Johnston will drive these machines. Alfred Momo, of the Momo Corporation, will act as race manager and will be in charge of maintenance of the vehicles. Momo, accompanied by four mechanics, and five cars are scheduled to arrive here Friday, May 13.

An entry of more than 125 cars is expected to vie in the six races here.

Drivers and crew receive no prize money or entry money, in fact, they pay out quite a bit for the privilege of competing for trophies. Since the races here are designated as a national event, all points earned will count in the Sports Car Club of America championship standings.

Sugar Robinson Beats Lombardo

The attendance was 5,124 and the gross receipts were $1,008.50. The fight was neither televised nor broadcast.

Lane Decisions Armand Savoie

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 29 (AP)—Kenny Lane, Michigan lightweight champion, danced to a unanimous 10-round decision over Armand Savoie before 1,635 spectators tonight.

Both fighters weighed in at 139 pounds.

Lane, recently named as 10th ranking lightweight contender, will take on lightweight champion Jimmy Carter in a title bout in Grand Rapids next June. Savoie, a Montreal, Canada, veteran of 71 professional fights, seemed listless throughout the fight.

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 30—(INS)—Rookie ballplayers "ain't never had it so good," and you will see more strange faces this year with major league clubs than ever before.

Jobs are going begging, and anybody with even a touch of class should be able to find a spot on some clubs.

Several rookies already have won regular jobs. These are the lads who are tabbed as of the "can't miss" variety.

Maybe they can't miss—and we hope they won't—but bitter experience teaches that the phenoms of the training camps often are playing for Peoria in June.

Most solid of the "can't miss" boys are two young lefties, Herb Score of Cleveland and Karl Spooner of Brooklyn; third baseman Ken Boyer of St. Louis and first baseman Gus Triandos of the Baltimore Orioles.

Spooner has some extra credentials on the strength of the two shutouts he pitched against the New York Giants and Pittsburgh just before the season ended last year. In the process he fanned 15 Giants and 12 Pirates.

Roy Campanella, the Dodgers' veteran catcher, says Spooner is the best young pitcher he ever saw. But Hank Greenberg, the Indians' general manager, tops that one: he says Score is going to be the best pitcher in baseball.

Boyer earned his job with the Cardinals even before he went to camp. The club was so high on this youngster that it felt safe in trading off the hard hitting Ray Jablonski to the Reds.

Lou Boudreau can use anything that breathes at Kansas City. So can Fred Haney at Pittsburgh. But to most of the other managers, rookies can be a headache.

Walter Alston of the Dodgers has several problems. Can Jackie Robinson and Pee Wee Reese last another year? If so, where? or should rookies like Chico Fernandez and Don Zimmer be groomed to replace them?

The pitchers are even more of a problem. Should this kid with the blazing fast ball be kept and a fading veteran be released? and if he trades the veteran, will the rookie stand up?

It's questions like these that make trading difficult before the time nears to cut down the squads. Trades can be haunting nightmares to a manager, even if he doesn't get a second guess from the front office.

How often have you seen a veteran pitcher traded only to come back to bedevil his old club? The Pirates once gave old Preacher Roe away to the Dodgers, and you may recall how Roe became a big winner for his new club.

Snider Is Hero As Dodgers Win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 29 (AP)—A three-run homer by Duke Snider spoiled young Humberto Robinson's shutout record today and helped the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 5-4 exhibition baseball victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Roy Campanella also hit a double off Gene Conley as the Dodgers and Braves opened an eight-game tour before an overflow crowd of 8,296.

Robinson, the Panama youth, had allowed only one hit and no bases on balls in 12 innings. He walked Junior Gilliam and Pee Wee Reese, the first two batters he faced today. Snider then cleared the rightfield wall to spoil his shutout record. Campanella's runscoring double was the only hit off Conley in four innings.

The Gulfers jumped off to a 23-11 lead in the first quarter and never were headed.

Yoder's Tops Oakland

In the first of two Senior Division contests, Yoder's Plumbers, sparked by Roy Lester and Wayne Boor, who dumped in 41 points between them, ushered out the Oakland Independents by the score of 73-56.

The victory advanced Yoder's quint to the semi-finals where they will oppose Sisk's Gulfers tonight at 9 o'clock.

Yoder's grabbed an 18-14 lead at the quarter, held the long end of a 39-31 score at halftime and were in front 53-45 when the third period ended.

Lester collected 21 points and Boor had 21. Charley Durben was Oakland's high man with 22 tallies.

Hammond Reaches Finals

Manager Jimmie Flanagan's Hammond Agency cagers of Ridgeley marched into the finals of the 135-pound Division by knocking off the Community Parking Lot cagers in the first game of the evening's program by the score of 74-61.

Fritz Showers, Ridgeley High School ace, sparked the Hammond aggregation to victory with a 23 point output while Donald Wolford contributed 19 points. Showers, Wolford and Eddei Powelson accounted for 22 of the winners' 27 field goals. Dale Middleton scored 24 points for the losers.

The Hammond quint will play the winner of the Leo's Medics-Optimist Club game in the championship tilt Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Niland Gets 35 Points

Stoops' Restaurant of Frostburg, managed by Ritchie Middleton, earned the right to play McIntyre's Confectionery in the Junior Unlimited championship game Thursday night at 8:30 by whipping Ley's Lads last night to the tune of 78-58.

Stoops' quint, composed of players from Beall, Piedmont and Bruce high schools, are the defending champions in the Junior Unlimited Division.

Bobby Niland, Piedmont High star, slammed in 35 points to lead Stoops' attack. He meshed 12 field goals and netted eleven additional points at the foul line. Ley's Lads quint was composed of members of LaSalle High's varsity quint. Rickey Harris was high point man for the losers with 19 tallies, including eight field goals.

Canadians Cop, 4-3

BOSTON, March 29 (INS)—Don Marshall zipped a 30-foot shot into the Boston goal at 3:05 of the first "sudden death" period tonight to give Montreal a 4-3 victory and a commanding 3-1 lead in the best of seven game Stanley Cup series B playoff.

Orioles Trim Phillies, 6-3

Woodling's Two-Run Safety Decides Tilt

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Rookie Don Leppert and veteran Gene Woodling knocked in two runs each to lead Baltimore to a 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in an exhibition baseball game today.

Robin Roberts, the Phillies' ace righthander, gave up a single, three sixth inning walks and hit Gil Coan with a pitch before Woodling came through with a clinching two-run safety that highlighted Baltimore's four-run rally.

Like Roberts, who was the loser, Oriole starter Lou Kretlow was wild on a cold, windy afternoon but was credited with the victory after giving up six hits in six innings.

Nationally Known Drivers To Vie In Sports Car Races Here

Momo Sending Five Cars For Lions Club Benefit On May 15

Four nationally known drivers, namely, Briggs Cunningham, Bill Spear, Bill Lloyd and Sherwood Johnston, will be at the wheel for the National Sports Car Races that will be staged at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, Sunday, May 15, under the co-sponsorship of the Cumberland Lions Club and the Steel Cities Region (Pittsburgh) of the Sports Car Club of America, it was announced last night.

Three of the drivers, Cunningham, Spear and Johnston, will use the local races as a tuneup for the Grand Prix 24-hour endurance event at LeMans, France, June 13-14, as the airport races will be their last competition in the United States prior to their departure for Europe.

The Lions Club has been advised that Momo Corporation of New York City, which maintains high tuned sports cars, is sending five machines here for the May 15 event—three Maseratis (each three litres); one Ferrari (4½ litres) and either on Osca (1½ litres) or a Porsche Spyder (1½ litres). Cunningham, Spear, Lloyd and Johnston will drive these machines. Alfred Momo, of the Momo Corporation, will act as race manager and will be in charge of maintenance of the vehicles. Momo, accompanied by four mechanics, and five cars are scheduled to arrive here Friday, May 13.

An entry of more than 125 cars is expected to vie in the six races here.

Drivers and crew receive no prize money or entry money, in fact, they pay out quite a bit for the privilege of competing for trophies. Since the races here are designated as a national event, all points earned will count in the Sports Car Club of America championship standings.

Sugar Robinson Beats Lombardo

The attendance was 5,124 and the gross receipts were $1,008.50. The fight was neither televised nor broadcast.

Lane Decisions Armand Savoie

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 29 (AP)—Kenny Lane, Michigan lightweight champion, danced to a unanimous 10-round decision over Armand Savoie before 1,635 spectators tonight.

Both fighters weighed in at 139 pounds.

Lane, recently named as 10th ranking lightweight contender, will take on lightweight champion Jimmy Carter in a title bout in Grand Rapids next June. Savoie, a Montreal, Canada, veteran of 71 professional fights, seemed listless throughout the fight.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 30—(INS)—Rookie ballplayers "ain't never had it so good," and you will see more strange faces this year with major league clubs than ever before.

Jobs are going begging, and anybody with even a touch of class should be able to find a spot on some clubs.

Several rookies already have won regular jobs. These are the lads who are tabbed as of the "can't miss" variety.

Maybe they can't miss—and we hope they won't—but bitter experience teaches that the phenoms of the training camps often are playing for Peoria in June.

Most solid of the "can't miss" boys are two young lefties, Herb Score of Cleveland and Karl Spooner of Brooklyn; third baseman Ken Boyer of St. Louis and first baseman Gus Triandos of the Baltimore Orioles.

Spooner has some extra credentials on the strength of the two shutouts he pitched against the New York Giants and Pittsburgh just before the season ended last year. In the process he fanned 15 Giants and 12 Pirates.

Roy Campanella, the Dodgers' veteran catcher, says Spooner is the best young pitcher he ever saw. But Hank Greenberg, the Indians' general manager, tops that one: he says Score is going to be the best pitcher in baseball.

Boyer earned his job with the Cardinals even before he went to camp. The club was so high on this youngster that it felt safe in trading off the hard hitting Ray Jablonski to the Reds.

Lou Boudreau can use anything that breathes at Kansas City. So can Fred Haney at Pittsburgh. But to most of the other managers, rookies can be a headache.

Walter Alston of the Dodgers has several problems. Can Jackie Robinson and Pee Wee Reese last another year? If so, where? or should rookies like Chico Fernandez and Don Zimmer be groomed to replace them?

The pitchers are even more of a problem. Should this kid with the blazing fast ball be kept and a fading veteran be released? and if he trades the veteran, will the rookie stand up?

It's questions like these that make trading difficult before the time nears to cut down the squads. Trades can be haunting nightmares to a manager, even if he doesn't get a second guess from the front office.

How often have you seen a veteran pitcher traded only to come back to bedevil his old club? The Pirates once gave old Preacher Roe away to the Dodgers, and you may recall how Roe became a big winner for his new club.

Snider Is Hero As Dodgers Win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 29 (AP)—A three-run homer by Duke Snider spoiled young Humberto Robinson's shutout record today and helped the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 5-4 exhibition baseball victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Roy Campanella also hit a double off Gene Conley as the Dodgers and Braves opened an eight-game tour before an overflow crowd of 8,296.

Robinson, the Panama youth, had allowed only one hit and no bases on balls in 12 innings. He walked Junior Gilliam and Pee Wee Reese, the first two batters he faced today. Snider then cleared the rightfield wall to spoil his shutout record. Campanella's run-scoring double was the only hit off Conley in four innings.

Woodling's Two-Run Safety Decides Tilt

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Rookie Don Leppert and veteran Gene Woodling knocked in two runs each to lead Baltimore to a 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in an exhibition baseball game today.

Robin Roberts, the Phillies' ace righthander, gave up a single, three sixth inning walks and hit Gil Coan with a pitch before Woodling came through with a clinching two-run safety that highlighted Baltimore's four-run rally.

Like Roberts, who was the loser, Oriole starter Lou Kretlow was wild on a cold, windy afternoon but was credited with the victory after giving up six hits in six innings.

Sammy Boulmetis Boots Home Three Winners At Bowie

Hartack Suspended For Careless Ride Aboard Inn Keeper

BOWIE, Md., March 29 (AP)—Jockey Sammy Boulmetis rode three winners, including Trio Stable's Royal Morse in the $4,000 seven-furlongs sixth race which featured today's card.

Royal Morse was close to the pace-setting Joe's Jeannie in the early furlongs and engaged in a stretch battle with Royal Briar to emerge the winner by a photographed nose. The distance was covered in 1:25 2/5, not particularly fast time. Gwenys Wow Wow picked up third money a length-and-a-half farther back and another nose over Our Dance.

Well-backed horses performed well as a day that looked like spring but still felt like the breath of winter attracted 9,858 fans who poured $981,805 through the mutuels during the 8-race program.

The lucky daily double numbers were 9 and 3. Dance-A-Bit ($14.40 straight) won the first event and Dream Passes ($6.40) the second to return $42.60 in the double.

Boulmetis' first victory was aboard Smooth Stride in the third race, a 4½ furlong event for 2-year-olds run in the good time of :53 3/5. Sammy also got home first in the eighth event on Shamrock Hill ($4.60).

Jockey Willie Hartack found the winners' circle only once today, an unusual occurrence for the leading rider. But he won't be around for the next 10 racing days. Hartack was suspended by the stewards for carless riding aboard Inn Keeper in yesterday's last race.

High Ore, 25-1, Wins

LINCOLN DOWNS, R. I., March 29 (AP)—C. B. Fischback's High Ore, a 25 to 1 shot, nipped Mrs. Esther Foley's Fillequine in a photo finish today to win the $3,000 Richmond Purse at Lincoln Downs.

The 2 to 5 favorite, T. P. Morgan's Poco G, was fourth in the seven-horse field.

High Ore, the young daughter of Orestes III, nudged Fillequine by a head in the 7-furlong sprint for 3-year-olds and paid $52.80, $15.20 and $10.00. She was clocked in 1:26 4/5.

Ocala Girl Scores

MIAMI, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Ocala Girl, the longest priced entrant in the $2,800 Dania Purse, surprised the 11,109 spectators at Gulfstream Park today by registering a neck victory.

The $29.20 betting proposition, owned by Reiber and Wagner, defeated Taylorcrest Stable's Big Billie while covering the mile and an eighth in 1:52 1/5. Leo Fruchtman's Might Wish was a length and a half behind Bill Billie and led D. H. Wells' Lady Alibi by one length.

Browns Sign Noll

CLEVELAND, March 29 (AP)—Chuck Noll today signed his third contract with the Cleveland Football Browns. An offensive guard the past two seasons, he is considered a possible successor to Tom Catlin as a linebacker and defensive signal caller. Catlin left for duty in the Air Force last month.

Russians Say

Meets Like Circus, Lights Are Blinding

MOSCOW, March 29 (AP) — The cigaret smoke in Madison Square Garden and other United States arenas where indoor track meets are held is ruining European athletes, the Russians say.

Russian sports fans also like to smoke, but Russia has few if any indoor sports arenas. Under a new policy, it is now building both indoor sports rinks and ice rinks.

The Soviet Sports devoted a three column article to the performances of United States track and field athletes.

It remarked that many new records were set, but complained that the American conditions were unfair to European stars who were invited to compete.

Soviet Sports also printed the complaint of a Norwegian runner named Audun Boysen. The Norwegian stated that American indoor track conditions ruined European athletes.

This may be one of the reasons that Vladimir Kuc, world champion Russian runner, did not accept an invitation to the United States for the winter track season.

The official sport explanation was that Kuc was too busy with his studies to go to the United States.

However, he did find time to go to France for sports events sponsored by Humanite, the French Communist party newspaper.

Boysen is quoted in the Moscow press as stating that American indoor track meets remind him of a circus. He says, according to the Russian press, that "athletes are blinded by the bright lights and that the jazz music in the arenas blares loudly and the air is filled with tobacco smoke."

Ernie Banks Stars In Chicago Victory

MESA, Ariz., March 29 (AP)—Ernie Banks, continuing a hot hitting spree, today led the Chicago Cubs to their fifth straight exhibition triumph over the Cleveland Indians, 9-7.

Banks slammed a run-scoring double in a five-run first inning, added his third home run in two days in the third, and singled in the seventh when the Cubs scored two runs to break a 7-7 tie.

Hal Jeffcoat was the winning pitcher. He yielded two hits in three and two-thirds innings after relieving starter Bob Rush. Rush gave up 11 hits, including a home run by Al Rosen.

Sox Option Hurler

TAMPA, Fla., March 29 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox today optioned pitcher Connie Johnson to Toronto of the International League. Johnson, a righthander, had a 17-8 record with Toronto last year.

The United States sold 300 million dollars worth of three cent stamps in 1954.

Frank Thomas' Two-Run Homer Wins For Bucs

Ninth Inning Wallop Sinks Athletics, 9-8

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Frank Thomas blasted a 2-run homer in the ninth inning today to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 9-8 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

Both the Pirates and A's sprayed home runs all over the place. Thomas, Bob Skinner, Roberto Clemente and George Freese hit round trippers for Pittsburgh. Gus Zernial hit a pair and Bill Wilson one for Kansas City.

The A's got a bad scare in the second inning when their little hard-luck lefthander, Bobby Shantz, was hit by a line drive off the bat of Earl Smith and was carried from the field.

Examination at a hospital showed Shantz had no fracture or concussion and had suffered a glancing blow that tore his left ear. The ball bounced into right field for a single and scored the two runs charged against the pint sized hurler who is trying to come back after being out all last season with a sore shoulder.

Bob Trice and Leroy Wheat followed Shantz to the mound.

McCoole VFW Sets Two Bowling Marks

McCOOLE, Md., March 29 — Queens Point Memorial Post No. 6775, Veterans of Foreign Wars, champions of the Keyser City Bowling League for five straight years, established two records during the 1954-55 season.

The team set a one-game five-man record of 958 pins against the Barger Buick team on January 7 and then bettered that mark by spilling 972 maples in a match with the Keyser Lions Club on March 16. The latter record was established by Haines (188), Riggleman (184), Strothers (172), Moyolo (204) and Metz (224).

The Post also holds the all-time record of 2,690 for three games.

Cincinnati Beats Washington, 5-1

ORLANDO, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Three-hit pitching by Art Fowler and Jim Pierce and a home run by their catcher, Ed Bailey, paced the Cincinnati Redlegs to a 5-1 victory over the Washington Nationals today in an exhibition baseball contest.

Fowler yielded two hits and the lone Washington run in the second. Pierce pitched the last four innings. In one stretch, from the third to the eighth inning, Fowler and Pierce retired 16 batters in a row.

Stan Musial To Play First Base For Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Manager Eddie Stanky said today he might use Stan Musial, the $80,000 star of the St. Louis Cardinals, at first base instead of the outfield this year.

The tipoff came when Stanky announced his lineup for an exhibition today against the New York Yankees, with Musial at first and rookie Bill Virdon in center field.

Hartack Suspended For Careless Ride Aboard Inn Keeper

BOWIE, Md., March 29 (AP)—Jockey Sammy Boulmetis rode three winners, including Trio Stable's Royal Morse in the $4,000 seven-furlongs sixth race which featured today's card.

Royal Morse was close to the pace-setting Joe's Jeannie in the early furlongs and engaged in a stretch battle with Royal Briar to emerge the winner by a photographed nose. The distance was covered in 1:25 2/5, not particularly fast time. Gwenys Wow Wow picked up third money a length-and-a-half farther back and another nose over Our Dance.

Well-backed horses performed well as a day that looked like spring but still felt like the breath of winter attracted 9,858 fans who poured $981,805 through the mutuels during the 8-race program.

The lucky daily double numbers were 9 and 3. Dance-A-Bit ($14.40 straight) won the first event and Dream Passes ($6.40) the second to return $42.60 in the double.

Boulmetis' first victory was aboard Smooth Stride in the third race, a 4½ furlong event for 2-year-olds run in the good time of :53 3/5. Sammy also got home first in the eighth event on Shamrock Hill ($4.60).

Jockey Willie Hartack found the winners' circle only once today, an unusual occurrence for the leading rider. But he won't be around for the next 10 racing days. Hartack was suspended by the stewards for carless riding aboard Inn Keeper in yesterday's last race.

Inn Keeper had finished first, but was disqualified for stretch interference and Practise was declared the winner.

High Ore, 25-1, Wins

LINCOLN DOWNS, R. I., March 29 (AP)—C. B. Fischback's High Ore, a 25 to 1 shot, nipped Mrs. Esther Foley's Fillequine in a photo finish today to win the $3,000 Richmond Purse at Lincoln Downs.

The 2 to 5 favorite, T. P. Morgan's Poco G, was fourth in the seven-horse field.

High Ore, the young daughter of Orestes III, nudged Filliquine by a head in the 7-furlong sprint for 3-year-olds and paid $52.80, $15.20 and $10.00. She was clocked in 1:26 4/5.

Ocala Girl Scores

MIAMI, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Ocala Girl, the longest priced entrant in the $2,800 Dania Purse, surprised the 11,109 spectators at Gulfstream Park today by registering a neck victory.

The $29.20 betting proposition, owned by Reiber and Wagner, defeated Taylorcrest Stable's Big Billie while covering the mile and an eighth in 1:52 1/5. Leo Fruchtman's Might Wish was a length and a half behind Bill Billie and led D. H. Wells' Lady Alibi by one length.

Browns Sign Noll

CLEVELAND, March 29 (AP) — Chuck Noll today signed his third contract with the Cleveland Football Browns. An offensive guard the past two seasons, he is considered a possible successor to Tom Catlin as a linebacker and defensive signal caller. Catlin left for duty in the Air Force last month.

European Athletes Ruined By Cigaret Smoke In U.S.

Meets Like Circus, Lights Are Blinding

MOSCOW, March 29 (AP) — The cigaret smoke in Madison Square Garden and other United States arenas where indoor track meets are held is ruining European athletes, the Russians say.

Russian sports fans also like to smoke, but Russia has few if any indoor sports arenas. Under a new policy, it is now building both indoor sports rinks and ice rinks.

The Soviet Sports devoted a three column article to the performances of United States track and field athletes.

It remarked that many new records were set, but complained that the American conditions were unfair to European stars who were invited to compete.

Soviet Sports also printed the complaint of a Norwegian runner named Audun Boysen. The Norwegian stated that American indoor track conditions ruined European athletes.

This may be one of the reasons that Vladimir Kuc, world champion Russian runner, did not accept an invitation to the United States for the winter track season.

The official sport explanation was that Kuc was too busy with his studies to go to the United States.

However, he did find time to go to France for sports events sponsored by Humanite, the French Communist party newspaper.

Boysen is quoted in the Moscow press as stating that American indoor track meets remind him of a circus. He says, according to the Russian press, that "athletes are blinded by the bright lights and that the jazz music in the arenas blares loudly and the air is filled with tobacco smoke."

Frank Thomas' Two-Run Homer Wins For Bucs

Ninth Inning Wallop Sinks Athletics, 9-8

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Frank Thomas blasted a 2-run homer in the ninth inning today to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 9-8 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

Both the Pirates and A's sprayed home runs all over the place. Thomas, Bob Skinner, Roberto Clemente and George Freese hit round trippers for Pittsburgh. Gus Zernial hit a pair and Bill Wilson one for Kansas City.

The A's got a bad scare in the second inning when their little hard-luck lefthander, Bobby Shantz, was hit by a line drive off the bat of Earl Smith and was carried from the field.

Examination at a hospital showed Shantz had no fracture or concussion and had suffered a glancing blow that tore his left ear. The ball bounced into right field for a single and scored the two runs charged against the pint sized hurler who is trying to come back after being out all last season with a sore shoulder.

Bob Trice and Leroy Wheat followed Shantz to the mound.

Banks slammed a run-scoring double in a five-run first inning, added his third home run in two days in the third, and singled in the seventh when the Cubs scored two runs to break a 7-7 tie.

Hal Jeffcoat was the winning pitcher. He yielded two hits in three and two-thirds innings after relieving starter Bob Rush. Rush gave up 11 hits, including a home run by Al Rosen.

Cincinnati Beats Washington, 5-1

ORLANDO, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Three-hit pitching by Art Fowler and Jim Pierce and a home run by their catcher, Ed Bailey, paced the Cincinnati Redlegs to a 5-1 victory over the Washington Nationals today in an exhibition baseball contest.

Fowler yielded two hits and the lone Washington run in the second. Pierce pitched the last four innings. In one stretch, from the third to the eighth inning, Fowler and Pierce retired 16 batters in a row.

Stan Musial To Play First Base For Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Manager Eddie Stanky said today he might use Stan Musial, the $80,000 star of the St. Louis Cardinals, at first base instead of the outfield this year.

The tipoff came when Stanky announced his lineup for an exhibition today against the New York Yankees, with Musial at first and rookie Bill Virdon in center field.

Referendum May Settle Time Problem

Governor Has Bill For Garrett County

ANNAPOLIS, March 29 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin's signature is all that's needed now to let Garrett County voters decide next year whether they want to end an annual mix-up over timekeeping in the summer.

A bill by Sen. Friend (R-Garrett) calling for a public referendum on the question in the 1956 general election was enacted by the House last night and sent to the governor.

It would require the county government and all municipal governments to go on daylight saving time at 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in April and remain on it until the last Sunday in September.

For years now the little county in extreme Western Maryland has followed a sort of do-and-don't policy when most of the rest of the state changed to daylight. County commissioners have steadfastly refused to switch and the courthouse clock in Oakland has registered standard time while the rest of the community was on daylight.

Schools also stayed on standard time throughout the county last year while clocks in many homes operated on daylight time.

Among communities the practice has varied.

Friend's bill takes specific note of the mix-up on public clocks. In requiring that daylight time be followed it states:

"And all courts, public offices and legal and official proceedings, in so far as the same are subject to or under the control of the county commissioners of Garrett County, or of the governing body of every municipal corporation therein, shall be regulated thereby, and all time shown by the public clocks shall agree therewith."

Relief Meeting Is Called By Tri Towns UO

Group To Discuss Future Activity

WESTERNPORT—A meeting of the United Organizations will be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. at Piedmont Library to discuss plans for carrying out the work during the summer.

At a meeting held on February 28, Wayne Ritchie who has served as chairman of the group for four years asked to be relieved of his duties. The growing work and responsibilities are too much for any one person to carry, Ritchie stated at that time. But he is willing to assist in any way he can in helping to carry out the work.

It is well recognized to the vast majority of the citizens in this area that the Y has performed a worthwhile and needed job. Many of the churches, organizations, clubs, civic and fraternal organizations as well as many citizens have contributed to its success, spokesmen noted.

Especially the past two Christmas seasons a master's list was compiled under Ritchie's direction so that no family received more than one Christmas basket while other needy ones were being neglected.

On March 5 a committee met with Chairman Ritchie and authorized him to send letters to clubs, lodges, churches and all organizations in the communities alerting them of the problems the United Organizations face. The letter asked for both financial aid and advice.

Help is needed in keeping the storeroom in order and distributing food stuff, clothing and furniture to those needing help.

Luke Local 676 United Papermakers of America, CIO, has made available its office on Main Street for persons making applications for relief.

Gas Tax Refund Change To Aid W.Va. Budget

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 29 (AP)—The halting of some tax refunds to federal agencies on gasoline purchased for vehicles in West Virginia is expected to boost the state's income from its motor fuel levy at least $22,500 annually.

The estimate was provided today by Supervisor R. C. Ferrell of the gasoline excise tax division of the State Tax Department. He said that the figure included administrative costs incident to the making of such returns.

As of Jan. 1, the tax department stopped a long-time practice by ruling that such refunds would no longer be made on purchases by the federal government or its accredited agencies of gasoline in quantities "less than 500 gallons."

Ferrell said the step was taken by Tax Commissioner Milton J. Ferguson on the general grounds that the tax legally could be passed on to the federal Government.

Ferguson took the view that the levy actually is of an excise nature which is imposed on the distributor of other persons first handling gasoline in the state.

As a result, the tax commissioner reasoned, the levy thus was one which was just passed on to the government with the purchase of the gasoline, and could not be regarded as an illegal tax on the government itself.

Referendum May Settle Time Problem

Governor Has Bill For Garrett County

ANNAPOLIS, March 29 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin's signature is all that's needed now to let Garrett County voters decide next year whether they want to end an annual mix-up over timekeeping in the summer.

A bill by Sen. Friend (R-Garrett) calling for a public referendum on the question in the 1956 general election was enacted by the House last night and sent to the governor.

It would require the county government and all municipal governments to go on daylight saving time at 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in April and remain on it until the last Sunday in September.

For years now the little county in extreme Western Maryland has followed a sort of do-and-don't policy when most of the rest of the state changed to daylight. County commissioners have steadfastly refused to switch and the courthouse clock in Oakland has registered standard time while the rest of the community was on daylight.

Schools also stayed on standard time throughout the county last year while clocks in many homes operated on daylight time.

Among communities the practice has varied.

Friend's bill takes specific note of the mix-up on public clocks. In requiring that daylight time be followed it states:

"And all courts, public offices and legal and official proceedings, in so far as the same are subject to or under the control of the county commissioners of Garrett County, or of the governing body of every municipal corporation therein, shall be regulated thereby, and all time shown by the public clocks shall agree therewith."

It will reopen the night of April 1 with "Three Coins in the Fountain." The prices of admission for children will remain the same but there will be a slight increase in the price for adults.

Relief Meeting Is Called By Tri Towns UO

Group To Discuss Future Activity

WESTERNPORT—A meeting of the United Organizations will be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. at Piedmont Library to discuss plans for carrying out the work during the summer.

At a meeting held on February 28, Wayne Ritchie who has served as chairman of the group for four years asked to be relieved of his duties. The growing work and responsibilities are too much for any one person to carry, Ritchie stated at that time. But he is willing to assist in any way he can in helping to carry out the work.

It is well recognized to the vast majority of the citizens in this area that the Y has performed a worthwhile and needed job. Many of the churches, organizations, clubs, civic and fraternal organizations as well as many citizens have contributed to its success, spokesmen noted.

Especially the past two Christmas seasons a master's list was compiled under Ritchie's direction so that no family received more than one Christmas basket while other needy ones were being neglected.

On March 5 a committee met with Chairman Ritchie and authorized him to send letters to clubs, lodges, churches and all organizations in the communities alerting them of the problems the United Organizations face. The letter asked for both financial aid and advice.

Help is needed in keeping the storeroom in order and distributing food stuff, clothing and furniture to those needing help.

Luke Local 676 United Papermakers of America, CIO, has made available its office on Main Street for persons making applications for relief.

Gas Tax Refund Change To Aid W.Va. Budget

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 29 (AP)—The halting of some tax refunds to federal agencies on gasoline purchased for vehicles in West Virginia is expected to boost the state's income from its motor fuel levy at least $22,500 annually.

The estimate was provided today by Supervisor R. C. Ferrell of the gasoline excise tax division of the State Tax Department. He said that the figure included administrative costs incident to the making of such returns.

As of Jan. 1, the tax department stopped a long-time practice by ruling that such refunds would no longer be made on purchases by the federal government or its accredited agencies of gasoline in quantities "less than 500 gallons."

Ferrell said the step was taken by Tax Commissioner Milton J. Ferguson on the general grounds that the tax legally could be passed on to the federal Government.

Ferguson took the view that the levy actually is of an excise nature which is imposed on the distributor of other persons first handling gasoline in the state.

As a result, the tax commissioner reasoned, the levy thus was one which was just passed on to the government with the purchase of the gasoline, and could not be regarded as an illegal tax on the government itself.

Some Flights Of Fancy

Television drama lately has got awfully pixie, the ferocious demands of TV driving the writers to greater and greater flights of fancy. Some of it has been pretty good and a welcome change from strict realism.

I was rather taken the other night with Lux Theater's "The Money Tree." Actually, there were two money trees. One produced $5 bills and the other $10 bills and their money-producing habits—the bills came tightly rolled inside the buds—were discovered by an accountant's wife in whose yard the trees reposed. Being perennially short of cash, she spent a little.

But also being an honest woman, she first wrote the secretary of the treasury asking him if it were all right. The secretary, thinking it was a big joke, wrote back that she could spend the money, provided it met Treasury specifications, which it did. Well, the bills met all the specifications except that after a certain interval they turned into powder like dry leaves. Before they did, though, the housewife had happily trotted around paying off the mortgage, buying new curtains, and otherwise spreading the stuff far and wide.

Naturally all hell broke loose when the bills crumpled into dust. The stock Exchange closed. Congress went into special session. The reporters came around in droves to inspect the marvelous trees. The upshot was that the trees had to be destroyed as a menace to the national economy, but the wife got her new curtains and her bills paid. It was a gay little romp with a wonderfully funny finish. The wife buys a box of odds and ends at an auction for $2.40 and pulls out of this box of junk Aladdin's lamp and as the picture fades out she is staring, transfixed, at the genie she has unwittingly unloosed. Quite a girl.

Another offbeat drama was David Niven playing a psychiatrist in "Henry and the Psychopathic Horse." In this one Niven is a city slicker trying to woo the daughter of a rancher in the Far West. The rancher has a low opinion of city folk and would rather his daughter marry a local cowpoke. So it becomes a contest between the two men to see who can break a wildly unruly horse. It is Niven's contention that the horse is just a crazy, mixed up beast with a "Pegasus trauma and a trace of Seabiscuit identification."

In the end psychiatry wins out over strong arm methods and Niven gets the girl. At this kind of light playful stuff, Niven has no superior—at least not on television—and I found him very entertaining. I even thought the horse turned in a very fine performance as horse performances go. The play reminded me a little of Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mollycoddle" many moons ago.

Another less successful essay at fantasy was "A Different Drummer" by Gene McKinney on "Omnibus." This play was written and produced at Baylor University in Texas where it caused quite a stir. As television fare, though it was awfully arty and there didn't seem to be really enough substance to justify all the malarkey, of which there was plenty.

The settings consisted of what looked like a lot of scaffoldings and the actors clambered around these scaffoldings, striking cubistic attitudes which I suppose were pregnant with significance. Even one Greek chorus is likely to make me a little restive, and this play had three. One represented the boy's conscience, another what he thinks the town is saying about him and the third—well, I don't know exactly what the third one represented.

It is the story of a boy who has set the town on its ear by proclaiming that he hit the president of the bank and his boss right in the eye, though he has done no such thing. During a single day, the boy tries to get a job with a band—he plays the trumpet very badly—tries to run away from home (but the train never stops at that town) and discovers a girl. What I suppose it all added up to is the awakening from adolescence of a young man, but it certainly took the long way round.

Daily Bridge Lesson

PREFERENCE BIDDING

"PREFERENCE bidding" has always been the source of costly misunderstandings between partners and, consequently, of bitter arguments. North and South in the following deal had a set-to over precisely this matter.

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 9 5 4 2 ♥ 7 6 3 ♦ 8 5 3 2 ♣ J 8
♠ A J 7 ♥ 10 5 ♦ 9 ♣ K Q 10 7 6 4 3	N W E S	♠ Q 10 8 3 ♥ Q 9 4 2 ♦ Q J 7 ♣ 5 2
	♠ K 6 ♥ A K J 8 ♦ A K 10 6 4 ♣ A 9

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	2 ♣	Pass	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

West made the correct opening lead, the king of clubs, from his incomplete tenace, and the outcome was a five-trick defeat of the game contract. Obviously, the defenders would not have gained as much (500 points) if they had doubled three notrump—it must be presumed that either North or South would have run out to four diamonds.

South, after recovering his breath, asked North why he had taken the two-heart bid to three diamonds, and North, just as belligerently, replied that he had been forced to under the mere rule about giving a preference—that he could scarcely accept a two-heart contract on his holding, with only three-card support for what was marked as a four-card heart suit, when he had four diamonds to support South's longer suit.

The expressed points of view sum up the divergent opinions of experts in this field, and there is something to be said on both sides. However, it has always seemed to this observer that the view held by North—that a preference bid entails no responsibility—is not practicable. What is South to do with as big a hand as his? Must he accept a three-diamond contract, when partner needs nothing but the diamond queen to afford a play for game? It would seem, rather, that with such a frightful hand North might well pass to two hearts and accept a perhaps inferior contract, rather than take any action which would give South the chance to hang himself.

It is true that North did not give real encouragement by his bid, but South was only human, and it is not human to visualize a dummy as bad as the one that went down on the table.

Radio And Television

Some Flights Of Fancy

Television drama lately has got awfully pixie, the ferocious demands of TV driving the writers to greater and greater flights of fancy. Some of it has been pretty good and a welcome change from strict realism.

I was rather taken the other night with Lux Theater's "The Money Tree." Actually, there were two money trees. One produced $5 bills and the other $10 bills and their money-producing habits—the bills came tightly rolled inside the buds—were discovered by an accountant's wife in whose yard the trees reposed. Being perennially short of cash, she spent a little.

But also being an honest woman, she first wrote the secretary of the treasury asking him if it were all right. The secretary, thinking it was a big joke, wrote back that she could spend the money, provided it met Treasury specifications, which it did. Well, the bills met all the specifications except that after a certain interval they turned into powder like dry leaves. Before they did, though, the housewife had happily trotted around paying off the mortgage, buying new curtains, and otherwise spreading the stuff far and wide.

Naturally all hell broke loose when the bills crumpled into dust. The stock Exchange closed. Congress went into special session. The reporters came around in droves to inspect the marvelous trees. The upshot was that the trees had to be destroyed as a menace to the national economy, but the wife got her new curtains and her bills paid. It was a gay little romp with a wonderfully funny finish. The wife buys a box of odds and ends at an auction for $2.40 and pulls out of this box of junk Aladdin's lamp and as the picture fades out she is staring, transfixed, at the genie she has unwittingly unloosed. Quite a girl.

Another offbeat drama was David Niven playing a psychiatrist in "Henry and the Psychopathic Horse." In this one Niven is a city slicker trying to woo the daughter of a rancher in the Far West. The rancher has a low opinion of city folk and would rather his daughter marry a local cowpoke. So it becomes a contest between the two men to see who can break a wildly unruly horse. It is Niven's contention that the horse is just a crazy, mixed up beast with a "Pegasus trauma and a trace of Seabiscuit identification."

In the end psychiatry wins out over strong arm methods and Niven gets the girl. At this kind of light playful stuff, Niven has no superior—at least not on television—and I found him very entertaining. I even thought the horse turned in a very fine performance as horse performances go. The play reminded me a little of Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mollycoddle" many moons ago.

Another less successful essay at fantasy was "A Different Drummer" by Gene McKinney on "Omnibus." This play was written and produced at Baylor University in Texas where it caused quite a stir. As television fare, though it was awfully arty and there didn't seem to be really enough substance to justify all the malarkey, of which there was plenty.

The settings consisted of what looked like a lot of scaffoldings and the actors clambered around these scaffoldings, striking cubistic attitudes which I suppose were pregnant with significance. Even one Greek chorus is likely to make me a little restive, and this play had three. One represented the boy's conscience, another what he thinks the town is saying about him and the third—well, I don't know exactly what the third one represented.

It is the story of a boy who has set the town on its ear by proclaiming that he hit the president of the bank and his boss right in the eye, though he has done no such thing. During a single day, the boy tries to get a job with a band—he plays the trumpet very badly—tries to run away from home (but the train never stops at that town) and discovers a girl. What I suppose it all added up to is the awakening from adolescence of a young man, but it certainly took the long way round.

Daily Bridge Lesson

PREFERENCE BIDDING

"PREFERENCE bidding" has always been the source of costly misunderstandings between partners and, consequently, of bitter arguments. North and South in the following deal had a set-to over precisely this matter.

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 9 5 4 2 ♥ 7 6 3 ♦ 8 5 3 2 ♣ J 8
♠ A J 7 ♥ 10 5 ♦ 9 ♣ K Q 10 7 6 4 3	N W E S	♠ Q 10 8 3 ♥ Q 9 4 2 ♦ Q 7 7 ♣ 5 2
	♠ K 6 ♥ A K J 8 ♦ A K 10 6 4 ♣ A 9

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	2 ♣	Pass	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

West made the correct opening lead, the king of clubs, from his incomplete tenace, and the outcome was a five-trick defeat of the game contract. Obviously, the defenders would not have gained as much (500 points) if they had doubled three notrump—it must be presumed that either North or South would have run out to four diamonds.

South, after recovering his breath, asked North why he had taken the two-heart bid to three diamonds, and North, just as belligerently, replied that he had been forced to under the mere rule about giving a preference—that he could scarcely accept a two-heart contract on his holding, with only three-card support for what was marked as a four-card heart suit, when he had four diamonds to support South's longer suit.

The expressed points of view sum up the divergent opinions of experts in this field, and there is something to be said on both sides. However, it has always seemed to this observer that the view held by North—that a preference bid entails no responsibility—is not practicable. What is South to do with as big a hand as his? Must he accept a three-diamond contract, when partner needs nothing but the diamond queen to afford a play for game? It would seem, rather, that with such a frightful hand North might well pass to two hearts and accept a perhaps inferior contract, rather than take any action which would give South the chance to hang himself.

It is true that North did not give real encouragement by his bid, but South was only human, and it is not human to visualize a dummy as bad as the one that went down on the table.

MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND
TWO ISSUES OF GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS
ALL DATED APRIL 1, 1955

Sealed bids will be received by the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Maryland, at the City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, until 10:00 o'clock A. M. Eastern Standard Time on for the purchase of TWO MILLION FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($2,400,000.00) par value general obligation serial maturity coupon bonds of said city, comprising two (2) separate issues described as follows:

(1) FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($400,000.00) Cumberland Flood Protection Bonds of 1949, Second Issue, numbered consecutively from No. 1 to No. 400, both numbers inclusive, and maturing in equal annual serial installments in the order of their consecutive numbers over a period of ten (10) years, beginning with the year 1964 to and including the year 1973, on April 1st of each such years and issued as aforesaid pursuant to the authority of Chapter 368 of the Laws of Maryland of 1949.

(2) TWO MILLION DOLLARS ($2,000,000.00) Cumberland Sewage Disposal Plant Bonds, numbered consecutively from No. 1 to 2,000, both numbers inclusive, and maturing in the order of their consecutive numbers in varying annual serial installments over a period of twenty-seven years, beginning with the year 1958 to and including the year 1984, on April 1st of each of such years (50) said bonds maturing in each of the years 1958 to 1967, inclusive; seventy-five (75) of such bonds maturing in each of the years 1968 to 1975, inclusive, and one hundred (100) of such bonds maturing in each of the years 1976 to 1984, inclusive, all issued as aforesaid pursuant to the authority of Section 373 of Article 43 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1951 Ed.) as amended by Chapter 40 of the Laws of Maryland, 1954.

Both issues of said bonds are authorized by Ordinance No. 1991 adopted by the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland on March 21, 1955. They are both dated April 1, 1955 and interest will be payable thereon April 1 and October 1 in accordance with semi-annual interest coupons attached thereto. Both the principal of and the interest on said bonds will be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the time of payment at the office of the Treasurer of the City of Cumberland, City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, upon presentation and surrender of the maturing bonds or coupons as the case may be. The bonds will not be subject to registration as to either principal or interest nor will they be subject to prior redemption.

All bids for said bonds shall be for both issues as an entirety. Bidders are requested to specify with their bids the rate or rates of interest to be paid on the bonds on which rate or rates their bids are based and submitted. No rate so named shall exceed the annual rate of four per centum (4%) per annum and each rate shall be (⅛) of one per centum (1%) per annum, or a multiple thereof. Bidders may specify more than one rate of interest for each of the above described issues but may not specify more than one rate of interest to be borne by any single maturity of either issue, although different rates of interest may be specified for the bonds of one issue which mature in the same year as the bonds of the other. Bidders may not bid less than par value and accrued interest.

The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid provides the lowest aggregate interest cost to the city. Where the interest cost bid by two or more bidders is the same, the bonds will be apportioned among said bidders, but if this should prove unacceptable the City may, in its discretion, determine to which of said bidders all of said bonds shall be awarded. The lowest interest cost will be determined by adding the dollar amount of interest payable on the bonds of both issues in any legally acceptable proposal, from date of issue to date of maturity and deducting from the total thereof any premium offered to be paid for such bonds. Each bidder is requested to indicate in his bid the total interest cost computed as above, together with the effective yield on such bonds as will be produced by such bid, but compliance with this request is not deemed a condition precedent to the submission of a bid nor shall any inaccuracy in such computation affect the validity of such bid.

The right is reserved to the City to reject any or all bids.

Each bid must be enclosed in a sealed envelope, addressed to the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Cumberland, Maryland, and so marked on the outside as to indicate that it is a bid for the bonds hereby offered. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check drawn to the order of the Commissioner of Finance and Revenue of the City of Cumberland in the amount of One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($125,000.00) to secure the City against any loss which might result from the failure of the particular bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. No interest will be allowed on the amount of the deposit. Checks deposited by unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them when the bonds are awarded to the successful bidder. The deposit of the successful bidder will be credited on account of the total amount payable for said bonds.

Accrued interest shall be adjusted to the date of delivery of the bonds and the payment therefor.

The bonds will be the unconditional obligation of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland issued upon its full faith and credit which will be irrevocably pledged to the payment of maturing principal and interest of all said bonds. The enabling acts above described and the Ordinance authorizing said bonds, provide that the principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable from ad valorem taxes which the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland is authorized and directed to levy, until all of said bonds shall have matured and been paid, on all property subject to assessment for taxation within the corporate limits of the City in rate and amount sufficient to provide for said payment. With respect to said Cumberland Sewage Disposal Plant Bonds, additional provision is made for the payment of the maturing principal and interest of said issue primarily from the net revenues to be derived by the City from sewer service charges pledged to such payment so that the proceeds of ad valorem taxes shall be so applied only in the event said revenues shall prove insufficient in any year. Accordingly, the total ad valorem tax to be levied in any year to pay maturing principal and interest of said bonds may be reduced to the extent of the net revenues so available.

Under existing laws, these bonds and the interest payable thereon are exempt from all State, County and municipal taxes in the State of Maryland, and the income derived therefrom is likewise exempt from Federal income tax.

The bonds will be delivered without charge, to the purchaser thereof, within a reasonable time after the sale in Cumberland or in Baltimore, Maryland. Delivery elsewhere will be made at the expense of the purchaser.

The legality of the issue will be approved by Messrs. Niles, Barton, Yost & Dankmeyer of Baltimore, Maryland, and the approving opinion of these gentlemen will be delivered, upon request, to the purchaser of the bonds, without additional charge.

At the time of delivery, the bonds will be accompanied by a transcript of supporting documents, together with the usual closing documents, including a certificate of the City to the effect that no litigation is pending or threatened as of the date of such delivery affecting or impairing the validity of said bonds.

Prospective bidders desiring financial data concerning the City of Cumberland may obtain the same upon request in writing to the undersigned.

Better Pilotless Airplane Control System Developed

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP)—The Air Force today announced the development of an electronic "brain" which takes over pilotless aircraft and flies them safely in case their remote control systems conk out.

The announcement was made by headquarters of the Air Research and Development Command here. The work was done by Sperry Gyroscope Co., the ARDC's Wright Air Development Center in Ohio and the 3205th Drone Group at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

The group at Eglin trains "beeper" pilots. With radio signals, they can fly even a jet fighter plane from the ground almost as skillfully as if they were in the cockpit.

Suppose the other plane was knocked down, or the ground control station was bombed out or lost its power service. What would happen then?

If the plane already is high enough for safety's sake, it will be maneuvered automatically into a left turn at 265 miles an hour and fly around in a circle until the control beam comes on again.

Some missions for which drone fighters are designed have not been disclosed. Logically, they could be used to intercept enemy bombers. Some of them, both jets and conventional piston-engined planes, have been used in the current nuclear tests in Nevada.

Congress Hears Story Of Baffled Banjo Player

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—Congress today had before it the sad story of the frustrated banjo player and the U.S. postal laws.

There was this fellow who liked to strum the banjo, or maybe it was the mandolin, and he lived in the town of Wyatt, Mo. One day he ordered a banjo, or maybe it was a mandolin, from a Chicago mail order house.

Well, the instrument arrived and he didn't like it. So, since he was going over to neighboring Charleston, Mo., he took the instrument with him, had it wrapped there and then went to the post office.

"Naturally," said Wallhausen, "the man was mad and confused."

"We carry our oversize packages to Wyatt or Bertrand or to East Prairie," he told Jones. "Then the government hauls it back to Charleston and redispatches the items."

Jones says the same thing is going on all over the country, all on account of a law passed by the 82nd Congress.

In general, this law puts a stricter limit on both the size and weight of packages sent between first class post offices. These are the offices that take in the most money, and hence normally are in the larger towns.

Jones says that when the law was passed it was thought it might help the express companies. Now he's convinced it was a mistake, and he would like to see it repealed.

"What seemed to make sense at that time," he told his colleagues, "has certainly proved to be asinine."

"Silly, Isn't It?" it said.

Stocks Involved In Atomic Power Plans Shoot Ahead

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP) — Stocks brushed by the magic of atomic power made steep gains today in the stock market.

Bath Iron Works, for example, shot ahead 11¼ at 72¾. Newport News Shipbuilding was up 5¾ at 676¾, and General Dynamics gained 5⅜ at 80.

The latter company is the builder of atomic submarines. The other two companies have been mentioned in Wall Street rumors in connection with plans for atomic powered ships.

The steel division did well, rails were higher, and coppers were strong as the long anticipated price rise was put into effect. Some oils were in demand. Other groups were either mixed or steady. None was depressed.

Aside from the extremely strong elements, the market was a pedestrian affair—up today just a little more than it was down yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 40 cents at $160.30. Yesterday it lost 30 cents. The industrial component of the average added 40 cents while railroads were up $1.00, and utilities lost 10 cents.

There were 1,226 individual issues traded of which 522 advanced and 460 declined with 72 new highs and 15 new lows for the year. Volume amounted to 2,770,000 shares.

Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton for the fourth straight day topped the most active list up 3⅝ at 21⅞ on 189,200 shares. The company is getting into the atomic locomotive business.

for the purchase of TWO MILLION FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($2,400,000.00) par value general obligation serial maturity coupon bonds of said city, comprising two (2) separate issues described as follows:

(1) FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($400,000.00) Cumberland Flood Protection Bonds of 1949, Second Issue, numbered consecutively from No. 1 to No. 400, both numbers inclusive, and maturing in equal annual serial installments in the order of their consecutive numbers over a period of ten (10) years, beginning with the year 1964 to and including the year 1973, on April 1st of each such years and issued as aforesaid pursuant to the authority of Chapter 368 of the Laws of Maryland of 1949.

(2) TWO MILLION DOLLARS ($2,000,000.00) Cumberland Sewage Disposal Plant Bonds, numbered consecutively from No. 1 to 2,000, both numbers inclusive, and maturing in the order of their consecutive numbers in varying annual serial installments over a period of twenty-seven years, beginning with the year 1958 to and including the year 1984, on April 1st of each of such years (50) said bonds maturing in each of the years 1958 to 1967, inclusive; seventy-five (75) of such bonds maturing in each of the years 1968 to 1975, inclusive, and one hundred (100) of such bonds maturing in each of the years 1976 to 1984, inclusive, all issued as aforesaid pursuant to the authority of Section 373 of Article 43 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1951 Ed.) as amended by Chapter 40 of the Laws of Maryland, 1954.

Both issues of said bonds are authorized by Ordinance No. 1991 adopted by the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland on March 21, 1955. They are both dated April 1, 1955 and interest will be payable thereon April 1 and October 1 in accordance with semi-annual interest coupons attached thereto. Both the principal of and the interest on said bonds will be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the time of payment at the office of the Treasurer of the City of Cumberland, City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, upon presentation and surrender of the maturing bonds or coupons as the case may be. The bonds will not be subject to registration as to either principal or interest nor will they be subject to prior redemption.

All bids for said bonds shall be for both issues as an entirety. Bidders are requested to specify with their bids the rate or rates of interest to be paid on the bonds on which rate or rates their bids are based and submitted. No rate so named shall exceed the annual rate of four per centum (4%) per annum and each rate shall be (¼) of one per centum (1%) per annum, or a multiple thereof. Bidders may specify more than one rate of interest for each of the above described issues but may not specify more than one rate of interest to be borne by any single maturity of either issue, although different rates of interest may be specified for the bonds of one issue which mature in the same year as the bonds of the other. Bidders may not bid less than par value and accrued interest.

The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid provides the lowest aggregate interest cost to the city. Where the interest cost bid by two or more bidders is the same, the bonds will be apportioned among said bidders, but if this should prove unacceptable the City may, in its discretion, determine to which of said bidders all of said bonds shall be awarded. The lowest interest cost will be determined by adding the dollar amount of interest payable on the bonds of both issues in any legally acceptable proposal, from date of issue to date of maturity and deducting from the total thereof any premium offered to be paid for such bonds. Each bidder is requested to indicate in his bid the total interest cost computed as above, together with the effective yield on such bonds as will be produced by such bid, but compliance with this request is not deemed a condition precedent to the submission of a bid nor shall any inaccuracy in such computation affect the validity of such bid.

The right is reserved to the City to reject any or all bids.

Each bid must be enclosed in a sealed envelope, addressed to the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Cumberland, Maryland, and so marked on the outside as to indicate that it is a bid for the bonds hereby offered. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check drawn to the order of the Commissioner of Finance and Revenue of the City of Cumberland in the amount of One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($125,000.00) to secure the City against any loss which might result from the failure of the particular bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. No interest will be allowed on the amount of the deposit. Checks deposited by unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them when the bonds are awarded to the successful bidder. The deposit of the successful bidder will be credited on account of the total amount payable for said bonds.

Accrued interest shall be adjusted to the date of delivery of the bonds and the payment therefor.

The bonds will be the unconditional obligation of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland issued upon its full faith and credit which will be irrevocably pledged to the payment of maturing principal and interest of all said bonds. The enabling acts above described and the Ordinance authorizing said bonds, provide that the principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable from ad valorem taxes which the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland is authorized and directed to levy, until all of said bonds shall have matured and been paid, on all property subject to assessment for taxation within the corporate limits of the City in rate and amount sufficient to provide for said payment. With respect to said Cumberland Sewage Disposal Plant Bonds, additional provision is made for the payment of the maturing principal and interest of said issue primarily from the net revenues to be derived by the City from sewer service charges pledged to such payment so that the proceeds of ad valorem taxes shall be so applied only in the event said revenues shall prove insufficient in any year. Accordingly, the total ad valorem tax to be levied in any year to pay maturing principal and interest of said bonds may be reduced to the extent of the net revenues so available.

Under existing laws, these bonds and the interest payable thereon are exempt from all State, County and municipal taxes in the State of Maryland, and the income derived therefrom is likewise exempt from Federal income tax.

The bonds will be delivered without charge, to the purchaser thereof, within a reasonable time after the sale in Cumberland or in Baltimore, Maryland. Delivery elsewhere will be made at the expense of the purchaser.

The legality of the issue will be approved by Messrs. Niles, Barton, Yost & Dankmeyer of Baltimore, Maryland, and the approving opinion of these gentlemen will be delivered, upon request, to the purchaser of the bonds, without additional charge.

At the time of delivery, the bonds will be accompanied by a transcript of supporting documents, together with the usual closing documents, including a certificate of the City to the effect that no litigation is pending or threatened as of the date of such delivery affecting or impairing the validity of said bonds.

Prospective bidders desiring financial data concerning the City of Cumberland may obtain the same upon request in writing to the undersigned.

Better Pilotless Airplane Control System Developed

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP)—The Air Force today announced the development of an electronic "brain" which takes over pilotless aircraft and flies them safely in case their remote control systems conk out.

It is part of a refined system for better control of pilotless drone planes from the ground or other aircraft.

The announcement was made by headquarters of the Air Research and Development Command here. The work was done by Sperry Gyroscope Co., the ARDC's Wright Air Development Center in Ohio and the 3205th Drone Group at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

The group at Eglin trains "beeper" pilots. With radio signals, they can fly even a jet fighter plane from the ground almost as skillfully as if they were in the cockpit.

Suppose the other plane was knocked down, or the ground control station was bombed out or lost its power service. What would happen then?

The new system will take over as soon as it stops getting a steady "carrier" beam from the control point.

If the plane already is high enough for safety's sake, it will be maneuvered automatically into a left turn at 265 miles an hour and fly around in a circle until the control beam comes on again.

If the plane is too low, it begins a full power climb of 7 degrees and at 200 miles an hour goes into a climbing left turn until the proper altitude is reached.

Some missions for which drone fighters are designed have not been disclosed. Logically, they could be used to intercept enemy bombers. Some of them, both jets and conventional piston-engined planes, have been used in the current nuclear tests in Nevada.

Congress Hears Story Of Baffled Banjo Player

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—Congress today had before it the sad story of the frustrated banjo player and the U.S. postal laws.

There was this fellow who liked to strum the banjo, or maybe it was the mandolin, and he lived in the town of Wyatt, Mo. One day he ordered a banjo, or maybe it was a mandolin, from a Chicago mail order house.

Well, the instrument arrived and he didn't like it. So, since he was going over to neighboring Charleston, Mo., he took the instrument with him, had it wrapped there and then went to the post office.

Here he was told he couldn't mail it. "Too bulky," the clerk said.

"Naturally," said Wallhausen, "the man was mad and confused."

It took something like an hour, Wallhausen estimated, to explain the postal facts of life to our baffled banjoist. The most pertinent fact: Since Charleston is a first class post office it cannot accept big packages for another first class post office, like Chicago.

Finally the banjo player got the point. He toted his package back to Wyatt, which is a third class post office, and mailed it there.

Whereupon a star route carrier came by, picked up the banjo, carried it back to Charleston, from where it could then proceed legally to Chicago.

"It just doesn't make sense," Wallhausen said.

Wallhausen, a weekly newspaper editor in Charleston, says this sort of thing goes on all the time.

"We carry our oversize packages to Wyatt or Bertrand or to East Prairie," he told Jones. "Then the government hauls it back to Charleston and redispatches the items."

Jones says the same thing is going on all over the country, all on account of a law passed by the 82nd Congress.

In general, this law puts a stricter limit on both the size and weight of packages sent between first class post offices. These are the offices that take in the most money, and hence normally are in the larger towns.

Jones says that when the law was passed it was thought it might help the express companies. Now he's convinced it was a mistake, and he would like to see it repealed.

"What seemed to make sense at that time," he told his colleagues, "has certainly proved to be asinine."

As an old newspaper man himself, Jones wrote his own headline for the story of the frustrated banjo player, as it appears in the Congressional record.

"Silly, Isn't It?" it said.

Stocks Involved In Atomic Power Plans Shoot Ahead

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)—Stocks brushed by the magic of atomic power made steep gains today in the stock market.

Bath Iron Works, for example, shot ahead 11¼ at 72¾, Newport News Shipbuilding was up 5¾ at 676¾, and General Dynamics gained 5⅜ at 80.

The latter company is the builder of atomic submarines. The other two companies have been mentioned in Wall Street rumors in connection with plans for atomic powered ships.

The steel division did well, rails were higher, and coppers were strong as the long anticipated price rise was put into effect. Some oils were in demand. Other groups were either mixed or steady. None was depressed.

Aside from the extremely strong elements, the market was a pedestrian affair—up today just a little more than it was down yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .49 cents at $160.30. Yesterday it lost .30 cents. The industrial component of the average added 40 cents while railroads were up $1.00, and utilities lost 10 cents.

There were 1,226 individual issues traded of which 522 advanced and 460 declined with 72 new highs and 15 new lows for the year. Volume amounted to 2,770,000 shares.

Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton for the fourth straight day topped the most active list up 3⅝ at 21⅞ on 189,200 shares. The company is getting into the atomic locomotive business.

Prisoner Hangs Self With Belt In City Jail

Dies Six Hours After Arrest

A 37-year-old prisoner in City Jail was found hanging in his cell yesterday evening, six hours after he had been taken into custody for investigation.

Authorities identified him as Joseph A. Washington, 1018 Gay Street. Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, last night said death was caused by asphyxiation due to hanging, and he termed it suicide.

The prisoner, according to police, used a belt to hang himself and his body was found about 6:15 p. m. on a routine check of the cells by Officer Carl Williams.

Two Pairs Of Pants

When a prisoner is taken into custody, police said, they remove a belt or anything else the person could end his life with. When Washington was "frisked" by police at 12:15 p. m. they did not find a belt.

When the victim's body was cut down from the top section of the cell bars it was found that he was wearing two pairs of khaki pants when arrested. The belt was on the inside pair.

Officer Williams had made a check of the cell block about 5:20 p. m. yesterday and said everything apparently was in order in Washington's cell.

Use Resuscitator

When he later found the man hanging by his belt he notified Sgt. Clarence Roby, and the two policemen used the department's resuscitator in an effort to revive the man but were unable to do so.

They said the resuscitator was used for about 20 minutes. Washington was picked up by Officer Louis Downey in connection with the theft of a garden tractor from the Montgomery Ward Store lot on South George Street. Lt. James E. Van, of the City Police Detective Bureau, who questioned Washington yesterday afternoon, said Washington was being held in City Jail overnight for questioning today in the State's Attorney's Office.

A native of Cumberland, Washington was a laborer and did odd jobs, according to authorities. He was born September 1, 1917 and was a son of John Curtis Washington and Mary (Fields) Washington.

The body is at Stein's Funeral Home.

Sen. Goldwater Greeted

Senator Goldwater Urges Devotion To Rotary Ideals

A united America, devoted to America, devoted to Christ and devoted to the principles of service exemplified by Rotary International can succeed in overcoming the threat of both Communism and Socialism.

That conclusion was reached by United States Senator Barry M. Goldwater, Arizona Republican, who adressed some 180 Rotarians from eight Maryland and West Virginia clubs in a Golden Anniversary Dinner last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Senator Goldwater's talk was in the form of an answer to three questions. They were (1) Do you want to be a Rotarian? (2) Do you want to be a Christian? and (3) Do you want to be an American?

The speaker began his discussion on the first question because the dinner was being held in observance of the 50th anniversary of the founding of Rotary in Chicago in 1905. He explained that the other service clubs have followed the same general objectives of service to their communities and to their fellow man.

Senator Goldwater emphasized that a true Rotarian must give more than mere "lip service" to the ideals of the organization. "You must know the tune as well as the words," he said.

Concerning the will to live as a Christian, the Arizonan again stressed that there is much more to it than merely knowing words of the Bible. There must also be a willingness to live as the Bible suggests.

Finally, Senator Goldwater advised the Rotarians from Cumberland, Friendsville, Frostburg, Grantsville, Keyser, Lonaconing, Oakland and Piedmont to recall those features that have made America strong and free.

Other democracies in the past have failed because they have relied upon the strength of arms, the strength of money or mere physical strength, he asserted.

He quoted Thomas Jefferson's words from the Declaration of Independence that all men are created equal with the rights of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness with which they have been endowed by the Creator.

He said that it is not necessary to establish a new set of principles as some people advocate today. A return to constant service to the objectives of the United States is all that is needed, he added.

In a final illustration, Senator Goldwater recalled the mythological story of Orpheus who led the men on his ship past the cliff where sang a beautiful but wicked siren, by singing an even louder and more beautiful song. Other sailors had been led astray by her singing and their boats had crashed on the rocks.

"If we sing the song of America louder, the people no longer will be attracted by the song of Socialism or the song of Communism," he added.

The principal speaker was introduced by his fellow United States Senator, J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg. Senator Beall recalled that when he and Goldwater became freshmen Senators together in 1953 he soon learned that they had three particular things in common—they are both Episcopalians, members of Sigma Chi fraternity and Republicans. Senator Beall also laughingly recalled that he was made an honorary member of the Frostburg Rotary Club some years ago to "keep their attendance record up."

Greetings were extended to the

Arizona Senator Calls Neely Blast 'Un-Christian' Act

Without mentioning him by name, Senator Barry M. Goldwater, Arizona Republican, here last night made an obvious dig at Senator Matthew M. Neely, West Virginia Democrat, for the latter's criticism of President Eisenhower's churchgoing.

Speaking at the Rotary Golden Anniversary Dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, Goldwater said that just the day before it had been questioned whether a politician should be a member of the church of God.

Senator Neely Monday in Cleveland attacked President Eisenhower as "unqualified" for his office, criticized publicity given the chief executive's churchgoing and objected to the time he spends golfing and fishing.

Area Water Company Calls Meeting Thursday

Ziler said the meeting has been called for the reading of a proposed contract for the waterworks.

He urged that all members of the company be present.

The Weather

Yesterday's crisp sunny weather left no doubt that it was still March, but it was definitely warming up. The official high was 42, the low a cool 27, but unofficial thermometers hovered in the low and middle 40s all day. Today is supposed to be a little cloudy and milder.

Burns Received In Minor Blaze Fatal To Woman

Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, 50, of 55 Offutt Street, succumbed yesterday afternoon in Memorial Hospital as a result of burns sustained March 19 when a studio couch at her home ignited and set fire to her clothing.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, last night said that death was due to second and third degree burns about the lower part of her body. She died at 1:30 p. m.

Her husband, Charles Wright, stated on March 21 during a hearing in Police Court that fluid from a cigaret lighter apparently ignited her clothes.

He was fined $5 on two misdemeanor charges and later was taken to the State's Attorney office and released. Yesterday afternoon following the death of his wife, Wright was arrested by City Police and is being held in jail for Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

Police went to the home to investigate an alleged disturbance on March 19. They said Wright gave several versions of the accident, saying his wife refused to go to the hospital.

The body of Mrs. Wright is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home.

Rev. Arthur Scrogum will lead the congregation in the service. Mrs. Marguerite Snoeberger will provide organ music, while the choir will be under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Scrogum.

Next week the South Cumberland Ministerial Association will sponsor a special three-hour Good Friday service at Trinity Methodist Church, 122 Grand Avenue. Seven ministers will preach at this service and three others will provide choir and organ music.

4 New School Rooms Accepted

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County Schools, made a tour of inspection of the four recently constructed rooms at Johnson Heights Elementary School Monday and accepted them on behalf of the board.

Webster pointed out that a new furnace system also was installed. The construction of the rooms and furnace cost approximately $77,000. The four rooms are of the latest design, with plenty of light.

The rooms were put to use yesterday morning, Webster pointed out. Accompanying Webster and Johannes was a representative of a subcontractor.

Progress of work on the new LaVale School was also checked yesterday by Webster who said the work should be completed by the end of April.

Red Cross Outlook 'Little Brighter'

Ebert reported a total of $26,560.91 collected or pledged as of last night. Goal is $37,000.

Assembly Seeks Palatable Tax Raising Plan

28½ Million Needed To Balance Budget

ANNAPOLIS, March 29 (AP)—Legislative committees began casting about today for ways of making inevitable tax increases a little more palatable for the folks back home, with obvious displeasure expressed on thoughts of raising the sales tax.

The Senate Finance Committee sought to avoid hiking the sales tax that brought so much public resentment when enacted eight years ago.

The committee members had numerous suggestions but nobody came up with a concrete plan to raise the 28½ million dollars Maryland will need to balance the budget next year.

There was considerable support for:

1. Imposing the sales tax on articles between 14 and 51 cents as was done in the original act, and also for imposing the tax on certain items such as soap and detergents now exempt.

2. The state keeping some 3 million dollars it would give back to the counties and Baltimore City under a proposed "windfall" next year if a withholding plan goes into effect on income taxes.

Back Cigaret Tax

Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) proposed raising the present amusement tax from ½ of 1 per cent to 2 per cent and putting all the increase into the State treasury. The counties now get all the revenues.

Chairman Turnbull (D-Balto County) threw in a plan to repeal all the acts of the special 1950 General Assembly which drastically changed the sales tax act. This would produce about 8¼ million dollars, according to Walter E. Kennedy, chief of the sales tax division.

Another $2,250,000 could be brought in by dropping the exemption that now exists on products bought out of state that cannot be "readily obtainable" in Maryland.

Sen. James (D-Harford) proposed raising the inheritance taxes—from 1 to 2 per cent on direct inheritances. This would produce several million.

Another quarter of a million could be brought in by imposing the sales tax on gasoline not used on the highways, such as construction equipment, farm machinery and boats.

Hold Closed Session

Meanwhile, the Senate was expected to bring onto the floor tonight the House-passed budget bill calling for an expenditure of 269 million dollars. It was sent to the Finance Committee today, but since the committee worked with the House Ways and Means on the cuts from Gov. McKeldin's proposals it should come right out for consideration.

The problem of financing the big spending bill will be worked out before the end of the week under present plans.

McKeldin proposed increasing the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent and upping the income taxes next January from 2 to 3 per cent. He asked the withholding plan and also a plan to raise dependent credits on income taxes from $600 to $1,000. This would produce a surplus of nearly 7 million dollars the governor said could be used for school needs next year.

The cigaret levy has been complicated by the passage of several measures in this session to allow counties to tax cigarets. Baltimore City and Baltimore County already have a 3 cent levy.

Kennedy proposed this could be kept uniform by a State tax of 5 cents, of which 3 cents would be sent back to the local subdivisions.

Playground Beautification Is In Planning Stage Here

One of the most outstanding trends in recreation today is the movement to beautify playgrounds throughout the country, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

Pence said the move to make playgrounds more attractive was one of the things stressed at the National Recreation Association's district conference at Buck Hill Falls, Pa. which he and Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, program director, attended recently.

Every playground should be made a beauty spot of its neighborhood, and should enhance the value of the property it borders, G. Leslie Lynch, NRA planner and designer, told the conference.

Pence said Lynch urged all recreation leaders to make every effort to prevent public playgrounds from becoming eyesores, since children, as well as adults, desire to play in attractive surroundings.

Pence said such a program has reached the planning stage in Cumberland, and will be accomplished as soon as possible.

Two things hold back the development here, he said.

The first is that Cumberland's playground facilities are so small, and the use of the grounds so concentrated that it is difficult to grow grass, shrubs and trees.

The second, he said, is that the department's requests for funds to carry out the program have been turned down.

Efforts in the beautification program will be continued, he promised, since state and national forestry departments are more than willing to cooperate.

Report Questions County Need For Purchasing Post

A question about the need for a full-time Allegany County purchasing agent, as proposed in a bill introduced last week by State Senator Robert B. Kimble, was raised yesterday in a report submitted to the County Board of Commissioners.

The report was submitted by William P. Durland, chairman of a committee named several months ago to check into the procedures of the county in regard to purchases. Durland said that a check into the situation shows that the funds spent by the county for materials and services directly does not warrant the employment of a full time purchasing agent or the establishment of a purchasing office.

A full report from the committee will be submitted in about 10 days. Durland is purchasing agent at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Commissioner James Orr said last night that in view of Durland's report he believes the question of a purchasing agent position should be held in abeyance. Possibly an enabling act, giving the county the authority to establish such a post, if needed, would solve the problem, Orr believes. He thinks it unwise for the General Assembly to adopt a mandatory act which would force the creation of the position.

Work Is Started On Bridge Deck And Water Line

Carpenters Prepare Forms For Abutments

Carpenters were busy on the site yesterday, preparing forms for the abutment to the bridge at Riverside Park, and supplies of steel rods for reinforcing the concrete deck are on hand.

The contracting firm, which built the West Side floodwall for the Corps of Engineers, was awarded the $43,567.50 contract last fall after the American Bridge Company built the superstructure under a $315,000 contract.

Also busy at the scene yesterday were Water Departemnt crews, who have completed excavation for a new 10-inch water line for Ridgeley.

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, said the city is tapping a 24-inch line on Greene Street at Water Street.

He said the line will be laid across the span as work progresses on the bridge.

Approaches for the span will be built at Riverside Park by the City of Cumberland with federal aid, and on the Ridgeley side by the West Virginia State Road Commission.

Art Show Patrons Place Judges' Choice Third

Assistants at the library yesterday completed the counting of ballots submitted by several hundred persons from various parts of the Tri-State area who saw the show. The exhibit ran from March 9 to March 23.

"Washington Bottom Farm," a large oil painting by A. D. Clem was the winner in the popular ballot. This farm is the property of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Case at Pinto. Second place went to "Winter Morning," an oil painting by Charlotte Brill. The blue ribbon winner as selected by the judges, "Winter's Late Sun," came in third.

Meeting Set April 7 On AFL Craft Contract

Area contractors met yesterday with officials of the Cumberland Building and Construction Trades Council to discuss a new contract covering the building industry here.

George W. Lucas, president of the council representing AFL craft unions, said the meeting, held in the AFL Labor Temple, recessed until April 7 at 2 p. m.

B&O, Train Crew Exonerated In Crossing Death

Inquest Held In Piedmont Accident

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and crew members of Train No. 3, the Diplomat, which struck and killed a Piedmont man on a crossing near that community March 21, have been exonerated from all blame in the accident.

An inquest into the death of William Oates, 46, was held yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Anna Abramson of Piedmont, at the request of Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County, W. Va.

After hearing the testimony of Paul E. Stark, 34, who was with Oates at the time of the mishap, and of crew members of the train and a tavernkeeper, the six-man jury gave a verdict that the B&O was not at fault in the accidental death.

After the collision the car was hurled to the side of the west bound track and Oates' body was found lying on the ground between the east and westbound tracks about 12 feet from the crossing.

Oates and Stark had been at a tavern located on the highway between Piedmont and Keyser, left there about 11:45 p. m. and drove to the Oates home in "Rat Tail" east of Piedmont.

Stark said he tried to get Oates to go to bed as he was going home. However, Oates drove the car back toward Piedmont and the vehicle became wedged on the crossing just before the passenger train came through about midnight.

Crewmen said the night was rainy and foggy, cutting down visibility. However Engineer Robert E. Pierce, operating the front two units of the four-unit Diesel, said he blew for the crossing as usual and was traveling between 43 and 45 miles an hour.

A signalling light was reported seen in the vicinity of the stalled car by the crewmen who applied the air in the Diesel but were unable to avoid hitting the car.

Veteran Guard Noncoms Receive Reserve Medals

Armed Forces Reserve medals and ribbons have been presented to two members of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, First Battalion, 115th Infantry of the Maryland National Guard.

They were awarded to First Sergeant Roy C. Hawse and Master Sergeant Jack L. Malone, battalion supply sergeant, in recognition of 10 years combined service in the regular armed forces and reserve unit.

The blue and gold ribbons were presented by Lt. Col. Robert C. Matlick, battalion commander, and Capt. Eugene M. Light, adjutant, in a brief ceremony during the regular drill of the unit at the National Guard Armory.

Sgt. Hawse, who enlisted in the Regular Army in October 1942, received basic training at Camp Atterbury, Ind., and was assigned to Company C., 308th Engineer Combat Battalion of the 83d Infantry.

He spent 17 months overseas in the ETO and saw service in England and on the continent. He received five battle stars for action in Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes, (Battle of the Bulge) Rhineland and Central Europe.

In the Regular Army he became a sergeant squad leader and was awarded a number of decorations. He was discharged from the Army in November 1945, enlisted in the local reserve unit in December 1947 and from the rank of private worked his way up to his present rating, which he has held for six years.

Sgt. Malone, enlisted in the Air Force in August 1941 and received basic training at Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss. He was overseas with the Far Eastern Air Force in New Guinea and participated in the Battle of Luzon.

He also was awarded a number of decorations while in the regular service, and rose to the rank of master sergeant in supply.

Sgt. Malone was discharged in December 1945 and enlisted in the local Guard December 12, 1946, the day it was activated.

He began as a staff sergeant and later became a master sergeant. The medals awarded Monday night were the first such medals given to any members of the local unit.

Teamsters Negotiate Two Pacts In City

Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), and the Tri-State Towel and Cloak Service signed a two-year contract Monday night, according to C. E. Stutzman, business agent of the union.

He said the pact covering seven employes of the firm includes a $5 a week wage increase and an increase in holiday pay.

Signed last Friday was a contract between the local and the Crites Transfer firm of this city.

Stutzman said the pact, which ends a strike called in November 1953, is a standard city freight agreement which includes health and welfare benefits.

Residents Give County Deeds

Residents of Harold Street in LaVale yesterday presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners right-of-way deeds for all of the properties except one along that street.

Several months ago a group of women from Harold Street appeared before the commissioners and asked for repairs to their street. At that time they were told that the county would need right-of-way deeds along the street before any repairs could be planned. The last of the deeds was acquired yesterday afternoon.

Other discussions about road repairs were heard at the session yesterday. One resident observed that for a short time the Post Office Department stopped mail deliveries on Rocky Gap Road, Mt. Pleasant Road and Old Hancock Road because of their condition. County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman said the mail deliveries were resumed without any repairs having been made.

Nial Cook of Ellerslie asked the commissioners if they could do anything about drainage around a wall on his property. Chapman was asked to investigate.

Two Men Face Trial In Court Today

Two men who have been held in the County Jail here since March 5 are scheduled for trial today before Chief Judge George Henderson on charges of grand larceny of 436 pounds of brass belonging to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

They are Charles E. Swandol, 113 Offutt Street, and Edward A. Swanger, 608 Virginia Avenue.

A criminal information against the two men was filed yesterday by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher along with their petitions and suggestions for an immediate trial as they waived their right to indictment by the grand jury. The theft of the railroad brass occurred February 17, according to the information.

Miss Crites Located

Mrs. John McLaughlin, 24 Virginia Avenue, said last night her sister, Miss Ollie M. Crites, 43, had been located in Baltimore where she was reported missing last March 9. The former local woman had been ill, Mrs. McLaughlin said, and was under a doctor's care.

Child Is Improving

Georgette Cline, 4-year-old daughter of Mrs. Margaret Butts, 877 Maryland Avenue, was reported slightly improved last night in Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted Monday for treatment of injuries suffered when she was struck by a car.

Marine Sergeant Coleman Is Named 'Top Recruiter'

Sgt. Coleman was selected as his district's "top recruiter," on the basis of his record during the past calendar year. During 1954, he exceeded his station's quota of 67 enlistees by 49 per cent when he enrolled an even 100 men.

In a statement for the publication, he recommends several points to all recruiters. Among these, he listed acquaintance with business people, news and radio personnel, governmental officials, leaders in all worthwhile organizations, the field of education and civic betterment, and others interested in the general public welfare and growth of the community.

In dealing with each young recruit, Sgt. Coleman said, the parents must be given every consideration, and he has found that parents have confidence in the recruiter who will give them honest answers to their questions.

Dies Six Hours After Arrest

A 37-year-old prisoner in City Jail was found hanging in his cell yesterday evening, six hours after he had been taken into custody for investigation.

Authorities identified him as Joseph A. Washington, 1018 Gay Street. Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, last night said death was caused by asphyxiation due to hanging, and he termed it suicide.

The prisoner, according to police, used a belt to hang himself and his body was found about 6:15 p. m. on a routine check of the cells by Officer Carl Williams.

Two Pairs Of Pants

When a prisoner is taken into custody, police said, they remove a belt or anything else the person could end his life with. When Washington was "frisked" by police at 12:15 p. m. they did not find a belt.

When the victim's body was cut down from the top section of the cell bars it was found that he was wearing two pairs of khaki pants when arrested. The belt was on the inside pair.

Officer Williams had made a check of the cell block about 5:20 p. m. yesterday and said everything apparently was in order in Washington's cell.

Use Resuscitator

When he later found the man hanging by his belt he notified Sgt. Clarence Roby, and the two policemen used the department's resuscitator in an effort to revive the man but were unable to do so.

They said the resuscitator was used for about 20 minutes. Washington was picked up by Officer Louis Downey in connection with the theft of a garden tractor from the Montgomery Ward Store lot on South George Street. Lt. James E. Van, of the City Police Detective Bureau, who questioned Washington yesterday afternoon, said Washington was being held in City Jail overnight for questioning today in the State's Attorney's Office.

A native of Cumberland, Washington was a laborer and did odd jobs, according to authorities. He was born September 1, 1917 and was a son of John Curtis Washington and Mary (Fields) Washington.

The body is at Stein's Funeral Home.

Sen. Goldwater Greeted

Senator Goldwater Urges Devotion To Rotary Ideals

A united America, devoted to America, devoted to Christ and devoted to the principles of service exemplified by Rotary International can succeed in overcoming the threat of both Communism and Socialism.

That conclusion was reached by United States Senator Barry M. Goldwater, Arizona Republican, who adressed some 180 Rotarians from eight Maryland and West Virginia clubs in a Golden Anniversary Dinner last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Senator Goldwater's talk was in the form of an answer to three questions. They were (1) Do you want to be a Rotarian? (2) Do you want to be a Christian? and (3) Do you want to be an American?

The speaker began his discussion on the first question because the dinner was being held in observance of the 50th anniversary of the founding of Rotary in Chicago in 1905. He explained that the other service clubs have followed the same general objectives of service to their communities and to their fellow man.

Senator Goldwater emphasized that a true Rotarian must give more than mere "lip service" to the ideals of the organization. "You must know the tune as well as the words," he said.

Concerning the will to live as a Christian, the Arizonan again stressed that there is much more to it than merely knowing words of the Bible. There must also be a willingness to live as the Bible suggests.

Finally, Senator Goldwater advised the Rotarians from Cumberland, Friendsville, Frostburg, Grantsville, Keyser, Lonaconing, Oakland and Piedmont to recall those features that have made America strong and free.

Other democracies in the past have failed because they have relied upon the strength of arms, the strength of money or mere physical strength, he asserted.

He quoted Thomas Jefferson's words from the Declaration of Independence that all men are created equal with the rights of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness with which they have been endowed by the Creator.

He said that it is not necessary to establish a new set of principles as some people advocate today. A return to constant service to the objectives of the United States is all that is needed, he added.

In a final illustration, Senator Goldwater recalled the mythological story of Orpheus who led the men on his ship past the cliff where sang a beautiful but wicked siren, by singing an even louder and more beautiful song. Other sailors had been led astray by her singing and their boats had crashed on the rocks.

"If we sing the song of America louder, the people no longer will be attracted by the song of Socialism or the song of Communism," he added.

The principal speaker was introduced by his fellow United States Senator, J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg. Senator Beall recalled that when he and Goldwater became freshmen Senators together in 1953 he soon learned that they had three particular things in common—they are both Episcopalians, members of Sigma Chi fraternity and Republicans. Senator Beall also laughingly recalled that he was made an honorary member of the Frostburg Rotary Club some years ago to "keep their attendance record up."

Greetings were extended to the

Without mentioning him by name, Senator Barry M. Goldwater, Arizona Republican, here last night made an obvious dig at Senator Matthew M. Neely, West Virginia Democrat, for the latter's criticism of President Eisenhower's churchgoing.

Speaking at the Rotary Golden Anniversary Dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, Goldwater said that just the day before it had been questioned whether a politician should be a member of the church of God.

"I consider it highly un-Christian for any man to question the religious beliefs of another," Senator Goldwater asserted.

Senator Neely Monday in Cleveland attacked President Eisenhower as "unqualified" for his office, criticized publicity given the chief executive's churchgoing and objected to the time he spends golfing and fishing.

Area Water Company Calls Meeting Thursday

Ziler said the meeting has been called for the reading of a proposed contract for the waterworks.

Burns Received In Minor Blaze Fatal To Woman

Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, 50, of 55 Offutt Street, succumbed yesterday afternoon in Memorial Hospital as a result of burns sustained March 19 when a studio couch at her home ignited and set fire to her clothing.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, last night said that death was due to second and third degree burns about the lower part of her body. She died at 1:30 p. m.

Her husband, Charles Wright, stated on March 21 during a hearing in Police Court that fluid from a cigaret lighter apparently ignited her clothes.

He was fined $5 on two misdemeanor charges and later was taken to the State's Attorney office and released. Yesterday afternoon following the death of his wife, Wright was arrested by City Police and is being held in jail for Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

Police went to the home to investigate an alleged disturbance on March 19. They said Wright gave several versions of the accident, saying his wife refused to go to the hospital.

Wright was placed under arrest after authorities contacted State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, who ordered Wright taken into custody.

The body of Mrs. Wright is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home.

He was accompanied on the tour by Dana B. Johannes, architect from Silver Spring, who designed the addition to the present building.

Webster pointed out that a new furnace system also was installed. The construction of the rooms and furnace cost approximately $77,000. The four rooms are of the latest design, with plenty of light.

The rooms were put to use yesterday morning, Webster pointed out. Accompanying Webster and Johannes was a representative of a subcontractor.

Progress of work on the new LaVale School was also checked yesterday by Webster who said the work should be completed by the end of April.

Assembly Seeks Palatable Tax Raising Plan

28½ Million Needed To Balance Budget

ANNAPOLIS, March 29 (AP)—Legislative committees began casting about today for ways of making inevitable tax increases a little more palatable for the folks back home, with obvious displeasure expressed on thoughts of raising the sales tax.

The Senate Finance Committee sought to avoid hiking the sales tax that brought so much public resentment when enacted eight years ago.

The committee members had numerous suggestions but nobody came up with a concrete plan to raise the 28½ million dollars Maryland will need to balance the budget next year.

There was considerable support for:

1. Imposing the sales tax on articles between 14 and 51 cents as was done in the original act, and also for imposing the tax on certain items such as soap and detergents now exempt.

2. The state keeping some 3 million dollars it would give back to the counties and Baltimore City under a proposed "windfall" next year if a withholding plan goes into effect on income taxes.

Back Cigaret Tax

Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) proposed raising the present amusement tax from ½ of 1 per cent to 2 per cent and putting all the increase into the State treasury. The counties now get all the revenues.

Chairman Turnbull (D-Balto County) threw in a plan to repeal all the acts of the special 1950 General Assembly which drastically changed the sales tax act. This would produce about 8¼ million dollars, according to Walter E. Kennedy, chief of the sales tax division.

Another $2,250,000 could be brought in by dropping the exemption that now exists on products bought out of state that cannot be "readily obtainable" in Maryland.

Sen. James (D-Harford) proposed raising the inheritance taxes—from 1 to 2 per cent on direct inheritances. This would produce several million.

Another quarter of a million could be brought in by imposing the sales tax on gasoline not used on the highways, such as construction equipment, farm machinery and boats.

Hold Closed Session

The House Ways and Means Committee, studying the same problem, closed its doors to the public at today's sessions.

Meanwhile, the Senate was expected to bring onto the floor tonight the House-passed budget bill calling for an expenditure of 269 million dollars. It was sent to the Finance Committee today, but since the committee worked with the House Ways and Means on the cuts from Gov. McKeldin's proposals it should come right out for consideration.

The problem of financing the big spending bill will be worked out before the end of the week under present plans.

McKeldin proposed increasing the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent and upping the income taxes next January from 2 to 3 per cent. He asked the withholding plan and also a plan to raise dependent credits on income taxes from $600 to $1,000. This would produce a surplus of nearly 7 million dollars the governor said could be used for school needs next year.

Instead, the chairman of the Legislature's two money committees proposed the wider spread on the sales tax and a cigaret tax.

The cigaret levy has been complicated by the passage of several measures in this session to allow counties to tax cigarets. Baltimore City and Baltimore County already have a 3 cent levy.

Kennedy proposed this could be kept uniform by a State tax of 5 cents, of which 3 cents would be sent back to the local subdivisions.

Playground Beautification Is In Planning Stage Here

One of the most outstanding trends in recreation today is the movement to beautify playgrounds throughout the country, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

Pence said the move to make playgrounds more attractive was one of the things stressed at the National Recreation Association's district conference at Buck Hill Falls, Pa. which he and Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, program director, attended recently.

Every playground should be made a beauty spot of its neighborhood, and should enhance the value of the property it borders, G. Leslie Lynch, NRA planner and designer, told the conference.

Pence said Lynch urged all recreation leaders to make every effort to prevent public playgrounds from becoming eyesores, since children, as well as adults, desire to play in attractive surroundings.

Pence said such a program has reached the planning stage in Cumberland, and will be accomplished as soon as possible.

Two things hold back the development here, he said.

The first is that Cumberland's playground facilities are so small, and the use of the grounds so concentrated that it is difficult to grow grass, shrubs and trees.

The second, he said, is that the department's requests for funds to carry out the program have been turned down.

Efforts in the beautification program will be continued, he promised, since state and national forestry departments are more than willing to cooperate.

Report Questions County Need For Purchasing Post

A question about the need for a full-time Allegany County purchasing agent, as proposed in a bill introduced last week by State Senator Robert B. Kimble, was raised yesterday in a report submitted to the County Board of Commissioners.

The report was submitted by William P. Durland, chairman of a committee named several months ago to check into the procedures of the county in regard to purchases. Durland said that a check into the situation shows that the funds spent by the county for materials and services directly does not warrant the employment of a full time purchasing agent or the establishment of a purchasing office.

A full report from the committee will be submitted in about 10 days. Durland is purchasing agent at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Commissioner James Orr said last night that in view of Durland's report he believes the question of a purchasing agent position should be held in abeyance. Possibly an enabling act, giving the county the authority to establish such a post, if needed, would solve the problem, Orr believes. He thinks it unwise for the General Assembly to adopt a mandatory act which would force the creation of the position.

Work Is Started On Bridge Deck And Water Line

Carpenters Prepare Forms For Abutments

Work on the deck of the new Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge was started yerterday by the Wright Contracting Company.

At the same time, Water Department crews were preparing to lay the new Ridgeley water line across the span.

Carpenters were busy on the site yesterday, preparing forms for the abutment to the bridge at Riverside Park, and supplies of steel rods for reinforcing the concrete deck are on hand.

Given good weather, the company hopes to have the project completed in about 60 days.

The contracting firm, which built the West Side floodwall for the Corps of Engineers, was awarded the $43,567.50 contract last fall after the American Bridge Company built the superstructure under a $315,000 contract.

The onset of winter, however, prevented the completion of the work, which includes the construction of a deck and sidewalks and final painting.

Also busy at the scene yesterday were Water Departemnt crews, who have completed excavation for a new 10-inch water line for Ridgeley.

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, said the city is tapping a 24-inch line on Greene Street at Water Street.

He said the line will be laid across the span as work progresses on the bridge.

Approaches for the span will be built at Riverside Park by the City of Cumberland with federal aid, and on the Ridgeley side by the West Virginia State Road Commission.

Art Show Patrons Place Judges' Choice Third

Assistants at the library yesterday completed the counting of ballots submitted by several hundred persons from various parts of the Tri-State area who saw the show. The exhibit ran from March 9 to March 23.

"Washington Bottom Farm," a large oil painting by A. D. Clem was the winner in the popular ballot. This farm is the property of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Case at Pinto. Second place went to "Winter Morning," an oil painting by Charlotte Brill. The blue ribbon winner as selected by the judges, "Winter's Late Sun," came in third.

Meeting Set April 7 On AFL Craft Contract

Area contractors met yesterday with officials of the Cumberland Building and Construction Trades Council to discuss a new contract covering the building industry here.

George W. Lucas, president of the council representing AFL craft unions, said the meeting, held in the AFL Labor Temple, recessed until April 7 at 2 p. m.

B&O, Train Crew Exonerated In Crossing Death

Inquest Held In Piedmont Accident

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and crew members of Train No. 3, the Diplomat, which struck and killed a Piedmont man on a crossing near that community March 21, have been exonerated from all blame in the accident.

An inquest into the death of William Oates, 46, was held yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Anna Abramson of Piedmont, at the request of Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County, W. Va.

After hearing the testimony of Paul E. Stark, 34, who was with Oates at the time of the mishap, and of crew members of the train and a tavernkeeper, the six-man jury gave a verdict that the B&O was not at fault in the accidental death.

After the collision the car was hurled to the side of the west bound track and Oates' body was found lying on the ground between the east and westbound tracks about 12 feet from the crossing.

Oates and Stark had been at a tavern located on the highway between Piedmont and Keyser, left there about 11:45 p. m. and drove to the Oates home in "Rat Tail" east of Piedmont.

Stark said he tried to get Oates to go to bed as he was going home. However, Oates drove the car back toward Piedmont and the vehicle became wedged on the crossing just before the passenger train came through about midnight.

Crewmen said the night was rainy and foggy, cutting down visibility. However Engineer Robert E. Pierce, operating the front two units of the four-unit Diesel, said he blew for the crossing as usual and was traveling between 43 and 45 miles an hour.

A signalling light was reported seen in the vicinity of the stalled car by the crewmen who applied the air in the Diesel but were unable to avoid hitting the car.

Veteran Guard Noncoms Receive Reserve Medals

Armed Forces Reserve medals and ribbons have been presented to two members of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, First Battalion, 115th Infantry of the Maryland National Guard.

They were awarded to First Sergeant Roy C. Hawse and Master Sergeant Jack L. Malone, battalion supply sergeant, in recognition of 10 years combined service in the regular armed forces and reserve unit.

The blue and gold ribbons were presented by Lt. Col. Robert C. Matlick, battalion commander, and Capt. Eugene M. Light, adjutant, in a brief ceremony during the regular drill of the unit at the National Guard Armory.

Sgt. Hawse, who enlisted in the Regular Army in October 1942, received basic training at Camp Atterbury, Ind., and was assigned to Company C., 308th Engineer Combat Battalion of the 83d Infantry.

He spent 17 months overseas in the ETO and saw service in England and on the continent. He received five battle stars for action in Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes, (Battle of the Bulge) Rhineland and Central Europe.

In the Regular Army he became a sergeant squad leader and was awarded a number of decorations. He was discharged from the Army in November 1945, enlisted in the local reserve unit in December 1947 and from the rank of private worked his way up to his present rating, which he has held for six years.

Sgt. Malone, enlisted in the Air Force in August 1941 and received basic training at Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss. He was overseas with the Far Eastern Air Force in New Guinea and participated in the Battle of Luzon.

He also was awarded a number of decorations while in the regular service, and rose to the rank of master sergeant in supply.

Sgt. Malone was discharged in December 1945 and enlisted in the local Guard December 12, 1946, the day it was activated.

He began as a staff sergeant and later became a master sergeant. The medals awarded Monday night were the first such medals given to any members of the local unit.

Teamsters Negotiate Two Pacts In City

Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), and the Tri-State Towel and Cloak Service signed a two-year contract Monday night, according to C. E. Stutzman, business agent of the union.

He said the pact covering seven employes of the firm includes a $5 a week wage increase and an increase in holiday pay.

Signed last Friday was a contract between the local and the Crites Transfer firm of this city.

Stutzman said the pact, which ends a strike called in November 1953, is a standard city freight agreement which includes health and welfare benefits.
